Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The administration cracked the whip today for its pet four billion 880 million dollar spending program.

Climaxing a wild day on Capitol hill, the Democrats held a caucus late this afternoon to soothe insurgents in their own ranks and to grease the ways once again for early passage of the bill that will clothe President Roosevelt with unprecedented powers for spending public money.

The house leadership, however, was forced to compromise in connection with amendments to the bill. It appeared extremely doubtful tonight that the measure will be passed tomorrow, as was originally planned. It was the first test of strength between the administration and the insurgents.

Pet Projects, Bonus Factors.

The insurgents, principally from the south and far west, had revolted against the bill because their favorite projects were not specifically mentioned therein, also because they felt the program was a "sop" substitute for immediate payment of the veterans' bonus to which the administration is opposed.

Majority Leader Joseph Byrns and Representative James Buchanan, chairman of the house appropriations committee, were summoned to the White House as the revolt spread.

When Byrns returned he said that the President wanted the bill passed with no strings attached and there could be no earmarking of the funds. The speaker personally carried this message to the caucus.

39 Democrats Balk.

Speeches followed in which the members declared they had been elected on Roosevelt's name and would stand by him, although one Democrat declared the bill unconstitutional, according to reports of what happened within the closed meeting. Then the compromise was agreed upon and was accepted by a vote of 190 to 42, with 39 members declaring they would not be bound by the action.

The gag rule reported out by Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], Tammanyite and chairman of the house rules committee, provided for only three hours' debate on the huge spending measures. It also provided that only amendments from the appropriations committee should be considered in order.

Caucus Changes the Rule.

The caucus agreement, however, on the rule by which the bill will be considered retained the three hour limit on general debate, but provided that amendments could be made from the floor to sections of the bill providing for the extension of the lifetime of various New Deal agencies in the discretion of the President.

Minority Leader Bertrand Snell, under the O'Connor rule, will be permitted an amendment asking that the huge fund be distributed among the several states in proportion to their unemployed and that the money be expended through private contracts.

The house session was brief but tumultuous. Adjournment was hurried by Democratic leaders when it looked as though both sides would ride roughshod over the huge spending scheme. After the gag rule, amended at the caucus later, had been intro-

Hunt Six Who Forced Jail, Tarred Couple

Elkins, W. Va., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Six masked marauders are being sought tonight for prying off the doors of the city jail, removing a man and a girl prisoner, taking them to the Davis and Elkins college campus, stripping them, and coating them with coal tar and feathers last night.

The man prisoner so treated is Peter Rimo, 57. He will be released from custody in a few hours. The girl, Sylvia Tingler, 19, has 20 more days to serve. Both were in jail on charges of being drunk, disorderly, and resisting arrest.

Tar Quickly Removed.

They were returned to the jail by the town's night policeman, J. K. Parsons, early today. By that time they had removed the tar and feathers, donning the clothes which the six had stripped from them. Parsons was at the other end of town when the six men advanced on the jail with a crowbar. They pried off the jail doors and took the prisoners from their cells. On the campus the two were stripped and coal tar was smeared on them, then feathers.

The leader, according to the girl, told them: "If you don't get out of town, worse than this is going to happen to you."

The six dropped the clothes, the girl said, and fled.

Shouts Bring Policeman.

The town night policeman was summoned by the loud shouts of Rimo. The girl got into Rimo's house before the policeman found her. She had removed the tar and was reclothed.

After they were taken back to the jail the couple laughed about their experience. They said they each had been given a blanket, because the temperature was below zero. This is the home town of Gov. H. G. Kump.

Find Dole a Prosperous Business; Land in Jail

PARIS, Jan. 22.—An elegantly dressed woman and a gentleman smoking fancy cigarets yesterday were observed as they got out of a taxi and took places in a line of unemployed waiting to receive the government dole. The observing policeman hauled them to the station. There it was revealed the gentleman, M. Emilien Leger, 28 years old, made a business of collecting the dole at four different places.

FAILS TO LOOK UNDER BED FOR A WOMAN; SHOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Just how dangerous it is for an elderly gentleman to retire in Paris without looking under the bed and in the linen closet to see if a woman is around is illustrated by the case of Raoul Broquet, 65 years old, chemical engineer.

As Broquet was falling asleep last night gunfire broke forth from the clothes closet. The engineer felt a keen pain in his shoulder, but, undaunted, grabbed a sword off the wall and, despite the darkness, assaulted the closet.

The firing suddenly ceased and Broquet found himself grappling with a woman. Much to his surprise he discovered that it was his former mistress, aged 61 years, who never forgave Broquet for jilting her. Broquet, furious, picked the woman up and threw her out the window. She landed on two chairs in the courtyard, fracturing her hip.

'Heart Balm' Suits Barred in Indiana Bill

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Indiana's only woman lawmaker, Representative Roberta West Nicholson, today introduced in the Indiana lower house a bill barring henceforth all civil suits for breach of promise, alienation of affections, and kindred remedies.

Mrs. Nicholson is a daughter-in-law of Meredith Nicholson, Hoosier author and United States ambassador to Venezuela. Her bill would prohibit any "heart balm" actions not begun within sixty days of the taking effect of the act, which carries an emergency clause.

Measure Provides Fine.

Any person, including litigant, attorney, or witness, would be subject to a fine of $100 to $1,000, to which might be added a sentence of one to five years, for abetting such an action.

The measure also would make it unlawful for any person, either as litigant or attorney, to name any corespondent or participant in misconduct in any suit for divorce, separate maintenance, annulment of marriage, or custody or care of children except on direct order of a competent court.

"I am convinced most actions for breach of promise and seduction have extortion as their chief motive," said Mrs. Nicholson. "This I seek to prevent through adoption of this bill."

Terms Money no Real Solace.

Mrs. Nicholson pointed out that men rarely sue for breach of promise and raised a question as to just how a woman would be injured if a man backed out of an engagement to marry.

"Surely a suit to recover money as damages for the broken romance cannot soothe her if love was genuine," she said.

VACUUM USED TO SAVE HANDS, FEET OF FROST VICTIM

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 22.—(AP)—An ingenious "defrosting" apparatus for human application, made by a doctor and a tinsmith, appeared tonight to have saved the hands and feet of Walter Rodney, 40, from amputation.

Rodney was found nearly frozen to death in the snow last Friday. Dr. R. C. Riley, laboratory chief at Regina General hospital, called in a tinsmith and with permission of hospital authorities and the patient's physician tried his experiment.

Riley's apparatus was arranged to cover the frozen members in an airtight compartment and the air was withdrawn, creating a vacuum. Heat was applied and the vacuum slowly drew out the frost.

TWO WITNESSES TELL OF SEEING LINDY SUSPECT

Deed Planned for Months, State Says.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

(Picture on Back Page.)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The Lindbergh baby kidnaping was carefully planned by Bruno Hauptmann for months before the child was stolen from its nursery the night of March 1, 1932.

This was asserted today by witnesses at the trial before Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard of Hauptmann for the murder of the son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Two witnesses testified that they saw the German ex-convict in the vicinity of the Lindbergh estate before the kidnaping, presumably looking the ground over. A series of other witnesses declared that the lumber used in constructing the kidnap ladder came from a Bronx lumber yard where Hauptmann worked and where he purchased $9.32 worth of boards in December, 1931, more than two months before the kidnaping.

Call Lumber Expert Today.

Tomorrow, Arthur Koehler, an expert in the identification of lumber, will tell the jury how the kidnap ladder lumber was traced and also point out that one board used in building the ladder came from the floor of the attic in the house where Hauptmann lived. The kidnap ladder was admitted into evidence this morning over the objections of defense attorneys.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz announced that he would complete the state's case tomorrow. Koehler may be his last witness, but there are reports that several other witnesses have been held to furnish a climax to the prosecutor's case.

At the conclusion of the state's case Attorney C. Lloyd Fisher will make the opening defense statement and Hauptmann will be put on the stand immediately as the first witness in his own behalf. There is a possibility that the defendant may start his testimony tomorrow afternoon, although his lawyers have expressed a hope that he can take the stand at the beginning of a morning session when he will be refreshed by sleep for the long ordeal before him.

Glares at Farmer.

Millard Whited, a Sourland mountain lumberman and farmer, drawled out his story about Hauptmann lurking near the Lindbergh home, unmindful of the dark looks cast at him by Hauptmann. The defendant seemed flushed today and his eyes were bright as if he were feverish, but his condition is healthy, a jail physician said.

Whited was garbed for the occasion in his Sunday suit.

"I saw a stranger on two occasions," he testified. "The first was about Feb. 18, 1932 [eleven days before the kidnaping], and the second was about Feb. 22. I was driving my car home for dinner the first time. It was late afternoon. I saw Hauptmann step out of the bushes about half a mile from the Lindbergh home. He stood there looking up and down the road."

On the second occasion, the witness said, he saw Hauptmann "standing at a crossroads" about three-quarters of a mile from the Lindbergh home. The defendant was wearing a gray suit, a felt hat with the brim turned down, and was carrying an overcoat on his arm, he testified.

Might Have Been Whately.

Attorney Fisher cross-examined Whited, attempting to throw suspicion both on the witness himself and on Ollie Whately, the Lindbergh butler, who died a year later, as possible kidnapers. The witness admitted that he did not know Whately and the "stranger" might have been Whately. "Did Whately look like Hauptmann?" was one of the queries put to him.

"I don't think so," was the answer.

The cross-examination was lengthy, but at the end Prosecutor Wilentz asked him again, pointing to the scowling Hauptmann:

"Is this the man you saw on those occasions?"

"It is," said Whited firmly.

Next Witness Positive, Too.

No less positive was Charles Rossiter, the next witness. In February, 1932, he testified, he was a traveling representative of an organization which staged amateur theatricals and made many trips about New Jersey.

"Have you ever seen Bruno Richard Hauptmann?" he was asked.

"I have," said Rossiter, turning to face Hauptmann. The witness had an eye affliction which gave him the appearance of crossed eyes, but he fo-

Dixie Freezes; More Cold Is Forecast Here

With biting cold extending from northern Alberta in Canada to sunny Dixie yesterday, Chicago today awaits the arrival of a new cold snap. Forecaster W. P. Day last night predicted "snow flurries and severe cold" with subzero readings by nightfall.

The severe cold will be brief, for by tomorrow, the forecast says, Chicago will have the same relief it enjoyed yesterday when the mercury rose to 18 in the afternoon. The new wave is expected to bring lower readings further east and south in the territory covered by the last wave, which reached into northwestern Florida yesterday.

Storm Whips Gulf Area.

Snowballs were rolled in Pensacola on the Florida west coast as a storm, part of the general winter conditions, whipped up the gulf all the way from Mexico and Texas. The new cold is expected to extend down into southern Florida. The forecast warned that freezing weather may be expected by the sun bathers in Miami Beach.

All through the so-called sunny south, winter chilled the unwary and sent farmers scurrying to protect their imperiled crops. Alabama, struck by a blizzard, western Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Arkansas felt winter's cold grasp, as records of many years standing were broken.

The Rio Grand valley suffered heavily. Damage was heavy to crops. Cattle froze to death by the thousands in Texas.

Cold Adds to Flood Misery.

Southerly winds, which caused Chicago's rising temperature yesterday, alleviated conditions to some extent. But in Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, and Mississippi, where rivers have overflowed their banks, flooded plains, and inundated highways, freezing weather continued to add to the general misery.

Westward the weather reports were improved. California returned to near normal weather after experiencing freezing temperatures. Heavy snow, however, continued through Colorado and up into the northwest. A chinook wind, which blew up suddenly, thawed the snow, which with an ensuing rainfall threatened flood conditions. Trains of three transcontinental railroads were tied up by high waters and slides in the Cascade mountains.

But last night the northern prairies states began to feel the sting of the new cold wave as strong winds swept it down from arctic Canada.

The mercury tumbled to 30 below at Devils Lake, N. D.; 16 below at Bismarck, N. D.; 14 below at Huron, S. D.; and in Minnesota, 45 below at Thief River Falls, 28 below at Moorhead, 24 below at Duluth, and 20 below at Minneapolis.

On the east coast, New York's full force of 4,000 shovelers was called out last night to clear up the city's heaviest snowfall of the season. While it was moderately cold there, to the north, Boston and several Maine cities had temperatures above freezing.

MOTORIST ASKS PEDESTRIAN FOR $1,000 IN SUIT

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Ernest T. Faulkner, an automobile salesman, is asking $1,000 as recompense for severe mental shock and severe nervous disorders following an accident when his car hit Abram A. Ostrander, a pedestrian, some time ago. Ostrander has sued Faulkner for $15,000 damages. The accident occurred Dec. 21, 1932, at Franklin and Adams streets.

SLAYER CALMLY DESCRIBES BUS MURDER TO JURY

Semple Is Unshaken by Own Deed.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

As calmly as if he were nailing down shingles, Albert Semple, a roofer by trade, sat on the witness stand in the Criminal court of Judge William V. Brothers yesterday and told a jury how he shot and killed James J. Kelly, a dispatcher for the Chicago Motor Coach company, during the strike against the company last summer and fall.

ALBERT SEMPLE.

Semple was a witness for the state against William Taber and Joseph Kehoe, officials of the street car men's union who are on trial charged with abetting the murder of Kelly and other strike violence against the bus company. The union that called the strike is an affiliate of the street car men's organization.

Testifies Without Emotion.

The story of Semple, who is 37 years old and lives at 4747 Patterson avenue, was related without the slightest show of emotion. In level tones he told of hiring himself out as a member of a gang of sluggers and bus window breakers.

He was equally calm as he described how he shot Kelly on a street car at Cicero and Grand avenues after the dispatcher had been beaten by two others of the slugging crew. This was early in the morning of last Sept. 26.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorney Michael Ahern Semple was just as cold. Ahern brought out, however, that Semple was "partly intoxicated" at the time of the murder and in killing Kelly was acting contrary to the orders of Earl Renner, leader of the slugging gang. Renner has testified that he was paid by Kehoe for the violence.

Point Made by Defense.

This admission by Semple was considered of importance by the defense because the state's evidence thus far has shown that Renner was the only link between the gangsters and the union officials. Defense counsel asserted that Kehoe and Taber could not be accused of conspiracy in the murder if Renner, their alleged agent, had not approved of the slaying.

Semple's story of the killing of Dispatcher Kelly was told under the questioning of First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley.

On the night of Sept. 25, a few hours before the murder, Semple testified, most of the gang gathered in a cigar store at North and Cicero avenues. Present, he said, were Joseph White, John Bretschneider, Edward Nacki, a street car employé, and William Semple, brother of the witness. All of these men are under indictment with Renner, Semple, and 21 others, but have been granted trials separate from this one.

Semple Gets Gun and Beer.

Renner was not there, but his pistol was given to Albert Semple by John Lefevre, a street car employé also under indictment. White was given a blackjack. Semple then drank a few glasses of beer in a nearby saloon, he said.

"After that, with my brother Bill driving," Semple went on, "White, Bretschneider, Nacki, and I rode in an automobile to Cicero and Diversey avenues.

"A street car was coming south in Cicero avenue. White and Bretschneider got on the car. We followed in the automobile to Grand avenue. Then Nacki and I got on the street car. My brother stayed in the automobile. We had seen Kelly sitting in the street car in his bus uniform. [Kelly was on his way home from a north side garage of the motor coach company.]

Dispatcher Beaten and Shot.

"Nacki and White went up to Kelly, took his hat off and started to beat him. He slumped in the seat and seemed to reach for his back pocket. I pulled the gun and fired twice. I shot Kelly. He cried 'O' as he lay there.

"Had Kelly ever attacked you or did you have any grievance against him?" Prosecutor Crowley asked.

"No," Semple replied.

After the shooting, Semple testified, he and the others jumped off the street car and Semple threw the smoking gun on the tracks. As the men ran north in Cicero avenue Semple, Bretschneider, and Nacki were seized by a police squad. They were taken to the Cragin police station and later to a hospital, where Kelly was still alive.

"I guess he looked pretty bad," was Semple's only comment on the stand about the last moments of the man he had mortally wounded.

Invited Into Gang by Renner.

Earlier, under the questioning of Mr. Crowley, Semple told how he had joined the slugging gang. He said he did not know Taber and Kehoe but had been acquainted with Renner and Bretschneider for several years. Last Aug 20, Semple testified, Renner asked him if he was willing to go out with the gang and he replied that he was.

On the night of Aug. 22, he went on, Renner, Bretschneider, and White got some rocks to throw through bus windows and he drove them to the 6000 block on Addison street. They left the car and a few minutes later came running back, but Semple did not see what they had done, he testified.

"The morning after that," he said, "I drove Renner to the street car union headquarters [332 South Ashland avenue]. He went in and came out later and gave me $10."

Tells of Other Expeditions.

Semple then told of expeditions on following nights when Renner and his vandal crew stoned buses. Semple did not see any of the actual attacks, he said, but drove the men away from the scenes.

On the night of Aug. 24, he testified, he and Bretschneider boarded a westbound bus in Diversey parkway.

"When we got to Milwaukee avenue I went to the front of the bus and hit the driver with my fist," Semple said calmly. "Bretschneider and I were arrested by a police squad. We were released on bond. I don't know who put up the bond."

Semple declared that he drove Renner to the union headquarters three times but never entered with him. The total amount he received from Renner was $43, he said.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

In cross-examining Semple, Defense Attorney Ahern first asked if the witness had not quarreled with Renner in the county jail last Saturday after the story of Renner's testimony appeared in the newspapers. Semple denied this.

He was then questioned about the events which immediately preceded the killing of Kelly.

Q.—You made up your mind that night to slug Kelly? A.—No, I was asked to.

Q.—Did you tell Renner what you were going to do? A.—No.

Q.—You were acting without his consent and approval? You knew he didn't approve? A.—Yes. I had orders from somebody else.

Not Allowed to Give Name.

Semple was not allowed to name this "somebody else." Renner has testified that Semple and his accomplices were urged to "get" Kelly by John Kett. Kett, a street car union steward at the north side car barns, is under indictment.

Attorney Ahern continued the cross-examination.

"You have testified on direct examination," Mr. Ahern said, "that you shot Kelly in the street car, as he slumped in his seat, after Nacki and White had beaten him. You said also that you thought Kelly might be reaching for something in his back pocket—possibly a gun. Did anyone suggest to you that you should say that in order to justify a self-defense motive for yourself?"

"No," Semple replied.

Q.—Were you drunk? A.—I was partly intoxicated—I'd say about half drunk.

"Meant to Scare Kelly."

Q.—You had a mean streak that night? A.—I wouldn't say that. I didn't shoot Kelly intentionally. I was going to fire between the car seats to scare him.

Q.—Did you think he needed more scaring after the beating Nacki and White gave him? A.—I wasn't sure. I was excited. It was the first time I had had a pistol in my hand in my whole life.

Attorney Ahern then questioned Semple about his domestic life. The witness said he was divorced by his wife two years ago. He is the father of four children.

"Are you married now?" Ahern asked.

"No," Semple said after some hesitation. He admitted he had been living for two years with a woman whom he referred to as his "future wife."

Denies Promise of Immunity.

He then denied that the state had given him any promise of immunity for testifying against Kehoe and Taber.

Q.—But you do expect to be dealt with leniently? A.—I figured that if I told the whole truth I might get a little leniency.

Semple will be on the stand for redirect examination by the state this morning. It is expected that his brother William will be the next witness.

ROME HAS FIRST SNOW SINCE 1929; 20 DIE AS STORMS HIT BALKANS

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Twenty persons died today as King Winter blew both hot and cold at Europe. Rome had its first snowfall since the fall of 1929. A number of Italian trains were delayed, including some returning with week-end skiing parties. They were marooned without food until the arrival of snow plows.

The Balkans, too, had snow, driven by whistling wind storms. Jugo-Slavia and Rumania were buried deeply, the drifts seriously hampering rescue operations at the "Serbski-Balkan" lignite mine at Zajetchar, Jugo-Slavia, where an explosion yesterday killed 11 miners, injured 12 and left others unaccounted for.

The raging snowstorm brought death to 10 Jugo-Slav soldiers stationed along the Jugo-Slav-Albanian border. The bodies of seven were recovered; snow blocked the search for the others. At least six persons froze to death in Hungary.

Jails Woman; Youth to Psychiatrist.

Two cases, in which automobiles owned and driven by relief clients figured in trafic violations, drew the severe censure of Judge John Gutknecht yesterday in the Trafic court. Both machines bore 1934 license plates.

One case was that of Mrs. Benjamin Bernstein, 35 years old, 2654 Hirsch street, mother of two children, who admitted perjuring herself to avoid disclosure that she was an automobile owner, although on relief.

Given a summons Jan. 3 for passing a red trafic light, Mrs. Bernstein convinced the court it was a case of mistaken identity and that she did not own an automobile. Leaving the courtroom, Mrs. Bernstein confided in a spectator: "I do own a car, but I'm on relief and not supposed to, so I lied." The "spectator" was a detective, and Mrs. Bernstein was rearraigned.

Entertains Leniency Plea.

Her case was continued until Monday, Mrs. Bernstein admitted her guilt and Judge Gutknecht ordered her detained over night and fined $25. He entertained a motion to vacate the fine yesterday, however, after Mrs. Bernstein pleaded for leniency.

"She didn't know how serious perjury is," declared Judge Gutknecht. "I don't believe in sentencing women, particularly mothers, to long terms in a case like this, and I recommend to the state's attorney not to prosecute her for perjury." The recommendation was agreed to by the prosecutor.

The other case concerned Frank Koss Jr., 2657 Southport avenue, son of a relief client who owned the automobile, and who was arrested twice last week for trafic violations.

Remove Auto's Plates.

When it was disclosed that his father was a relief client, the court ordered the state and city license plates removed from the car. At that time, Dr. David Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, examined the youth, and declared him a borderline mental case.

A few days ago, Koss was rearrested, driving the machine without licenses. Yesterday Judge Gutknecht ordered him reëxamined by Dr. Rotman, and continued final disposition until April 20.

"The other day I had a deaf and dumb man in here who had been a violator of a trafic law," declared the judge. "Until the public wakes up and demands passage of a state driver's license law, accidents will continue."

Swerdlow Doesn't Give Up and Thus Defeats a Bandit

Jack Swerdlow, 4415 North Springfield avenue, was met by a robber yesterday as he entered the office of his Crystalk Leather Goods company at 320 West Adams street. The bandit seized a brief case in which Swerdlow was carrying $1,200. But Swerdlow didn't give up. He grabbed the holdup man. The robber broke loose and fled. As he ran, however, he dropped the brief case. Swerdlow picked it up and walked on into his office.

Buttree, dean of the college of Indian Wisdom, Santa Fe, were married here today by County Judge Joseph McGill. Seton was divorced from Mrs. Grace Gallatin Seton, Greenwich, Conn., Jan. 18. Seton is 74, his bride 45.

DEMAND 3 MORE OFFICES TO END AUTO TAG JAM

Thousands Stand in Cold at State's Bureau.

A demand that the state open temporary automobile license offices in the loop and on Chicago's south and north sides to relieve congestion at the west side office was voiced last night by M. J. Lanahan, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association.

Most of the 11,000 persons who sought state licenses yesterday had to wait on the sidewalk in the cold for half an hour or longer before even being admitted to the only existing office, at 120 South Ashland avenue. Police have set Friday as the deadline before starting to arrest delinquents.

"Temporary offices should be opened at once in the loop and on the north and south sides," Mr. Lanahan said. "If this is done the state will be able to clean up the greater part of the rush within a week.

Business Men Lack Time.

"The state should make it easier for car owners to buy licenses. Most men cannot afford to spend two or three hours in getting them, as is necessary at present. State officials ought to take cognizance of the situation and do something about it very promptly."

Yesterday's crowd at the license office was record-breaking. The bureau's full capacity with waiting outside eliminated, is about 9,000 a day, according to Assistant Secretary of State Stanley R. Kosinski, who is in charge. About 126,000 licenses have been sold by the office thus far.

Since there are 369,000 automobiles in the city, it would take seven weeks of capacity operation to supply them with state tags, if none sent their applications to Springfield.

Until near closing time, 5 p. m., between 200 and 500 car owners were jammed together in a line half a block long outside the west side office. About a third of them were women. Several prospective applicants arrived but upon learning how long they would have to wait, left at once. Two dozen policemen from the state highway, West Park, and city forces were on hand to keep order.

Double Waiting Inside.

Once inside, the car owners stood in long lines to get their applications approved, and again in other lines to reach a cashier. Some of them said it took more than an hour to get the license plates. Ten cashiers took in an estimated $160,000. However, Mr. Kosinski said the system had been improved to make it 50 per cent more efficient than it was a year ago.

About 3,000 motorists obtained city license windshield stickers at the city hall, more than on any previous day this season, according to George F. Lohman, deputy city collector. None had to wait outside the office, however, mainly because the procedure of getting city licenses is much simpler than in the case of state tags.

WINS $2,000 FOR LOSS OF PSYCHIC POWER IN CRASH

A jury before Judge Herbert S. Anderson of Bloomington, sitting in the Circuit court here, awarded damages of $2,000 yesterday to Mrs. Annabell Waring, 45 years old, 601 Diversey parkway, in her $5,000 personal injury suit against the Consumers Sanitary Coffee and Butter Stores. Mrs. Waring, a medium, through her attorney, Murphy O'Tate, charged that she lost her psychic powers as the result of injuries she incurred on May 18, 1933, when the street car in which she was riding was struck at 72d street and Stony Island avenue by a truck owned by the Consumers company.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Kidnaping for ransom would be punishable by death or life imprisonment without parole where the victim is harmed, under terms of a bill introduced today in the legislature of Arizona.

FIND NEW EXPLOSIVE OF GREAT POWER BUT ALMOST FOOL PROOF

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Discovery of a new high explosive, nitro ammonia—the first fool proof explosive—was announced today by the Du Pont company.

Twenty per cent stronger than T. N. T., the new stuff has been shot at with rifles, thrown into fires, bored with red hot irons, subjected to blow torches and beaten with 50 pound trip hammers without exploding.

The only thing that detonates it is a full size dynamite cartridge. The strongest commercial blasting caps, the announcement states, have failed to explode nitro ammonia.

It is called "ultimate in safety." It is even free from the headaches which dynamite causes among explosives handlers.

The stuff is a white solid. It resembles table salt caked hard, and is about the same weight. It works under water as well as in air, and does not freeze.

The technical name for it is nitramon, which indicates its composition. This is essentially nitrate of ammonia, containing 40 per cent of oxygen. The explosive was designed for blasting and stripping work.

PUBLIC ENEMY'S WIFE HAS LITTLE FUN, IT SEEMS

The home life of the wife of a public enemy is no bed of roses, according to Mrs. Clara Gibson, 35 years old, whose husband, Russell Gibson, an ex-convict, was slain by federal agents on Jan. 8 in a gun battle at 3920 Pine Grove avenue. The federal men were seeking Gibson as a suspect in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker.

In the Pine Grove avenue apartment agents arrested Mrs. Gibson. At the same time Arthur [Doc] Barker, another suspect in the Bremer case, was seized in another apartment. A few days later federal agents killed Fred Barker and his mother in Oklawaha, Fla. Last Sunday, in Atlantic City, Alvin Karpis, confederate of the Barkers, and a companion shot their way out of a police trap. They are now the objects of a widespread man hunt, which was centering in Michigan yesterday.

Mrs. Gibson, questioned yesterday by Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan after being held for more than two weeks by federal men, denied knowing any of the public enemies by their names. She lived a life of isolation, she said, and only was permitted to go for short automobile rides with her husband. She had no friends and was not allowed to write to her parents, respectable residents of Kansas City, she said.

After being questioned about her knowledge of jewelry robberies, in which Chief Sullivan thought her husband had had a part, she was released. She left the detective bureau in company with her attorney, Leo Klein.

CLIFFORD BARNES ELECTED HEAD OF COMMITTEE OF 15

Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Sunday Evening club, was elected president of the Committee of Fifteen at the annual meeting held yesterday in the Union League club. The committee is an organization of leading Chicago citizens active in stamping out vice conditions.

Other officers elected for the ensuing year were: Vice presidents, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Attorney Nathan William MacChesney, and Sol Kline; secretary, Albert H. Barber; treasurer, Guy Reed; assistant treasurer, Newton F. Gray. A. R. Bone was chosen as chairman of the executive committee, and Mark H. Thomas superintendent. Charles E. Miner was elected consultant.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe, secretary of the committee on plans for 1935, reported that the organization, which is supported entirely from voluntary subscriptions, began the new year without a deficit.

TRAIL OF KARPIS AND ALLY LEADS TOWARD CHICAGO

Monroe, Mich., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The widening man hunt for Public Enemies Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell spread along both sides of the Canadian border and over half a dozen states tonight in the belief the elusive gunmen were headed toward more familiar haunts in the vicinity of Chicago or the upper parts of Wisconsin or Michigan.

The chance that the two quick trigger gunmen might attempt to cross the boundary and perhaps continue toward Montreal, Karpis' old home, caused Ontario provincial police to keep a sharp lookout from Windsor south to Amherstburg.

It was considered more likely, however, that the fast fleeing gangsters were turning their stolen cars in the direction of the old middle west lairs of the late John Dillinger and Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd.

In Familiar Territory.

This territory is also more familiar to Karpis and his companion than the Ohio and Pennsylvania area where they have been desperately fleeing from federal agents since they shot their way from a police trap in Atlantic City on Sunday.

After losing the trail near Philadelphia early yesterday, authorities believed they had picked it up again today with the finding near here of a car which had been taken from Dr. H. H. Hunsicker, Allentown, Pa., physician and the son of a Pennsylvania state senator.

The pair who abducted the doctor and then released him after a wild 24 hour ride abandoned his car so hurriedly early today that the motor was still running when a rural mail carrier came upon it near a resort section of the Lake Erie shore line. Dr. Hunsicker's bag of instruments was found in the car.

Department of justice agents joined state police and Monroe officers in a search of resort cottages along the lake, while Ontario police took up the task on the Canadian side.

Sheriff Is Chagrined.

Meanwhile Sheriff Joseph Bairley of Monroe county is wishing he had stayed awake a little longer this morning. Armed with sawed off shotguns, machine guns and a description of the car, the sheriff and his deputies patroled U. S. 23, 24 and 25, which lead into Michigan from Toledo, O., all night. Just before dawn they went to bed and day deputies took charge.

The first call Deputy Albert Boss received was from Lasalle to investigate a car standing on the road. Boss found the car with the motor running, drove it back to Monroe [incidentally obliterating all the finger prints on the wheel], and parked it.

Two hours later Sherf Bairley woke up, wandered into the jail office and saw Boss' report. He recognized the license number at once and started the Michigan search for the fugitive kidnapers, after they had a two hour start.

The day force, the sheriff explained, had neglected to learn what the night force had been doing all night.

Doctor Found in Ohio.

Dr. Hunsicker was found trussed up with his own clothing in a rural grange hall near Wadsworth, O., a few miles from Akron. He said he was careful not to get a good look at his captors, but he appeared quite certain they were the much sought gunmen.

Dr. Hunsicker, who is a physician at the Allentown state hospital for the insane, said he was kidnaped near Quakerstown, Pa., about midnight.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

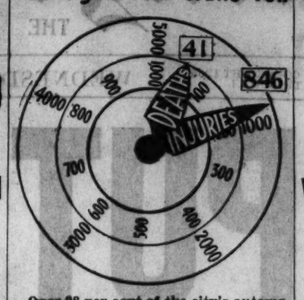
AVOIDABLE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile accidents are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

CRIPPLE KNOCKED DOWN BY TRUCK IS FEARED DYING

Robert Williams, 65 years old, 2900 Wilcox street, a cripple, was probably fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by a truck while waiting for a street car at Madison street and California avenue. The driver, Raymond Reese, 1036 West Madison street, took Williams to the county hospital and then notified the police.

John Warner, 49 years old, president of the Ekto Lithographing corporation, Streator, Ill., was taken to St. Luke hospital last night suffering from injuries incurred when the cab in which he was riding was hit by another car at Oak and La Salle streets. Doctors said he was not seriously hurt.

There were no deaths yesterday in Cook county and the 1935 motor toll remained at 48. The fatalities for the year within Chicago city limits yesterday totaled 41 and the number of injured in trafic accidents 846.

FLOODS A WORRY, SNOWFALL A JOY TO NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—New Orleans took on a carnival atmosphere today as thousands frolicked in the first real snow the city has seen in 36 years. Business was practically suspended and school rooms were left almost vacant as grownups and children alike flocked into the streets to engage in snow ball battles, build snow men and make merry in big fashion.

While only three-fifths of an inch of snow was officially recorded for the day, house tops and gardens of the city were covered with a mantle of white. In other parts of Louisiana and in Mississippi the matter was much more serious. At Monroe, La., the snow had reached a depth of eight inches this afternoon and was still falling in blinding flurries.

Both Louisiana and Mississippi viewed with increasing alarm the swelling rivers and smaller streams that have been pushed out of their banks and are inundating extensive areas. In some sections highways and railroads have been submerged.

It has been predicted that if present conditions continue the volume of water poured into the Mississippi by its tributaries will equal that of 1927, when many lives were lost and the property damage from floods ran into millions.

KIDNAP VICTIM'S BODY FOUND IN EASTERN CREEK

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The body of William Weiss, wealthy night life character whose kidnaping and slaying was attributed to the notorious "Tri-State gang," was recovered by harbor policemen today from Neshaminy creek, a short distance northeast of Philadelphia.

Authorities were directed to the spot yesterday by Martin Farrell, one of the several members of the gang captured last week in New York. The discovery ends a more than three month search for Weiss, who was kidnaped by three men last October as he drove up to his suburban home.

Body Held Under Water.

The body was found at the bottom of the stream under a bridge. It was wrapped in blankets and weighted down with irons.

Authorities began the use of grappling irons in the stream yesterday soon after Farrell pointed to the spot from which he said Weiss' body was thrown in the creek.

Police first linked the "Tri-State" band to the kidnaping when they smashed the headquarters of that mob in a series of raids here last month.

Authorities said they discovered at that time that $8,000 of the $100,000 ransom demand had been paid in a futile effort to obtain Weiss' release.

The hunt for the victim's body was directed to Neshaminy creek two nights ago in a statement Police Superintendent Joseph Le Strange said he obtained in New York from Robert Mais, leader of the gang.

Both Mais and his lieutenant, Walter Legenza, convicted killers, were returned to Richmond, Va., from which they shot their way to freedom three months ago in an attempt to cheat the electric chair.

Ordered to Die Feb. 2.

Three hours after their arrival there today from New York, they were taken before Judge John L. Ingram in Hustings court and told that they must die Feb. 2, for the murder of E. M. Huband, Federal Reserve bank truck driver. Their escape from the Richmond jail had prevented their electrocution set for last Nov. 1.

Both gangsters were brought into court. Legenza, whose two legs were broken, was carried in on a stretcher. Mais' right eye was blackened and he walked with difficulty because he still is carrying in his body six bullets that police shot into him before his trial.

HURT IN FALL ON ICE; DIES.

Peter Brodden, 74 years old, 7719 Coles avenue, died yesterday at the South Chicago hospital as a result of injuries incurred Dec. 20 when he fell on icy pavement at 89th street and Exchange avenue.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Secret indictments reported to have named at least three members of the Barker-Karpis gang were returned today by a federal grand jury in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker. Indictments fastening conspiracy charges on several others also were understood to have been returned.

Arthur [Doc] Barker, now in jail here, Alvin Karpis, and Harry Campbell, who escaped a police trap at Atlantic City Sunday and who are sought now, are the three reported named in the major indictments.

Witnesses today included Byron Bolton, arrested in Chicago the day Doc Barker was captured and Russell Gibson, indicted earlier as a ransom money peddler, was shot to death. Also before the jury were Elmer Farmer, Chicago innkeeper, and Harold Alderton, formerly of Bensenville, Ill., where was located the hideout in which Bremer was held 23 days.

It also was understood indictments in connection with handling of the ransom money may have included Farmer and Alderton. They were arrested in Chicago on the same day Barker was captured.

BANDIT KILLER OF MISSION PAIR SHOT TO DEATH

WUHU, Anhwei Province, China, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The leader of the communist bandits who murdered the Rev. and Mrs. John C. Stam, Chicago missionaries, has paid for the crime with his life, according to word received here today from south Anhwei.

The leader, the reports said, whose name was Ching Wei-chow, was shot within the last two weeks by Nationalist government troops who have been attempting to drive the Reds from the district.

Wounded, Wei-chow was carried away by his troops and later died. The pursuing soldiers found the grave of the former leader, disinterred the body, decapitated it and nailed the head to a post in the market place at Tunki as a warning against the perpetration of further outrages.

Tunki is 50 miles south Tsingteh, where the Stams were stationed and near which they were executed in cold blood after the community had been looted.

MOVIE TRAVELOG SHOWS INTIMATE VISITS TO STARS

Film Will Have Premiere Tomorrow Night.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

What Jules Verne accomplished in imagination seventy years ago, a voyage from the earth to the moon, has now come nearer to reality than ever before. Science, which has conquered the depths of the sea and has made possible the aerial circumnavigation of the earth, now projects the human eye and mind to within a few hundred miles of the moon. One may observe the "seas of quietness" there, the 17,000 foot mountains, the great craters that dot the moon's surface, and something that looks like a wall, 65 miles long.

What the great telescopes of Mount Wilson, Yerkes, Lick, Lowell and Harvard observatories have been able to find in the heavens, the most magnificent spectacles upon which human kind has ever gazed, beginning with the moon and reaching out past exploding suns and great spiral nebulae to the outermost galaxies of stars, have now been made available in a moving picture travelog through the universe.

Première on McKinlock Campus.

The première showing of this film, which has been made in Chicago under the direction of Ruroy Sibley, engineer and student of astronomy, will be given tomorrow and Friday evenings at Thorne hall on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university. The university presents the picture as a new venture in visual education and popular astronomy. Oliver J. Lee, professor of astronomy at the university, who has coöperated in the making of the film at the Spoor and Ahbe plant here, will interpret the pictures. Its presentation is declared to be the outstanding astronomical event of the season.

The traveler is taken from his comfortable seat in a theater into a view of an eclipse of the sun. Earth light becomes bluish, slaty, deadly. Cattle stop feeding, crickets begin to chirp, and dew forms on the earth grass. Then the corona of the sun blazes forth, the hydrogen prominences, the sun spots appear. In the core of one is a spot twice the size of the earth. Gigantic cyclones are seen. A bomb shoots out from a sun spot.

Friendly Visit to the Moon.

Then to the moon, which is so well known to astronomers that 25,000 objects on it have names. The great gray rock has no atmosphere and no moisture. Its "seas" are plains. Tycho crater comes into view, 60 miles in diameter, with mountains rising around it. Theophilus crater, with a mountain peak in its center 6,000 feet high. Plato and Copernicus craters, the Carpathians and the lunar Apennines, swing into view as though one observed from an airplane.

Mars is the next stopping point in a journey through the inner planets. Its polar caps, which are covered with snow that melts under the sun's heat, are plainly seen; also its broad belt, which may be vegetation, and its lines that have been called canals. There is some cloud movement here and the possibility that life exists on Mars is still admitted by the foremost astronomers. It must be a life different, however, from anything we know. Lowell, the astronomer, who spent a lifetime in studying Mars, was convinced that a great civilization exists there. We get a far view of it, and surely see snow and clouds and something that looks like a belt of green and growing things that fades with the seasons. Great engineering feats would be easier than on this earth, because everything is lighter.

Rather Unpleasant Places.

The traveler sees the actual path of asteroids, the "fireflies of the system," as Prof. Lee calls them. Halley's comet swings into view, then Jupiter, Saturn, and beyond. Venus is covered with clouds, a sister planet to this earth, yet much as this earth was when it was very young. Saturn has seas of ammonia and methane. The little planet Pluto, which takes 250 years to go around the sun, is seen on its journey.

We enter the "pathway of the gods," the Milky Way, and see how our own galaxy looks. Other nebulae swing into view, great boiling, shapeless masses of hydrogen and hellium. No one knows where they are going or what they are doing. Then into the depths of space with the Andromeda galaxy, with hundreds of millions of suns dotting the horizon as daisies fill a summer meadow.

These pictures all were taken through telescopes, ranging from the 16 inch to the 100 inch. They are "stills" put together to form this illusional journey. Many of the pictures never before have been shown. The astronomers have been too busy with scientific evidence to think of the esthetic and popular need.

NEW PHONE WIRE CARRIES SIGNALS AT LIGHT'S SPEED

Hollow Tube Serves as One Conductor.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A new kind of telephone wire, which promises to be the television, picture, and music wire of the future, was described today to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The new circuit is a wire within a wire. It is capable of concentrating within a channel half an inch wide a band of million cycle electrical energies which hitherto have needed open air and radio waves to escape interference. Over it signals pass at nearly the speed of light.

It was reported by Lloyd Espenschied and M. E. Strieby of the Bell telephone laboratories. The experiments on this wire are already complete, but they said it will probably not come into commercial use until television or enlarged wire facilities demand.

Air Forms Insulation.

The wire is a hollow tube with a solid wire inside. Both are conductors. They are insulated from each other largely by air. Espenschied said that wires of this form have been used a little for many years, but never in the way now perfected.

The double wire uses the "skin effect," the fact that electricity likes to travel on the outside of a wire. The million cycle frequencies in this new channel travel on the outside skin of the inner wire and on the inside skin of the hollow tube surrounding it.

The outer skin of the hollow tube acts to carry the undesired, interfering electrical frequencies. This outside skin becomes the shield of the wire.

Wire Multiplies Frequency.

Existing wires, the report states, can be worked at frequencies of tens of thousands of cycles. This new wire multiplies that by 100 times, carrying all the frequencies from zero to one million cycles.

It can carry a band of electrical energies which may be either subdivided into 200 telephone circuits or used en bloc for television. It can be worked both directions simultaneously.

For transmitting music this wire will not require the present practice of merging two or more adjacent telephone circuits.

Speed of signals over the wire is vastly increased. In many other types of wire the current travels only a little more than 10,000 miles a second, which is enough delay over very long distances to cause a little distortion in voice or other sounds.

SUES MRS. DEAN FOR $50,000 IN PERJURY ARREST

Miss Florabel Pack, 32 years old, of Beckley, W. Va., a public stenographer, filed suit yesterday in Superior court asking damages of $50,000 from Mrs. Julia Dean, 846 Bradley place, on a charge of false arrest.

Miss Pack was arrested last Friday on a warant charging perjury sworn by Mrs. Dean, who charged that the stenographer gave false statements when she testified in giving depositions on the previous day in the long pending slander suit brought by Mrs. Dean against John L. Kellogg, 2952 Lake Shore drive, president of the Seedtown Products, Inc., 526 West 18th street. In that suit, Mrs. Dean seeks $250,000 damages from Kellogg.

The charge against Miss Pack later was dismissed by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. Miss Pack asks the damages as the result of humiliation caused through her arrest.

BARNET HODES GETS AWARD FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

Barnet Hodes, member of the state tax commission, was given the distinguished service award of the Junior Association of Commerce last night at a dinner attended by 700 persons in the Auditorium hotel. The occasion marked the 14th anniversary of the association and its fourth presentation of the award.

Superior Judge John J. Sullivan, representing Mayor Kelly, reviewed the public career of Hodes, who is 34 years old. He has served as an assistant corporation counsel, an alderman, and member of the tax commission. The 1934 award was particularly merited by Hodes, Judge Sullivan declared, because of his work in connection with the Keep Chicago Ahead movement, the Drama of Chicago, and Chicago Homecoming week.

RUSSIA REPORTS BUDGET FOR 1934 WAS IN THE BLACK

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Jan. 22. — A balanced budget for 1934 and a sharply increased plan of receipts and expenditures for 1935 have been reported to the government by Gregory Grinko, finance commissar. The general terms of the report, which has been approved by the budget committee of the central executive committe, was made public today.

The government's total receipts last year were shown as 47,700,000,000 rubles, leaving almost 3 billion rubles to be added to the government's reserve. The rubles mentioned are, of course, not gold rubles but paper rubles used only internally. They are not quoted in foreign exchange.

The 1935 budget provides for receipts of 65,700,000,000 rubles and expenditures of 65,200,000,000. The increase this year is designed to cover higher expenditures for social and cultural needs, general economic growth and national defense. No figures on how the money is to be alloted were given out.

PRISONER FREED BY LOFTON MOVE ARRESTED AGAIN

Milton Panateles, who was released from Joliet penitentiary in habeas corpus proceedings before Circuit Judge Max F. Allaben of Wheaton, and thereby stirred the ire of Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan, was captured last night at the Alamo hotel, 13 South Halsted street.

He was taken on a capias issued by Judge Sullivan, who declared he would investigate the entire proceeding of Panateles' release, and the part played by his lawyer, Joseph B. Lofton.

Moreover, Assistant State's Attorney James A. Cunningham said that Panateles would also be tried on a robbery charge which was stricken off with leave to reinstate when Panateles was convicted on another charge two and a half years ago.

In the meantime, Judge Sullivan has issued a rule to show cause why Attorney Lofton should not be held in contempt of court for his part in securing Panateles' release. He is given ten days to answer.

Former Movie Actress Indicted in Yule Slaying

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Miss Stella Riddell, 35, former motion picture actress, was indicted today on a manslaughter charge in the Christmas day slaying of Albert Frankenstein, café owner. Miss Riddell was quoted by police as saying Frankenstein, with whom she lived, tried to kill her after a drinking brawl and she grabbed for the pistol.

ANN HARDING UNFIT TO REAR CHILD, SAYS EX-HUSBAND'S PLEA

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Ann Harding, film actress, is accused of being an "unfit and improper person" to have the custody of her 6 year old daughter, Jane Bannister, in a complaint filed today by her former husband, Harry C. Bannister, actor.

Bannister asks that Miss Harding be deprived of her daughter's care and control and that the Superior court appoint another person to rear the child. His attorney said Bannister would ask custody of the girl.

Bannister and Miss Harding were married in New York City Oct. 21, 1926, and separated March 22, 1932. Miss Harding subsequently obtained a divorce and recently Nevada courts awarded her custody of the child. In his complaint Bannister indirectly questioned the validity of the divorce decree on the grounds of Nevada residence.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, had a serious turn for the worse today at George Washington hospital, at which he was operated on for appendicitis. Admiral Cary T. Grayson, one of his physicians, said tonight that Mr. Payne's condition was "very grave."

OPEN CAMPAIGN TO TAX BILLIONS IN PERSONALTY

Assessor Invokes U. S. Publicity as Club.

John S. Clark, county assessor, announced yesterday that he intends to use federal publicity on income tax returns, which will go into effect with 1934 returns filed March 15, as a lever to put billions of dollars' worth of personal property on the local assessment rolls of Cook county.

At the same time Mr. Clark said that he intends to use the full market value of personal property, such as cash, bank deposits, and securities as a basis, applying the 37 per cent factor to determine the assessed valuation as is done in assessing realty. His predecessor, J. L. Jacobs, accepted a number of personal property schedules in which cash was cut to 10 per cent and securities to 20 per cent of their full value before applying the 37 per cent factor, although he later denounced this practice in a report to Gov. Horner.

List Open to Public.

The last congress provided that income tax payments for 1934 shall be open to inspection by the public. Just how far the publicity will extend has not been determined, Mr. Clark hopes, however, to be able to inspect the balance sheets and other detailed figures which corporations and other large taxpayers are required to submit with their federal returns, and from them glean information on the intangible personal property owned by Cook county taxpayers.

Even if this information is not available to the general public, Mr. Clark believes that internal revenue officials will give it to his office. Hayden N. Bell, head of the civil law department of the state's attorney's office, has given him an opinion that the assessor, under federal statutes, is able to get such information.

Plans Accounting Staf.

Mr. Clark said that he hopes to arrange with Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, to have a staf of accountants from the assessor's office get personal property tax information from returns in the collector's office.

He refused to hazard a guess as to the amount of personal property which might be placed on the assessment rolls if his plans are realized, except to state that he considered the estimate of 16 billion dollars' worth of taxable personal property in Cook county "conservative."

What the addition of billions in assessed valuations would mean is shown in the current assessment. Real estate valued at $4,056,140,190 is assessed at $1,500,771,873 and the assessed value of personal property in Cook county is only $785,032,636.

Therefore, in the current assessment, 68 per cent of the county property tax roll consists of real estate valuations and 32 per cent of personal property.

Due to failure to collect a large portion of personalty taxes, however, the ratio of tax payments stands at approximately 85 per cent for real estate to 15 per cent for personal property.

NEW WITNESSES PUT HAUPTMANN AT CRIME SCENE

Planned for 2 Months, Is State's Claim.

"I was on my way to Philadelphia on the Saturday before the kidnaping," he told the jury. [The kidnaping took place on a Tuesday night.] "On route 31, near the Princeton airport, I saw a car parked about 150 yards north of the airport. There was a man standing in the rear of the car.

"I stopped, thinking it a motorist in distress, as it is a lonely region around there. I spoke to him and asked if he wanted any help. He said he didn't need any. I stood and looked him over pretty well."

Light Suit and Slouch Hat.

He said the man was wearing a light suit under a dark overcoat and a slouch hat turned down in front.

"I was there from five to eight minutes before I went away," he remarked. He was not permitted to tell the reason for staying so long.

After seeing the picture of Hauptmann in the newspapers after the carpenter's arrest, it had taken Rossiter a day and a half to make up his mind that the man he had seen was the defendant, the witness admitted.

TRACE WOOD IN LADDER

Then began the procession of witnesses who were to trace the wood used in building the kidnap ladder left on the Lindbergh estate the night of the abduction. The first of these was Max Rauch, Hauptmann's landlord.

An enlargement of a photograph of the attic in Hauptmann's house was produced, and Rauch identified it. It was admitted into evidence. The witness testified that he found a plank of the attic flooring missing about two weeks after the kidnaping, but had thought nothing of it at the time.

Much legal squabbling developed when J. F. Dorn of Columbia, S. C., took the witness stand. Dorn, a state senator, spoke with a very broad southern accent. He was owner of the lumber mill where the one by four inch pine boards were dressed, which finally went into the making of the ladder.

The state wanted to trace these boards from the mill to wholesaler to retailer, but technical objections from the defense made the going difficult. Dorn, however, testified that the machine in his mill made certain marks upon the lumber dressed. It was by these markings that Koehler, the expert, traced the kidnap ladder boards to the Bronx lumber yard more than a year before Hauptmann's arrest.

Identifies Mill's Boards.

William L. Schluter, bookkeeper for a wholesale lumber firm in New York, told of receiving the boards as part of a carload lot from the South Carolina mill and identified the bill of lading which showed that the lumber was shipped in turn to the National Mill Work and Lumber company, the Bronx, in September, 1931.

David Hirsch, part owner of the latter firm, testified about receiving the lumber and also identified the bill of lading.

"Did you know Bruno Richard Hauptmann?" asked the attorney general.

"I did."

Q.—How long have you known him? A.—About fourteen years.

Q.—He worked at your place? A.—He did.

Q.—What year? A.—I'd have to make sure by looking at the books, but I believe he worked for us in the latter part of 1931 and a better part of 1932.

Q.—Did he buy any lumber from your firm? A.—Yes.

Q.—How often? A.—A couple of times.

Q.—When was the last purchase?

After poring through a book showing lumber sales, the witness testified that on Dec. 29, 1931, Hauptmann bought $9.32 worth of lumber.

Lawrence Miller, a yardman in the lumber yard, was the last witness. He testified that the expert, Koehler, came to the yard in 1933, more than a year before Hauptmann's capture.

"I heard he was investigating the Lindbergh kidnaping," the witness said. "I gave him a sample of one of the one by four inch boards."

Thus was paved the way for the appearance tomorrow of Koehler, whose testimony is expected to reveal a new chapter in the story of modern detective methods.

BATTLE OVER LADDER

Loud and lengthy protests from the defense attorneys greeted the state's offer, at the beginning of the morning session, to put the kidnap ladder into evidence.

Detective Sergeant Lewis J. Borman testified the ladder was in practically the same shape as when found, although various experts had examined it, taken it apart and put it together again.

Defense Attorney Frederick A. Pope made a long speech in which he asserted that the ladder could not possibly be admissible as evidence. There were notches missing where wood experts had taken samples, he pointed out. The ladder had been taken to Washington, D. C., he reminded the court, and there was no evidence to reveal what had happened to it there.

He insisted that every person who had had possession of the ladder be placed on the witness stand.

Insists It's Essential.

Prosecutor Wilentz replied to the defense lawyer's argument with an assertion that the ladder was obviously essential to a clear interpretation of the case.

As to the changes in the ladder, they were not material enough to confuse or deceive the jury, he declared.

"I feel constrained to admit this ladder in evidence," the judge remarked simply after the two lawyers had talked for 45 minutes.

The chisel found by the ladder also was admitted, as was the dowel pin used to connect two sections of the ladder together.

Thomas Sisk, the young government agent whose testimony aroused Hauptmann to a verbal outburst in court last week, was summoned to the stand for a renewal of his cross-examination by Defense Attorney Reilly.

Reilly wanted to know if the government had not had Dr. Condon imitate the voice of the man to whom he had handed the $50,000 ransom and if phonograph records had not been made of the imitation.

Sisk said that was true. There was only one record and that was in Washington, he said.

"Can you get it for us?" demanded the lawyer.

"I believe so," answered the witness, and promised to get the record for the lawyer. The record, it was reported, gives Dr. Condon's imitation of the voice and its German accent at some length.

Make Cast of Footprint.

Sisk also admitted that a plaster cast had been made of a footprint found in St. Raymond's cemetery near the place where Dr. Condon had paid the ransom that also was in Washington, he declared.

"I'm going to call this man as a defense witness," announced Reilly. "And I demand that the record and plaster cast or reports on it be brought into court."

Sisk demurred, pointing out that the exhibits desired were the property of the attorney general of the United States.

"Well, if the attorney general is interested in the course of justice," declared Reilly, "he'll give you permission to bring them in here."

Mrs. Elsie Whately, widow of the butler in the Lindbergh home, was recalled to the stand.

"I forgot to ask you a couple of questions," asserted Prosecutor Wilentz. "Were you in the company of Miss Betty Gow about a month after the kidnaping?"

"Yes, we took a walk," said the woman who was housekeeper in the Lindbergh home.

"We went down to the gate and on our way back we both saw this object."

She identified the baby's thumbguard as the object found. Miss Gow had already testified about finding the thumb-guard and had been accused, in cross-examination, of "planting" the thumb-guard herself.

Judge Walks Off Bench.

He noticed that a couple of jurors were coughing and handed them some cough drops. The jurors thanked him smilingly and the judge resumed his examination of the map.

"That's a map of the Bronx, your honor," the attorney general informed the judge. "The map of the Lindbergh estate is underneath."

"I just wanted to be sure the thumbguard was found on the Lindbergh property," said the judge.

The witness assured him that it had and the judge rambled back to his seat.

Reilly's cross-examination of Mrs. Whately was perfunctory and he did not repeat his insinuation that Miss Gow had dropped the thumb-guard, only to find it later.

Whited, a Sourland mountain lumberman with a sad countenance, testified that he had lived in New Jersey all his life. He occupied a tract of land adjacent to the Lindbergh estate. He did a "little farming," he said, in addition to his "timber business."

Q.—How many years did you live near the Lindbergh estate. A.—About five years.

Q.—In February, 1932, did you know all the people who lived in that vicinity? A.—All but one. There was one stranger there.

Q.—Tell me particularly if you saw the defendant, Hauptmann? A.—I did.

Q.—When? A.—About Feb. 18, 1932.

Q.—Tell us where you first saw him? A.—I was coming home, driving my car, when he stepped out of some woods. I wondered then who he was.

Again, on Feb. 22, he testified, he saw Hauptmann "standing at a crossroads."

Q.—Is there any doubt in your mind at all that the stranger you saw was this defendant? A.—None at all.

February Before Kidnaping.

Q.—That was the February before the Lindbergh kidnaping? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you report to police immediately that you had seen this stranger in the neighborhood? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What did this man wear? A.—A gray suit and a felt hat turned down in front.

Q.—Did you see his eyes? A.—Yes.

Q.—How far was the place you saw him from the Lindbergh home? A.—About half a mile.

He admitted that he could not read and thus had not known about Hauptmann's arrest for some time.

A series of questions followed regarding Whited's ownership of his farm. The purpose of this questioning was not immediately apparent.

He had sold one farm in 1929 to a man whose name he did not recall, he said.

He had testified at the extradition proceedings last fall, he admitted, that he had said Hauptmann was about three-quarters of a mile from the Lindbergh estate instead of only one-half a mile.

"How do you fix the time as about Feb. 18?" the lawyer asked.

Sister Died Just Before.

"Because I lost my sister on the 12th," replied the witness. "It was a few days after that."

"Seeing this man didn't impress you, did it?"

"Only that he was a stranger."

"Well, did you know Whately, the butler in the Lindbergh home?"

"No."

"Did you know Col. Lindbergh?"

"No."

"Then, there are two persons who might have been strangers to you?"

"I knew everybody in that vicinity who belonged there," said the witness, stubbornly.

Q.—Who called you out of your bed the night of the kidnaping? A.—Col. Lindbergh and some police.

Q.—You told them about this stranger. A.—Yes.

Q.—You thought they were there to arrest you for a village robbery a few nights before.

Says He Made Up "Stranger."

Wilentz objected and Fisher remarked to the court:

"This is to show that this witness concocted this story about seeing a stranger in self-preservation to avoid being suspected of this robbery."

The judge allowed the witness to answer and Whited admitted that police had previously visited his home in a search for a man whom Whited was suspecting of hiding.

Q.—And you thought also that they suspected you? A.—Well, yes.

Q.—And you told the police about this stranger to throw them off the track? A.—No.

Q.—To avert suspicion from yourself? A.—No.

Q.—But you did think they came there about the robbery, not about a kidnaping? A.—I may have thought that.

O'Hara Makes Bond on Perjury Charge

Bond Set at $15,000

Ralph J. O'Hara, organizer for the Motion Picture Operators' union, was released on $15,000 bonds yesterday pending his trial on a charge of perjury after a brief hearing before Federal Judge John P. Barnes. A dozen members of the operators' union scheduled real estate with a total value of $110,000 to secure the bond.

The bond hearing was held shortly after O'Hara's arrest in the union headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue. Handcuffed to Ralph C. Chilton, colored deputy United States marshal, O'Hara was finger printed and taken through the prisoner's routine. His bodyguard, "Young Joe" Montana, who once was acquitted on a murder charge, busied himself in an attempt to protect O'Hara from the indignity of being photographed.

O'Hara was indicted last week on a charge of perjury growing out of a federal grand jury investigation of the income tax returns of Thomas E. Maloy, czar of the operators' union. O'Hara denied that he had committed perjury, and left the United States courthouse accompanied by Montana, his attorneys, and union members.

SIDELIGHTS OF THE TRIAL

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—While a snowstorm swirled and blanketed the tombstones in a factory across the street from the jail, the jurors in the Lindbergh case today listened to "quiet, please!"

Bruno Hauptmann was fighting for his life.

The crowd moved and clumped up the stairs. More than ever got into the courtroom.

The confusion ebbs! Talk and laughter! A witness asks Reilly "what are you driving at?"

The jury shows mirth when Whited says "to the best of my knowledge" 17 times.

O, was it red dress and straw hat day? Three men came in straw hats—"to save my good hat from the storm," and there were 17 red dresses counted in one section. . . . A woman in red—she was stirred—even rested her arms on the judge's bench.

Senator Dorn's testimony was regarded as the most nervous. Though he shook and chewed nervously at his glasses, his testimony was impersonal. He started to leave, came back, and finally took a position halfway between sitting and standing.

It is not expected that more eyewitnesses from the Sourland mountain area will be offered, though they include young Ben Lupica, who said he observed a young man driving a car with a folding ladder in it.

That Hauptmann's auto will be introduced in evidence seems extremely improbable. It cannot be brought into the courtroom and it is feared that to bring the jury into the alleyway where the car is parked will result in a mistrial.

Whether the voice of Dr. Condon be German or not is another point in the defense's case. It has demanded that Dr. Condon's voice as recorded by the state be introduced in court.

That the state will rest its case against Bruno Hauptmann tomorrow was predicted freely by Prosecutor Wilentz today. Wilentz said that Koehler, wood technologist of the United States forestry service, would be the final witness.

The slender ones got the breaks today at the trial. The ushers were selecting those who took up the least room.

"Better to let three little ones sit down than one big one," said one of the ushers.

JUDGE ORDERS ALL OF JURY TO WEAR RUBBERS

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, presiding at the Hauptmann trial, is doing everything in his power to protect the health of the jury. This morning the 71 year old jurist, who usually steps from his big closed car directly into the alley between the jail and the courthouse, braved the storm and walked across the street through the slush and snow to the Union hotel.

He went directly to the floor on which the jury is quartered and ordered that every member wear rubbers this morning. He pointed out the risks they would incur in getting wet feet, then sitting throughout the day in the courtroom without opportunity to change their shoes and hose.

His instructions were obeyed. A local shoe merchant was called and he arrived a few minutes later with rubbers for those who were without them. After a deal of hasty fitting the jury of four women and eight men marched safely and dry footed through the wet snow to the courthouse, their feet snug and dry in new rubbers.

EX-PROSECUTOR R. J. SHARP GETS YEAR FOR PLOT

Ralph J. Sharp, former assistant state's attorney, was sentenced to one year in the county jail yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes after being convicted of conspiracy and of possessing securities stolen from a mail pouch. Matt Finnerty of Green Bay, Wis., also found guilty on the charge, was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

A motion for probation for Sharp was turned down by Judge Barnes, although Assistant State's Attorney Edward A. Fisher concurred in it on the ground that this defendant had testified for the government against Finnerty.

Sharp, who was given the choice of serving his sentence in the county jail or the federal penitentiary, chose the jail sentence. He must serve ten months' minimum sentence in the jail, it was pointed out, while he would have been eligible for release in four months at Leavenworth. Court attachés said that Sharp preferred not to be in the same penitentiary with Finnerty.

Sharp and Finnerty, who were found guilty by a jury, were charged with possession of and attempts to dispose of two $1,000 bonds stolen from a mail pouch at Neenah, Wis., on Aug. 14, 1934.

66 North Shore Employes Serve Line 2,000 Years

Sixty-six members of the Veteran Employés 25-Year club of the Chicago North Shore and Electric line have a record of over 2,000 years of service, according to John Gartley, who was elected president of the club yesterday. Some members of the club, he stated, started service more than 41 years ago, when the line began as the Bluff City Electric railway, operating only a street car service between Waukegan and Highland Park.

LETTER DESCRIBING CAGNEY GIFT ENTERS TRIAL OF COMMUNISTS

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Evidence allegedly linking James Cagney, motion picture actor, with one of the 17 communists on trial here for criminal syndicalism, was introduced in the case today over the strenuous objections of the defense.

It was in the form of a letter, assertedly written by Ella Winters, divorced wife of Lincoln Steffens, the author, to Caroline Decker, one of the 17 defendants. It told of an alleged contribution by Cagney to a group led by Miss Winters.

The letter referring to Cagney was dated Jan. 22, 1934, and was made public last year. At that time Cagney denied he had made any communist contributions, although declaring he had often visited Steffens and Miss Winters.

TRIAL IN BARBER CHAIR MURDER CASE IS STARTED

Sam Bruno, 30 years old, 1871 Sheffield avenue, was placed on trial before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Hugo M. Friend yesterday on the charge of having murdered Joseph Adducci, 42 years old, 308 East 117th street, in a barber shop at 11857 South Michigan avenue on Sept. 15.

Adducci was shot to death while being shaved. Bruno was captured after he had been shot and wounded by Detective Russell L. Richards, who was passing at the time. Bruno insisted that he knew nothing of the shooting. Police believed the victim was slain by mistake, as no motive could be found for the shooting.

BRUNO ANSWERS THROUGH LAWYER AS TIME NEARS

Claims State Has Failed to Prove Case.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—On what may be the eve of his testimony in his own defense, Bruno Richard Hauptmann tonight granted an interview through his attorney, C. Lloyd Fisher, in which he outlined some of his views of the case against him.

A list of questions were submitted to him by newspaper men and his answers were made with the assistance of his lawyer. The questions and answers follow:

1. Q.—What does he pin his expectation of acquittal on chiefly—alibi, handwriting, or what? A.—He contemplates that the New Jersey laws do not require that a man must prove his innocence, and the state has failed to prove its case.

Thirty to Back Statements.

2. Q.—How many witnesses will support the alibi? A.—Probably thirty.

3. Q.—What plans has he for after the trial since he is confident of acquittal? What future does he hope for? A.—He hopes the world will forget all about him and he will be allowed to live quietly with his family.

4. Q.—Does he complain about confinement? Is he bitter? Does he express resentment against any witness?

A.—He complains continually about the guards constantly present. He is not bitter and holds little resentment against those witnesses who were honestly mistaken in their testimony. He is especially resentful against deliberate misstatements such as aroused him to protest openly.

5. Q.—Does he express any fear of cross-examination. A.—He has no fear of cross-examination. He will tell the truth.

6. Q.—What does he think of the plight of his wife? A.—No answer.

7. Q.—Who does he consider his best friends? A.—No answer.

Carries no Life Insurance.

8. Q.—Does he carry life insurance? For how much? A.—No.

9. Q.—Do relatives write to him? A.—He doesn't know. He is not allowed to have his mail.

10. Q.—What makes him so confident his story will be accepted against three weeks of evidence against him? A.—He doesn't consider that any strong evidence has been submitted against him.

11. Q.—What is his reaction to women on the jury? A.—No answer.

12. Q.—Does he feel his nationality will prejudice the jury? A.—He has no fear his nationality will influence the jury against him.

13. Q.—What cheers him up personally aside from confidence in the outcome? Months of jail should require a lot of cheering. A.—No answer.

Ragnitt, 44 years old, whose body was found yesterday in an automobile in the garage at his home, 7314 Lowe avenue, was continued until Feb. 7 to allow an opportunity for analysis by the coroners' chemist. His wife and baby daughter died within the last twelve weeks.

$1,200,000 Tax Warant Sale Arranged by Park District

The sale of $1,200,000 of park district tax anticipation warants for 1935 at a reduced interest rate of 4 per cent was announced yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, president of the district board. Mr. Dunham, with the approval of the board, made arrangements with a syndicate of five loop banks to buy the park warants as issued in six blocks of $200,000 each. The banks were the ones which recently agreed to buy $20,000,000 of school warants. The money from the park district issue will provide for salaries of park employes until April 15.

The city council yesterday passed ordinances for tax levies totaling $119,015,033, including the school levy, which will permit the school board to sell its $20,000,000 warants as the money is needed. City warants, however, will not be offered immediately, according to City Controler Robert Upham, because funds on hand and miscellaneous revenue are adequate for salary purposes at least until March 1.

District Meets Pay Roll.

The park district, although able to meet the pay roll yesterday, will issue tax warants in the amount of $200,000 to provide for salaries due Feb. 1.

The levy for the city's operating expense totals $60,373,946, and that for the board of education $33,841,036. Included in the city's levy are $30,929,946 to cover administration expenses and $16,527,285 for debt service. The school board's levy includes the pegged sum of $43,000,000 and $8,908,268 for debt service.

For the first time the county has included in its program of road improvements roads belonging to the park system, it was announced at the park district meeting.

Two Projects Scheduled.

Marquette road will be improved from Western avenue to Central avenue, and Sacramento boulevard will be improved from Roosevelt road to Carroll avenue by the county. Funds for this work will be derived from the county's allotment of the motor fuel tax.

By reducing the interest rate on 1935 warants to 4 per cent, the park district has saved about $12,000 a year, and because the warants will be issued as funds are needed for salaries, interest will not begin until the date of issue, thereby effecting a further saving.

CLOTHIERS VOTE NEWSPAPER BULK OF CASH FOR ADS

Merchandising and advertising problems occupied yesterday the convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in the Palmer house. The gathering agreed unanimously to an advertising program under which the largest appropriation would be for newspaper advertising.

Advertising money in the clothing field, the officials of the convention said, should be divided: 60 per cent for newspaper space, 20 per cent for direct mail advertising, and 20 per cent for miscellaneous methods of advertising, such as window displays.

At the final session today policies of the National Recovery administration will form the topic. The association has voted to oppose old age pensions at this time, and has given a qualified endorsement to unemployment insurance. The main speaker today will be Dr. Ivan Wright, economist of the University of Illinois, who will discuss currency and credit inflation. Yesterday, the association elected Maurice L. Rothschild, Chicago merchant, president.

CHICAGO LEADS IN PARCEL POST, MONEY ORDERS

Postoffice Receipts Up 7 Per Cent in 1934.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FINEST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

As the great central postoffice of America, Chicago leads in parcel post and money orders, due to its position as distributing center at the continental crossroads. New York leads in first class mail and total postoffice receipts, but trails Chicago again in volume of postal savings.

Last year Chicago postoffice receipts gained 7 per cent over 1933, one of the largest gains among the great cities. It was the first year since the depression that the figures began to climb. For 1934 the volume of business was $44,796,615. In the peak year, 1929, it was 63 million dollars, so that the office here today is doing somewhat more than 70 per cent of the business it did in America's great whoopee era.

Parcel Post the Barometer.

In the new 21 million dollar postoffice, with its 80 acres of floor space, parcel post is one of the business barometers. In this branch of postal service Chicago outruns other cities, due to the large population in its trading area and the activities of the mail order houses, the wholesalers and retailers in the distributing center.

On an ordinary day Chicago's postoffice business produces approximately 6,000,000 letters, 250,000 outgoing parcel post packages, and 80,000 sacks of papers and parcel post received at Chicago. The heaviest day in 1934 produced 13,210,966 letters and 116,756 sacks of parcel post and paper mails originating in Chicago.

Fifty Carloads a Day!

On an average, 50 carloads of outgoing parcel post now leave Chicago daily. It would make five trains of ten cars each filled with parcel post, and the packages go to all points of the compass.

Last year, it is figured, about 16,500 carloads of packages were sent from Chicago's postoffice, or about 1,650 full trainloads of ten cars each. It does not include a large volume of magazines and mail order catalogs which goes by freight to other large centers to be put into the mail.

The postoffice, too, is one of the great savings banks. With 196,961 depositors, Chicago's postal savings total 93 million dollars. New York has 67 million. The United States' total is about 1 billion 200 million. Only two private banks in Chicago have larger savings deposits than the postoffice.

Money Order Volume Huge.

More payments of money orders, too, the authorities say, are made here than in any other city. Showing the size of this business in 1934, the Chicago postoffice paid out $93,331,754 on money orders, and issued orders for $60,895,161.

One phase which always impresses the visitor is the precision of the mail service. With six million letters handled a day, the clerks distribute it to myriad trains and routes and to mail carriers, and are shown by a checking device to make only one error in every 20,000 pieces of mail.

"How many precision workers in the most skilful arts are able to work with such a slight degree of error?" asks Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen.

Labor Turnover Is Slight.

Labor turnover at the postoffice is slight. Among 3,324 letter carriers and 6,436 clerks and others regularly assigned, the average employé has been on the job 20 years, according to Assistant Postmaster John T. McGrath, who has served 54 years, coming in as a lad.

The new building is the last word in labor saving devices, with a conveyor system 25 miles long. Horses have gone; 515 motor vehicles carry the mail to 194 mail trains arriving and 214 trains leaving, daily. And in ten days in the last Christmas rush the force handled no less than 3,000 carloads of mail at the depots, in addition to local mail.

City Terminals Committee Hails Eastman's Rail Plan

The plea of Joseph B. Eastman, federal railroad coördinator, for modernization of railroad terminals and reduction of rail operating expenses was hailed yesterday by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], chairman of the city council committee on railway terminals, and Edward J. Noonan, engineer for the committee, as an omen for success of the proposal to erect a consolidated passenger terminal at Randolph street.

Mr. Eastman made his plea in a report in Washington Monday to regional railroad coördinating committees. He urged that the railroads emulate the progressive spirit of their competitors—passenger automobiles, bus lines and airways—in an attempt to make a profit on passenger business which in 1933 yielded them $599,000,000 and cost them $700,000,000 to handle.

Ask Public Hearing Here.

"I was gratified to see that Mr. Eastman urged the railroads to rid themselves of 'noisy and unattractive depots' as a means of attracting patronage," said Ald. Nelson. "I intend to recommend to Mayor Kelly that he join with the terminals committee in asking Mr. Eastman to hold a public hearing on the benefits of the proposed Randolph street terminal.

"Careful investigation by our engineers has shown that the terminal is a project eligible in the highest sense for a federal public works loan. Their figures show that operating economies by the eighteen railroads for which it is planned would more than equal the interest on such a loan, even without regarding the value of their present terminal stations, which could be put to other use.

Figures $19,000,000 Cost.

The station and new coach yards for the eighteen railroads, Mr. Noonan said, could be built for $19,000,000. Figuring interest even at 6 per cent, much above the level of a federal loan, the charge for this money would be $1,140,000 a year. Operating economies by the railroads using the terminal would exceed $1,000,000 annually, and the consolidated ticket office in the terminal, replacing their present scattered facilities, would save them more than $140,000 a year, he added.

ALABAMA SENATE PASSES BILL FOR DRY LAW VOTE

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Alabama legislature today checked to the voters of the state the question of modification of the stringent 20 year old dry laws, in passing a bill providing for a three fold vote on the question, Feb. 26.

The senate by a vote of 29 to 3 approved the bill which was passed by the house last week.

The bill provides for a vote on three questions:

1. Shall Alabama's laws against the sale, manufacture, and distribution of liquors be modified?

2. Shall the sale, manufacture and distribution of light wines and beer be legalized?

3. Shall the sale, manufacture, and distribution of hard liquors be legalized in Alabama, "under strict regulations, but under no conditions any saloons?"

Gov. Bibb Graves announced the bill was satisfactory and would be signed.

ROOSEVELT PUTS TEMPORARY CURB ON LABOR BOARD

Orders Hands Off Disputes in 3 Industries.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today ordered the National Labor Relations board for the time being to keep its hands off disputes in the bituminous coal, petroleum, and newspaper industries.

The President's curtailment of the board's authority came as a victory for the American Newspaper Publishers' association and for Donald Richberg, director of the National Emergency council. Both the publishers and Richberg had protested the board's assumption of jurisdiction in a dispute between the San Francisco Call-Bulletin and one of its reporters, claiming this intervention violated the newspaper code.

Outlines Board's Work.

In a letter to Francis Biddle, chairman of the labor board, Mr. Roosevelt instructed the board not to take jurisdiction in labor disputes arising under any code which sets up a separate code tribunal for handling these disputes. Chairman Biddle said that only the bituminous coal, petroleum, and newspaper codes established these independent labor tribunals.

The President said that wherever either party to the dispute sought an appeal from the code board to the Biddle board the latter should investigate the complaint, but, instead of handing down a decision, should only advise the White House as to what seemed feasible.

The President said, however, that this restriction on the board's authority shall continue only "until such time as the codes may be altered either by executive action or by the passage of new laws." He inferred that the "handful of codes" which provide for separate labor boards would not be allowed to continue these provisions for any great length of time.

Publishers Call Off Meeting.

"Nevertheless," the President wrote to Biddle, "the fact that the government has approved this provision in these very few codes makes it imperative that the government should live up to the letter of the agreement as long as these codes remain in effect."

Howard Davis, president of the publishers' association, announced as soon as the letter was made public that the proposed meeting of the association to protest the Biddle board's action in the Call-Bulletin case had been canceled.

The publishers, backed by Richberg, had argued that by taking jurisdiction instead of allowing the code board to handle the Call-Bulletin matter the Biddle board broke the newspaper code. The labor board has refused to recognize this protest.

Will Stand by Decision.

Biddle insisted today that the board, despite the President's letter, would stand by its decision in the Call-Bulletin case because that matter had been closed before the President promulgated his new rules of procedure. These rules are:

1. The labor board shall not hear any case or appeal arising under a code which provides for an independent labor board.
2. If either party appeals from a case handled by such an independent board the labor board shall merely investigate the compfaint and recommend action to the President.
3. If the independent board hands down a decision contrary to precedents set by the labor board the labor board may recommend action to the President.

COUNTESS FROM NEW YORK GETS 15 DAYS IN JAIL

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Countess Lebedur, the former Gladys Olcott of New York, today got a real fifteen day jail sentence instead of the suspended sentence from which she had appealed for failing to produce her children in a controversy with her first husband, Jean de Waddington of Paris. She was also fined 500 francs [$33] for contempt of court.

Last June she received a similar sentence, which was suspended, on the same charge. The countess is still involved in another case in which she asks the French courts to recognize her Reno divorce from De Waddington, a divorce which her husband opposes.

De Waddington has opposed his wife's Reno decree on the grounds that it was obtained while he was on a two years' expedition to China. He claims that when he came back he found his wife remarried to Count Lebedur and living in Austria, to which she had taken the three De Waddington children. The countess refused to produce the children in court.

Adds Voice to Demand at Peace Parley.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt added her voice tonight to the world court demand and pleaded for peace.

She talked at the Cause and Cure for War conference to a thousand women who had been bombarding their senators all day for speedy enactment of world court adherence. Beside her sat white haired Carrie Chapman Catt in black lace sparkling with jet, who had made a personal plea to Majority Leader Robinson: "Could we please have a vote this week?"

Blames Greed as One Cause.

"I hope and I think a majority of women in the country hope that we will join the world court," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "I know the arguments against it, and some of them are good arguments. But this is a gesture which we can make at present to the world. We are in so little danger of being entangled we can afford to take the risk. We seem so cautious in this—as a rule risk appeals to us—Americans like to do the adventurous thing. To adventure in a gesture for peace makes an appeal to the women of the country."

Mrs. Roosevelt said this country had been learning that greed has always had a great deal to do with war and said, "A gentleman in our midst" [Senator Nye heading the munitions investigation] had been helping teach that lesson.

"One thing to do to prevent war is to make it unprofitable for any one when war occurs!" exclaimed Mrs. Roosevelt, adding, "It never was profitable for the man in the trenches."

Dr. Louis Mann Speaks.

A fivefold condemnation of "the folly, the fallacy, the futility, and the fatality of force" was made to the conference by Dr. Louis Mann, noted Chicago rabbi.

Titling his address "Little World, What Now?" Mann made the following specific charges against war:

Religiously—"There should be no chaplain in any army. A chaplain is not there to comfort the dying and bury the dead. That is merely camouflage. He is there to give divine sanction to the hellish business of human slaughter."

Biologically—"The flower of every land marches forth to be mowed down like so many blades of grass, and the weaklings remain behind to become the fathers of the next generation. The humblest farmer knows you can't breed hogs and cows like that."

Sociologically—"Every city in every country could have been supplied with hospitals, recreation centers, playgrounds, and school buildings for a mere fraction of the cost of war."

Economically—"It cost $30,000 to kill each man who was sent to his premature death in the last war."

Intellectually—"War represents intellectual bankruptcy, the prostitution of science to murder. No war was ever fought by the truth; it is fought with lies and propaganda."

Continue Arms Inquiry.

The senate munitions committee today continued its investigation, inquiring, while shipbuilding company officials were on the stand, into wartime cost plus contracts.

Under these the United States paid all expenses of a contract and a certain percent more.

Stephen Raushenbush, committee investigator, said the one cost-plus plan included an arrangement whereby the government agreed to pay one-half of all overhead items. He added that shipbuilding companies tried to make the government pay on such items as "dividends," "expenses for parties" and "income taxes."

Called Part of Contract.

N. R. Parker, treasurer of the New York Shipbuilding company, said his company honestly believed such items were included as part of the contract.

John Metten, president of the company, testified that three companies, including his own, had a virtual monopoly on the ship-building business outside of the naval yards, and considered government operated yards virtual competitors.

The house military affairs committee meanwhile, postponed hearings on a bill to prevent profiteering in war time because several witnesses, among them Bernard Baruch and Hugh S. Johnson, failed to appear.

SCHALL CLASHES WITH SENATOR ROBINSON OVER USE OF RECORD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—In a furious altercation with Joseph T. Robinson, senate majority leader, over use of the congressional record, Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] today charged the administration with "communizing the country," setting up a dictatorship, and establishing a censorship of the press.

The verbal tilt occurred when the blind senator from Minnesota reoffered for the congressional record certain articles on Russia, to which Robinson had objected on the previous day. In making his objection Robinson had accused Schall of inserting matter that reflected not only upon senators but upon the President of the United States.

Schall today offered an amendment to the senate rules which would permit any senator, physically unable to read, to submit a statement to be read by the clerk and recorded as a speech personally delivered.

"The senator from Arkansas has no right to object to that," he said.

Robinson denied that he had objected and Schall continued:

"Yes, you objected before the adjournment, because I was trying to show that this administration was setting up a dictatorship and establishing a censorship of the press."

SEND 4 BILLS TO TWO HOUSES TO CURB CRIME

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today submitted to the senate and house judiciary committees four bills designed to abolish legal red tape under which defendants in federal criminal cases have interposed delays and obstructed prosecutions.

The bills presented are the outgrowth of the recent crime conference held by the attorney general. The bills had the approval of law enforcing officials and criminologists who attended.

The first would enable prosecutors to comment upon the failure of a defendant to take the witness stand in his own behalf.

The second bill would curb surprise alibis. Defendants in criminal cases frequently take the prosecution by surprise at trials by the introduction of alibi witnesses.

A third bill would expedite removals of prisoners. Many delays have been frequently interposed by defendants who are arrested in one judicial district for prosecution in another.

HASTINGS FIGHTS WAGNER BILL'S DATA ON COSTS

Calls Old Age Figures Far Too Low.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Senator Daniel O. Hastings, [Rep., Del.], today accused the administration of lumping all its social security schemes into one gigantic bill to be certain of pushing them all through congress.

Senator Hastings also said the administration was trying to "fool the country" about the costs of the security program.

These remarks were made as hearings on the Wagner bill were begun in the senate finance committee.

Clashes with Wagner.

"The advantage of breaking the bill up into separate measures," Senator Hastings said to Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], who testified on behalf of the administration program, "is that some of us might not wish to vote for all of them. On the other hand, I suppose the advantage to you is that with one bill you can force everything through at once."

Senator Hastings questioned Wagner about the costs of old age pensions, the gigantic burocracy that would have to be set up to administer the proposed fund and the experience the government has had with the federal employes' retirement fund.

"Do you happen to know that the government already is short 100 million dollars on the amount federal employés have paid in, besides the government's own contribution?" Senator Hastings asked. "Have you any assurance that this old age pension system will be any more successful?"

Senator Wagner replied that if the federal employés' system had not been successful it had not been properly administered and the methods should be corrected.

Attacks Wagner Bill Estimates.

Senator Hastings then took up the proposal of a federal subsidy of 125 million dollars a year to be added to state contributions for old age assistance until 1942, when payments from the compulsory-contributory fund will be made.

"You say the government will give $15 a month, on a matching basis, and that old age pensions will not be less than $30 a month," Senator Hastings declared. "Do you know that $15 a month is $180 a year and that $180 divided into 125 million dollars give you about 694,000 persons you could take care of out of 3,750,000 who will be over 60 years of age in 1937? Do you know that 125 million dollars would provide only $2,78 for each individual over 60? I ask because I don't want the public to get the impression that 125 million dollars would give each old person $15."

Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] agreed with Senator Hastings that the public should not be "fooled," but Senator Wagner assured the committee that "the states will increase their share of the appropriations."

'WILD MAN' LAUNCHES NEW REIGN OF TERROR ALONG ALASKAN RIVER

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The strange disappearance of two prospectors in the Nashagak river county was blamed today on a "wild man" as Alaskans here recalled the terror reign in the same region several years ago of Klutok, Indian killer credited with slaying 20 men.

While Klutok lived the Nashagak country was a region shunned, but with his natural death in 1932 sourdoughs and trappers again invaded the little explored section north of Bristol bay. Now comes word from Charles H. Dumbolton, a prospector just returned from the Nashagak, that another "wild man" has taken up where Klutok left off, and that two prospectors laden with thousands of dollars in gold have disappeared.

Rumors of other deaths in the vicinity during the last several months also have been heard. The new "wild man" is believed to be a native or prospector—crazed by loneliness.

39 DEMOCRATS BOLT O. K. FOR 4 BILLION BILL

Join Revolt After the House Adjourns.

duced the move for adjournment finally won by a vote of 278 to 108.

Of the 108 votes against adjournment, 97 were Republican, 9 came from the progressives and Farmer-Laborites, and there was one Democratic vote—that of Representative Matthew A. Dunn of Pennsylvania.

Calls Bill Slush Fund.

The adjournment action bottled up Representative Dewey Short, Missouri's lone Republican congressman, who won on a platform of "A vote for Short is a vote against the New Deal." Short had been elected by the Republican caucus last night to start the attack on the administration measure.

In a statement issued after the session Short asserted that the bill was simply a slush fund for the 1936 presidential campaign, the money to be spent where votes were needed.

"This bill," declared the fiery Missourian, "makes congress a supine, subservient, soporific, superfluous, supercilious, and pusillanimous body of nitwits with a rubber band instead of a backbone. Congress is surrendering its powers to autocratic burocrats, who call themselves brain trusters, but who are in reality professorial nincompoops out of Columbia university."

Horner Voices Opposition to St. Lawrence Seaway Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner today voiced opposition to the proposed ratification by congress of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, declaring that a "four-eleven" alarm should be sent throughout the state to awaken the people to the dangers the treaty holds for Illinois.

"In strong terms, the governor reiterated the stand that he took against the treaty when he became the state's chief executive, denouncing in particular the provision that would "internationalize" Lake Michigan, which is not a boundary water. He also called attention to a number of "inequities" in the pact that have been listed in a pamphlet published by the Mississippi Valley association.

Unchanged in Opposition.

"I am unchanged," said the governor in a prepared statement. "In my unalterable opposition to ratification of the proposed St. Lawrence treaty in its present form.

"The pending treaty would give Great Britain equal control with the United States over Lake Michigan. Lake Michigan never has been considered part of national boundary waters—it touches the Canadian boundary at no point—and to permit it to become internationalized now would be surrender of a principle long recognized by authorities on international law and by the early statesmen of the nation."

Jeopardizes Waterway.

"This would seriously jeopardize the future of the Lakes-Gulf waterway in the development of which approximately 100 million dollars has been spent by Illinois and the federal government."

Among the "inequities" listed as being in the proposed treaty were the following:

1. United States required to spend 2 millions; Canada, only 38 millions.
2. Compels United States to spend 5 millions to employ Canadian labor when millions of persons are out of work in the States.
3. In division of 5 million electrical horsepower to be generated Canada would get 4 millions and New York state 1 million.

Canada Gets Water.

4. Canada permitted unlimited water from lakes for an all-Canadian waterway while limiting the all-American [lakes-gulf] waterway to 1,500 cubic feet per second.
5. Canadians permitted to take 41,000 cubic second feet of water at Niagara Falls for power, while United States limited to 22,000 cubic second feet.
6. Permits Canadians to shut down the diversion at Chicago to a point which would threaten the navigation and endanger, by pollution, the lives of the people along the Illinois river, and also in Chicago.

SLEEP BLAMED FOR 1 PCT. OF ALL AUTO ACCIDENTS

Sleep causes 1 per cent of all automobile accidents.

The findings set forth in the booklet are based on studies made in 14 states. "Asleep at the wheel" is listed as the chief factor in an average of 1 per cent of the motor accidents in these states. The percentage ranges from .5 in North Carolina to 5.1 in Illinois. According to estimates, there are 20,000 accidents due to this cause in the United States each year.

BUST THAT COLD WIDE OPEN

Don't Merely Check It With Half-Way Measures!

Deal with a cold in earnest. Deal with it in seriousness.

A cold is too fraught with danger to be taken lightly. Many a case of flu and pneumonia has started with nothing more than a "common cold".

Treat a cold with a preparation made for colds and not a "cure-all".

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is your answer to a cold.

It is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and not for all kinds of ailments.

It is internal in effect and it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, an important step in overcoming a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

These are the four effects a cold calls for and only in Bromo Quinine do you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

Play safe—make sure! The moment a cold threatens, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours, until relieved.

Usually that will be in the space of 24 hours. For, that's how fast Bromo Quinine acts when taken promptly.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask for it with your mind made up that you're not going to accept a substitute.

PRESIDENT CALLS IN AIDS TO PEER INTO NRA FUTURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Until far after midnight tonight President Roosevelt was closeted in his White House study with a small group of his closest advisers, seeking to determine the future of the NRA.

The conference, announced late today by the President, was the first which Mr. Roosevelt has held to thrash out the fate of the recovery administration and it broke up early Wednesday morning without reaching any final decision.

Trooping up the steps through a raw, freezing drizzle, eight of the chief New Dealers gathered in Mr. Roosevelt's study to discuss the question of whether the Blue Eagle régime, reputed to embrace 98 per cent of American industry, shall be revised drastically or extended in virtually its present form for another experimental period.

Most Favor Extension.

Although the meeting was not intended to formulate a definite decision, it is understood that a majority of the President's advisers favor a simple extension of the present NRA. The alternative course is to risk getting through congress a more definite, permanent NRA law.

The eight who sat around the President's desk until late in the night debating the future of the NRA were S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board; Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Donald Richberg, director of the National Emergency council; Leon Marshall, member of the NIRB; Blackwell Smith, general counsel of NRA; Chester Davis, AAA administrator; Edwin L. Davis, chairman of the federal trade commission, and Charles Fahy of the Petroleum Code administration.

Lay Out Three Courses.

Three courses of action previously sketched out by Richberg and the NIRB, were laid before the first White House conference on the NRA for its consideration. They were:

1. Submission to congress of a new and much more specific recovery law to replace the NIRA when it expires on June 16. This proposed law would be the permanent NRA forecast by President Roosevelt and would, therefore, have to be extremely explicit, stating exactly what should be in the codes and how they should be handled.

2. Submission to congress of a new recovery law, not necessarily the permanent NRA, in which the code requirements on wages, hours, child labor, and collective bargaining would be much more clearly stated than at present.

3. Simple extension of the present NIRA. This would be accomplished by merely sending to congress an amendment to the NIRA which would extend its expiration date from June 16 to some future date.

Just "Informal Conversation."

Earlier in the evening, the President had announced through his press secretary, Stephen Early, that tonight's meeting would not reach a final decision on a course of action. The chief executive explained that he would hardly call the gathering a conference, terming it rather the first of a series of informal conversations which he will hold on the NRA question.

ILLINOIS HOUSE ASSAILS STATE RELIEF SYSTEM

Waste and Inefficiency Charged.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—In a sudden burst of aggravation the house of representatives today delivered a verbal drubbing to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission which was accused not only of extravagant and wasteful mismanagement but, in the words of one member, of hiring "hi-falutin'" investigators.

Harsh words rang through the chamber from both sides of the aile for half an hour but the only positive action was unanimous passage of a resolution sponsored by Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill [Rep., Downers Grove] calling upon the commission to furnish a report of expenditures and what seemed more important, a complete list of its employés and the salaries paid them.

Would Return to County Plan.

In addition, two representatives, Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville] and James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] presented bills to take from the commission the duty of distributing relief and return it to county authorities. If this were done, the commission's only function would be to receive state and federal funds and allocate them to the counties. The actual spending of the money would be purely a local province.

Lyons demanded that his bill be immediately advanced to second reading.

"This is not a political measure," he shouted. "The case workers hired by the relief commission are neither Democrats nor Republicans. They come from all over the country; they're imported pay rollers from New Hampshire, Florida, Alabama—everywhere. Every power ought to be taken from them except that of allocating funds to counties. They don't even know the people of our communities."

Charges Excessive Waste.

Burns had already charged, in explanation of his bill, that the system of relief was extravagant and wasteful and declared that Federal Administrator Hopkins and Wilfred S. Reynolds, secretary of the Illinois commission, among others, were trying to create a permanent department of the government in order to perpetuate themselves.

"But Hopkins is the patron saint; he is head of the fraternity," Burns told reporters.

James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago] opposed Lyons' motion for immediate advancement of his bill, insisting, instead, that it lie on Speaker Devine's table until committees are appointed when it could be considered in the ordinary course of business. That was not satisfactory to the sponsor who wanted action and wanted it in a hurry.

A palliative suggestion then came from the Democratic floor leader, Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, who proposed that all bills relating to the commission be referred to a committee of the whole house and there given a hearing so that the entire membership could dissect them. This seemed to satisfy everybody, however Speaker Devine uttered a note of warning, counseling too rapid procedure.

Masons Build Wall, Insure Miss Perkins' Private Bath

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins won't have to knock before entering the lavishly appointed bathroom in her magnificent official suite. Or, what is more to the point with Madame Secretary, she won't have to scream when the gold plated knob on the pastel tinted door turns.

This was assured today when masons, at her orders, completed a brick wall two feet thick where plans had called for a second entrance to the bath from the office of Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., chief counsel for her department. The concession to feminine modesty will come out of taxpayers' pockets.

Planned by Secretary Doak.

The communal bath was planned before the advent of the New Deal—in the good old days when it was thought that only horny handed men were fit to cope with labor problems. The late William N. Doak as secretary of labor in planning a new home for his department decreed that the secretary and general counsel share a common bath.

The then President Hoover was defeated and Doak died, but the architects went on with the original plans. As she was preparing to move into her new building Miss Perkins recently learned of the bathroom arrangement. She flatly declared she would not provide fodder for a new series of bathroom jokes and ordered a change in the plans.

The architects argued, the contractors fought, and Mr. Wyzanski sulked—not that he wanted to bathe in her bath but merely that he wanted to bathe somewhere. Like a woman, Miss Perkins had her way and the wall went up.

So Another Bath Is Built.

To mollify Wyzanski contractors put another bath in his office. This is not so sumptuous as the Perkins bath, which has seven needle sprays, soft tinted tiles, full length mirrors and frosted glass, but it satisfies Counsel Wyzanski, to whom a bath is a bath so long as it is Saturday night.

The cost of the Wyzanski bath also will be felt by taxpayers. Other remodeling undertaken at the direction of Madame Secretary will be felt in the same quarter.

She had hundreds of feet of polished marble flooring torn up and replaced by cork on the ground the former provided insecure footing for high heels. She replaced elaborate lighting fixtures of considerable cost with others she selected as more harmonizing.

Decorations Kept Secret.

Miss Perkins has drawn heavily from her wifely training in planning her new official home. It will be recalled that she is in private life the wife of a Mr. Paul Wilson of New York, who is jocularly referred to here as the "forgotten man" because he has been as anonymous as the other senator from Idaho.

The secretary is guarding her interior decorating as though it were a cabinet secret. Photographers have been banned from her suite. She has explained that the veil of secrecy will be lifted when she completes the decorating and enters her new office. The building is expected to be dedicated, down to the two baths, with a shower of oratory in about ten days.

WOMEN'S JURY BILL IS OFFERED ILLINOIS HOUSE

New Measure Omits Referendum Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Rid of the referendum clause which the Supreme court found objectionable four years ago, a bill to permit women to serve upon juries in Illinois was introduced in the house today by a Republican and a Democrat sponsor. Representative Bernice T. Van Der Vries of Winnetka was the Republican and Representative Warren E. Brockhouse of Concord the Democrat.

Four years ago the general assembly approved a similar bill, which, however, contained a provision that the question be submitted to the voters for approval. Former Gov. Emmerson signed it but the Supreme court held that the legislature was exceeding its authority in delegating the referendum power.

Labor Measures Offered.

A number of other important bills were introduced in the house today, labor measures predominating. Perhaps the one most certain to find objections was a measure for a straight five day week, presented by Representative R. G. Soderstrom [Republican, Streator], president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Establishments which would have to adopt the five day rule, under Soderstrom's bill, include mechanical, mercantile, mines, quarries, mills, shops, factories, laundries, hotels, restaurants, telephone and telegraph offices, delivery agencies, operators of common carriers and public utilities. They would be required to keep time books open for inspection to the department of labor.

The bill carries an emergency clause which would make it effective immediately if passed by a two-thirds' majority in each house and signed by the governor.

Calls for "Prevailing" Wages.

Another bill similar to one knocked out by the Supreme court in 1931 was introduced by Representative A. L. Auth [Dem., Chicago]. It calls for payment of a wage not less than the prevailing rate on all public works. The measure passed in 1931 caused much confusion among contractors before it was declared void by the Supreme court.

James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] introduced a bill prohibiting managing committees of political parties from indorsing candidates prior to the holding of primary elections. He finds this practice "contrary to the spirit of the primary law," he said.

Hits "I Gotta Drag Club."

Another Burns' measure would prevent state officers and members of the legislature from using stars on their motor vehicles.

"They are just members of the 'I Gotta Drag' club," Burns said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—By a vote of 109 to 0 the house of representatives today adopted a bill sponsored by Mayor Kelly and the city council that would save Chicago taxpayers $422,000 by eliminating the March 5 intermediate registration of voters if the senate also approves it.

After its passage in the house, the bill was taken down the corridor to the senate where, at the request of Senator George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago] it was placed on second reading. Its proponents hope that it will be passed this week.

The measure was proposed by the city administration because of the closeness of the March 5 registration to the one that will be held on Jan. 29 for the aldermanic election and mayoral primary. After the Jan. 29 registration, new voters can be added to the poll books and the rolls revised at the offices of the board of election commissioners in the city hall.

Four suburbs also are affected by the bill. In Cicero and Berwyn March 5 registrations are to be eliminated. Chicago Heights abolishes its March 19 registration, and Elmwood Park the one that was to have been held on Jan. 29. The four suburbs will save a total of $18,918.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

STATES RUNNING WILD.

Some of these days one or more of the effervescing, fizzling states of the American Union may be a bit taken back to find a squad from the department of justice or a brigadier general of the marines with a detachment at the statehouse, inquiring what the so-called authorities proposed to do to restore a republican form of government. The wilder sisters are probably safe from the present federal administration, which itself might have trouble answering the same question.

The people of the states are guaranteed by the law of their country the perpetuation of a republican form of government. That phrase is a broad one, but there is no doubt it means a representative democracy in which the people make their laws and elect their executives. When new states have been admitted their constitutions have been examined to see that they did not infringe upon the constitutional principle. After admission they have been allowed to cut up a good many capers, it being reasonably assumed that after their gyrations, head stands, and tail-spins they would swing back to normal.

Present day monkeyshines in Louisiana, North Dakota, Rhode Island, along with exhibitions started and postponed in Louisiana, Minnesota and elsewhere, are evidence that some members of the federal family cannot be considered as beyond the possibility of really serious departures from the American form of government. It is a matter for concern to discover that politics in some of the states has become so irresponsible that almost anything can happen following upon the heels of a great many things that already have. Louisiana has a republican form of government in form only. The form is there, but the fact is one of dictatorship. Louisiana gets its laws and its administration from the bedroom of Huey Long, United States senator. There is no pretense of other authority and Louisiana is no better off than Prussia or any other Hitlerized German state.

The foundation of the American republic has been the willingness of the people to establish their government upon free elections, the results of which would be accepted without violence and rebellion. Inability to do this leads to government by force, of which Cuba is at present an exhibit. North Dakota appears to be going Cuba libre and it is not the only illustration of violent politics in the United States. Various sections of the country are falling under the influence of pop-eyed medicine men and of storm troopers.

There is manifest a new readiness to call out soldiers to protect politicians and their tenure, to keep one man in office and another out. It is assumed that the American people cannot fall into such a low estate. It would be their crowning misfortune.

THE TRUE BEAR OIL.

Nudism as a cure for what ails society has not gained a commanding place in the planned society, but the nudists, even when practicing their art, are clothed in hope. Their formula is simple. Dr. Townsend says his is simple, but the nudists' is even less complicated. One merely sheds garments and admits the light and the truth.

Although the nudist when engaged in his cult is not unnoticeable, he has been unable to make headway against the preoccupations of the people. Where Upton Sinclair can gather his tens of thousands and Dr. Townsend his thousands, the children of the universal panacea can gather only scores. Huey Long, a mental nudist, can pack them in, and Comrade Zack Foster, expert dialectician who would strip everybody of everything, rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief, has a satisfactory fan mail. All make progress except the purveyors of the one true elixir.

The universal bear oil, of which there are so many fraudulent imitations lacking magic, fails to win the people who are taking worthless substitutes by the spoonful from Dr. Tugwell, Dr. Richberg, Dr. Morgan, Dr. Foster, Dr. Perkins, Dr. Morgenthau, and other medicine men who never get any closer to the secret of universal happiness than to its shadow.

An undefeatable confidence in the ultimate prevailing of reason in the human bean, postponed from century to century as that victory may be, sustains the children of the only true way of life. They recognize now in Al Smith, former governor of New York, an opponent who may be gained to sympathy and understanding. Appeal will be taken to his liberal mind, known as the foe of despotisms. If Mr. Smith could join in the spirit even if not in the flesh, the planned society would be nearer Eden and with some hope of getting there. And whatever his decision, there is the Civil Liberties league. Will it not ride to the defense of oppressed nudists?

Man's chief enemy is distrust of himself, leading to distrust of others, to inertia and prejudices, covetousness, pride of possessions and cruel struggles for them. The nudist sheds all these ills with his clothes. A colony might be established in the Tennessee valley recruited from the investors in southern light and power companies' stocks and bonds.

INTRODUCE SUBURBAN SERVICE APPROPRIATE TO THIS CENTURY.

Just twenty-six months ago THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE inserted a plank in its platform for Chicago reading, "Speed Up Railway Passenger Service." During that interval we have been pleased to acknowledge through our columns a reduction of two and one-quarter hours in travel to New York on the New York Central and Pennsylvania star trains, the Century and Broadway, as well as a saving of from two to four hours on a round dozen of Chicago-New York stellar trains of lesser magnitude operated by the same roads. To Washington, an hour has been lopped from the schedules of the Pennsylvania's Liberty Limited and the Baltimore and Ohio's Capitol Limited.

South bound, the Illinois Central has restored its Panama Limited on a twenty hour schedule to New Orleans and three and one-half hour reductions in the train service to Florida have been accomplished by the Illinois Central and Pennsylvania. Among the western lines, the Chicago and North Western has made the outstanding contribution with its mile a minute train to St. Paul, but we must also cite the fact of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific and North Western in abbreviating their Milwaukee service to the extent of forty-five minutes in a ninety mile run. Reduced schedules to the Pacific coast, to St. Louis, and Minneapolis through the good offices of the Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Alton, the Milwaukee road, and the Burlington will be operated as soon as streamlined trains are built. Other announcements are pending; indeed there is scarcely a Chicago road which has not carefully examined its passenger schedules with a view to some improvement.

And, gentlemen of the rails, don't you feel better with public approbation succeeding criticism? We are painfully aware that you still have your financial worries, but isn't there a thrill in accomplishment alone that makes the future look just a bit brighter? You have been willing to admit frankly on inquiry that each outstanding new schedule has been rewarded by increased public patronage. Why not make a start in another direction? We are certain that business will flow back to the rails if a rejuvenated suburban service is established. Nothing short of a mile a minute schedule and a rearrangement of terminals to facilitate prompt loading and unloading of passengers will suffice. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is willing again to assume leadership, and to this end has established a new plank in its platform reading: "Introduce Suburban Service Appropriate to This Century."

THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR.

Howard Crainich, sentenced last week by Judge Steffen to a thirty year term of imprisonment on a confession of rape, had a prior experience with the law which could hardly have impressed him with respect for its discipline. Crainich, so far as the records show, began his acquaintance with legal restraint when, in September, 1928, he was found guilty of barratry or stirring up quarrels or litigation. Upon this conviction he was put under probation for six months. In April, 1927, he was sent to the House of Correction for a year on conviction of petty larceny and, strangely enough, served the full term. Four years later he was found guilty of disorderly conduct in Duluth and committed for sixty days, and in July of the following year, 1933, was found guilty of grand larceny and sentenced to a term of two to ten years in Stillwater [Minnesota] penitentiary, where he was discharged after a year and nine months.

He was by this time in his thirties but not precisely headed toward lawful living, for he has now been sentenced to a twenty year term at Joliet for robbery and a thirty year term for confessed rape, the sentences to run concurrently.

He has still a sporting chance of escape and the more promising opportunities which probation and parole administrations have been known to offer to culprits as dangerous as he has shown himself to be. He has proved that he is not fit to be at large, but that offers little assurance that in due time, long before his term is ended, he will not be turned loose upon the community.

Editorial of the Day

A HOOSIER PROPENSITY FOR WHICH THERE IS NO EXPLAINING.

[Waterloo, Ia., Courier.]

One universally recognized fact for which there seems to be no satisfactory explanation is the propensity on the part of Hoosiers to employ superlatives in describing the wonders of their truly wonderful state.

This propensity is by no means limited to Indiana's native sons. We have noticed it—indeed, one cannot escape it—in those who must perforce leave that "Indiana home" advertised so extensively by barber shop quartets.

We have noticed it—to a marked degree—in those who are Hoosiers only through adoption.

We were reminded of the Hoosier's harmless magniloquence recently when a friend marveled at the inexplicable metamorphosis of a former Waterloo resident now ensconced in Indiana. It seems that the erstwhile loyal Iowan is now glorifying the Hoosier state. "Even the trains run faster in Indiana," it was pointed out.

There must be something about "moonlight on the Wabash" or the "husky, rusty russel of the tassels" of Indiana corn that is distinctly different from moonlight on the Mississippi, or the "husky, rusty russel" of Iowa corn.

Why should Hoosiers be so eloquent, and Iowans so mute, in describing the merits of their respective states? We have the raw materials. An Iowan imbued with the loyal spirit of a Hoosier might even hold up his end of the argument in a discussion of the belles-lettres of his state.

If we were to point out the greatest weakness of the average Iowan it would be this unfortunate propensity of hiding Iowa's commendable attributes under a bushel. On the other hand, residents of the Hoosier state might profit by an occasional reminder that there is a point beyond which effusion ceases to prove effective.

"YELPS OF HOUNDS Thrill Hunters During Fox Hunt."—La Trib. But hold! Maybe it wasn't the yelps of the hounds the hunters heard; it may have been the anised bag screaming with terror. When an anised bag is being dragged over hill and dale to lure the hounds it often becomes very frightened when it hears the dogs close behind it and it shrieks and carries on something awful. Suppose you were a poor, peace-loving anised bag and had a lot of hounds and hunters and things sicked on you! Wouldn't you yelp? I betcha.

"CONGREGATIONAL LEADER SAYS World Is in Hell Right Now."—Headline. What, with a blizzard howling outside and snow and ice all around and the thermometer down below zero? That isn't my idea of hell. I believe in the old fashioned brimstone and sulphur hell, with red-hot fires blazing all around. And if hell is really like that, while I can't speak in behalf of the whole world, I can only say that personally I should just love to be there during January and February and the first half of March.

"SPEAKER URGES Gentlemanly Drinking."—Oh, very well. But can we make the ladies join in and also engage in gentlemanly drinking? It doesn't seem possible when a lady at the bar orders a martini cocktail and then tells the barkeep to add a teaspoonful of benedictine, an orange peel, crème de menthe, half a lemon, a slice of pineapple, one dash of absinthe, two candied cherries, and a little grenadine. A bartender will make the thing when a lady customer demands it, but he doesn't call it a martini; he calls it a Hungarian goulash or a New England boiled dinner. And it certainly does not come in the card index as gentlemanly drinking. Oh, dear, no; it is something much more like a lord mayor's banquet or a Christmas dinner.

THE SUPREME COURT is going to let us wait two weeks more before it says whether or not the gold clause is constitutional. I've told the grocer and the butcher and the tailor they'll have to wait. It may be that a dollar bill may be worth just that or it may be worth one dollar and sixty-nine cents, and who am I to decide this matter ahead of the Supreme court? The very idea! I wouldn't even dare pay back that four bits I borrowed of Phil Maxwell. The Supreme court decides these things, not I.

"PRESIDENT AGAIN CHOOSES Garner as His Running Mate."—Headline. That word "again" must mean that some one named Garner was his running mate before. But the running mate of a presidential candidate is the nominee for the vice presidency. As Mr. Roosevelt was elected, then it follows that his running mate, who must have been Mr. Garner, was also elected. And therefore Mr. Garner must be at this time the Vice President of the United States. Thus you see that the greatest mysteries can be readily solved by deduction.

Oh, I am learned—
(And clever, too)—
But . . . I don't know Myself . . . do you?

"PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 Fights Way Out of Trap."—La Trib. How come? Anybody with any kind of memory who has been reading the newspapers ought to know that Public Enemy No. 1 has been killed a half dozen times within two months. And yet he bobs up once more and either gets killed again or escapes from a trap. The next time they get hold of Public Enemy No. 1 they shouldn't waste time shooting him unless he promises to stay dead. It's very annoying to have him keep jumping up out of his grave and running around all over the place.

WHITE CELLS AS DEFENSE TROOPS.

THE importance of the red blood cells to health is fairly well understood. The functions of the white cells, or leucocytes, on the other hand, are not so clear. Nevertheless the white cells play as significant a rôle as do the red cells. They must be maintained in a definite ratio and total—somewhere between five and ten thousand per cubic millimeter of blood.

The white cells constitute the body's army of defense and there are several sorts of types. They actually swallow and destroy bacteria found in the tissues and the blood. In addition they neutralize to some extent the poison given off by bacteria anywhere in the body.

One may compare the white cells to our regular army consisting of infantry, cavalry, and artillery with aviation and tank corps. The force is maintained at constant strength and there is a steady flow of new recruits to replace the retirements due to old age and other causes. Should war break out, that is, should the body be invaded by bacteria, this standing army of white cells promptly mobilizes and recruiting stations are established in order to supply cells lost because of casualties. In some battles (infections) the infantry will serve more efficiently than the cavalry; in another situation (a different type of bacterial invasion) aircraft with showers of bombs will be most effective.

New white cells are produced in the bone marrow, in the lymph glands, and in the spleen. Whenever the body is attacked by infection these structures become very active in producing and training new cells. The ebb and flow of the battle against disease in the human body may be fairly accurately measured by the response of the white cell troops. If the casualties are so high that youths (immature cells) are found in the ranks it is an indication that the reserve forces (of the body) have been subject to a severe drain.

In some infections the gravity of the disease may be measured by the response of the white cells. For example, in appendicitis, as in most infections, the white cell count is usually in direct proportion not only to the severity of the infection but to the reserve power of the body. As a rule the leucocytes mobilize before symptoms become marked. In other words, the response of the white cell army is more prompt than the other signs of disease.

Whenever there is an infection within the body white cells rally and, without waiting for the word of command, start the combat with bacteria. In a few diseases, notably typhoid, uncomplicated tuberculosis, measles, and mumps, no increase in the white cells follows the onset of the infection. In fact, there is usually a slight decrease. This is possibly due to the toxins of the disease—a gas attack, as it were—destroying the mobilizing power of the leucocytes.

When the physician makes a count of the white blood cells he is measuring one of the powerful defensive forces of the body. Should he find these cells high in number he will know that infection exists somewhere and he will hunt until he finds it.

SHINGLES.

REPLY.

Shingles or herpes zoster is an acute inflammatory disease of the skin, appearing along the course of a nerve. Severe pain may precede the eruption, which is usually on one side of the chest. It frequently follows exhaustion or infection and may appear subsequent to pneumonia, influenza, measles, and certain other infections. There is usually some temperature and the skin is tender and painful. The cause is not known, but it is evidently some toxin affecting the intercostal nerves.

Alcohol, full strength, may be applied locally at frequent intervals, and various ointments containing opium have been used. Lotions that are made up of a small amount of carbolic acid and camphor are often helpful.

MITRAL REGURGITATION.

W. R. M. writes: What is mitral regurgitation? Does this condition cause myocarditis?

REPLY.

Mitral regurgitation means that the valve between the upper and the lower chambers on the left side of the heart does not close tightly. That is, some of the blood that should flow out over the general circulation regurgitates or returns. This condition does not cause myocarditis. The latter may come from an infection and indicates that damage to the heart muscle has occurred.

Mitral regurgitation is compensated for or overcome by a thickening of the left lower chamber [ventricle] of the heart. This will occur if the muscle is in good tone and free from disease. If this does not take place there may be symptoms of heart failure, such as shortness of breath and swelling of the ankles.

SLEEP.

C. B. writes: I fail to sleep as soon as I hit the pillow, but after six hours I want to be up and doing. I have been told that I will have a breakdown if I do not get more sleep. I am 38 years old.

REPLY.

You should have eight hours, if possible, not because your muscles require it but because your nervous system needs that amount of relaxation. Add two hours to your daily rest period, even though you lie awake. A little practice will teach you how to relax.

PARTNERSHIP.

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How is a partnership business, operating as a company, dissolved according to law so party discontinuing business is not liable for further debts that might come up? 2. Where husband and wife are operating in business together as a company, can the wife indorse a promissory note as surety for the husband for goods used in the business, or otherwise, when she has a separate account of her own, and [3] can the holder of the note recover from her? If not, can he recover from the husband? 4. When the husband makes purchases, giving own personal note for stocks used in the company, is the wife's property liable for this claim? 5. When administrator is required to give bond in the settlement of an estate, would the court accept bonding company as surety when it is located out of the state? 6. Where two or more parties are operating a business as a company and have accumulated debts and notes outstanding against them [6] can one of them give a personal note as a gift, or otherwise, to a relative that [7] would stand to dispose of their property, and separate account, and [8] avoid the payment of the company debts in the settlement of their estate in the event of death?

M. C. G.

1. The only way for a partner to terminate his liability for past debts is to pay them or secure release from the creditors. As to future debts he should bring home notice of his withdrawal to persons who have dealt with the partnership.

2. As between the husband and wife, the right of the wife to indorse would depend on what authority the husband has actually given to her. As to third parties, the question would depend upon her apparent authority. In other words, on whether the husband had held the wife out as having authority to bind him.

3. Yes, if proper steps are taken to charge her as an indorser. We could advise to better advantage if the wording of the instrument and the indorsement were before us.

4. Yes.

5. The mere fact that the home office of the surety company is outside of the state would not be a fatal objection if that is what you mean to ask.

6. Yes.

7. We do not see how such a note would amount to a disposal of their property. In general, the rights of the donee would be subordinate to those of previous creditors.

8. Not if the facts are proved. We advise you to have a private interview with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—Recently the question was brought up as to whether a foreigner who entered the United States as a member of a crew is eligible for citizenship of this country. I have been unable to find any law on this subject. If one who entered under the circumstances mentioned would apply for citizenship papers, would he be deported? Would the fact that such alien is married to an American born citizen, or has children born in this country since his entry, have any material bearing on the case in question? If he did so arrive and has secured first papers, can he secure second papers? Would good character weigh in favor of such applicant? J. P. V.

In order to take steps toward naturalization an alien must have been legally admitted to the United States. It is assumed that the inquirer is raising a question about an alien who entered the United States illegally as a seaman. If such be the case, naturalization will not be possible until the residence has been made legal, if this can be done. Under existing law an alien of good moral character, who has resided in the United States continuously since before June 3, 1921, may have his residence legalized. If the subject of this inquiry entered the United States before the date mentioned he may apply to this office for such legalization and, if it is approved, may thereafter proceed with steps toward citizenship.

Marriage to an American citizen, or birth of children in the United States, does not of itself entitle an alien to remain in the United States if his residence otherwise is not legal, but these facts are taken into consideration by the service.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

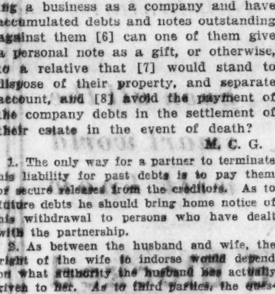
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



The standardized power of a horse is two-thirds of one horsepower. This was arrived at by Watt and Boulton when they tried to indicate the power of their steam engines. They discovered that strong work horses in London could lift 22,000 pounds one foot per minute during the day. This made 22,000 foot pounds. They then added 50 per cent to this for good measure and established one horsepower as 33,000 foot pounds per minute, which is now the standard of horsepower energy. Horses under stress, can, however, develop about twelve horsepower per minute.

B. FRANKLIN ON PAPER MONEY.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—I am constrained to disagree with Prof. Jernegan of the University of Chicago, whose address at the Union League club you publish this morning, indicating that Benjamin Franklin, if alive today, would reveal himself as so conservative as to oppose the policies of Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal. The professor evidently hasn't read the following from Franklin's autobiography:

"About this time [1729] there was a cry among the people for more paper money, only 15,000 pounds being extant in the province. The wealthy inhabitants opposed any addition, being against all paper currency from an apprehension that it would depreciate as it had done in New England to the prejudice of all creditors. We had discussed this point in our junto [debating club] when I was on the side of an addition, being persuaded that the first small sum struck in 1723 had done much good by increasing the trade, employment, and number of inhabitants in the province, since I now saw all the old houses inhabited and many new ones building, where, as I remembered well that when I first walked about the streets of Philadelphia eating my roll, I saw most of the houses in Walnut street between Second and Trout streets with bills on their doors "To be let," and many likewise in Chestnut street and other streets, which made me think the inhabitants of the city were deserting it for another. Our debates possessed me so fully on the subject that I wrote and printed an anonymous pamphlet on it entitled, "The Nature and Necessity of a Paper Currency." It was well received by the common people. . . . My friends then, who conceived I had been of some service, thought fit to reward me by employing me in printing the money, a very profitable job and a great help to me." ARTHUR SIMMONS.

A REPLY FROM DR. DUNDESEN.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—In answer to the letter of Mrs. J. O., published in the Voice of the People of Jan. 16, may I state that the new regulations relative to the age of milk when sold requires that it shall be fresh and shall not be sold at any time after the day and time which appear on the cap?

When the new regulations become legally effective, all milk will be labeled with the words, "To be sold before noon Wednesday," or whatever the day may be. The regulations, therefore, are self-enforcing in that each purchaser may determine for himself whether or not the milk is fresh.

This regulation was made only in the interest of improving the milk supply, and preventing the sale of old, stale milk, such as Mrs. J. O. states has been sold in the past.

With the increase in the milk inspection field force, all of the dairy farms and milk plants selling milk in Chicago will be under strict supervision at all times.

The ordinance and regulations, recently adopted, follow closely the principles of the standard ordinance of the United States public health service, and will provide every person in the city with milk of grade A quality, the highest kind possible to attain.

The passing of Mayor Kelly's ordinance will do more to improve the health of babies and small children than any other legislative act which has been adopted in recent years.

HERMAN N. BUNDESEN,
President, Board of Health.

FOR PAYMENT OF THE BONUS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Your paper has again reverted to its well known policy of headlining any news that appears to be against the veteran.

I am, of course, referring to the bonus article in which you feature the statement of Henry I. Harriman, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce. The national office of that organization apparently undertook to speak for the various chambers of commerce around the country, when it is a well known fact that many of the local chambers have already passed resolutions asking their national headquarters to refrain from opposing the passage of this legislation, because they honestly believe that the payment of the bonus at this time will help the local business people in the various communities.

Mr. Harriman seems to dwell upon the fact that he believes the veteran has no right to ask the payment of the contract which he claims has still ten years to run, and that the demand of the veteran at this time for the payment of the balance amounts to a demand for a new bonus. He seems to forget that the adjusted compensation legislation passed in 1924 was an adjustment of the veteran's wages covering his period of service and was recognized in 1924 as an obligation of the government reverting to the day of the veteran's discharge.

However, congress at that time failed to allow the veteran any interest for the fact that the debt was not paid at the time of discharge, and that the veteran actually waited seven years for even the acknowledgment of it and then another two years was assessed to the life of the policy before any loan value was due the veteran, and not until 1931 was he permitted even to borrow the interest to which he should have been entitled from the time of discharge from the service.

Veterans as a whole cannot forget the fact that the government in its contractual relationships with corporations, many of which Mr. Harriman represents, presented their claims to the government for moneys due them on contracts that matured because of the armistice, and that in almost all instances the government settled promptly with the big corporations, and in many cases actually allowed interest for the length of time they had to wait for their money.

Another point not commonly commented on is the fact that under the present law the face value of the adjusted service certificates less any loans and interest due the government is paid to the designated beneficiary upon the death of the veteran. It would therefore follow that if all veterans now in possession of adjusted service certificates should die this year the fullest value of these certificates would be payable in the same manner that the Legion is asking for the settlement to living veterans. Over 189,000 veterans in possession of adjusted service certificates have died since 1924, when the law was passed.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—An out of towner told me that he does not understand our peculiar Chicago language. He said that the other day he asked a Chicagoan to have a drink with him and asked, "What will you have?"

"At me?"

"No, on you."

"Where in Chicago do you live?"

"Only a bomb's throw from the loop."

Now what do you think of that?

BULGARIAN KING HITS BACK; OUSTS FASCIST REGIME

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 22.—The Gueorguieff cabinet, which took office as a result of a coup last May, suddenly resigned today.

KING BORIS.

The resignation is regarded in political circles as a personal triumph for King Boris. He rebelled and refused to surrender his prerogatives after having been virtually a prisoner of the government and having had to look on while preparations were made to deprive him of all influence and convert him into an ornamental appendage to a new Fascist régime.

The king personally received Premier Kimon Gueorguieff's resignation and instructed Gen. Petko Zlateff, war minister under Gueorguieff, to form a new cabinet, completion of which was announced tonight. It is expected to develop into a personal government by Boris.

Resembled Military Coup.

In addition to Gen. Zlateff, two other members of the new cabinet are military leaders.

Behind the sudden change in government lies something closely akin to a military coup which may produce a big change in Bulgarian policy at home and possibly also abroad, despite the retention of the previous foreign minister.

Ever since the execution of the coup by the military last May which put Gueorguieff in power hostility between King Boris and his cabinet had been on the increase.

King Refuses to Quit.

Recently Col. Veltcheff, the man behind the Fascist facade, urged that the king be deprived of all influence over home and foreign affairs. He particularly demanded that Boris should no longer be in a position to appoint and dismiss ministers.

The king refused to surrender his prerogatives and the reaction in his favor in military circles is regarded responsible for today's move. Although there is no truth at present in reports that Col. Veltcheff has been arrested, it seems that the influence of this man, the driving force behind all the agitation for the limitation of monarchy, has been eliminated.

TELL STORY OF HEROIC FIGHT IN MASSACRE OF 97

Camel Troops, Planes Hunt African Savages.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A story of heroism in the face of certain death was told in dispatches from French Somaliland tonight as camel troops, Senegalese sharpshooters, and airplanes scoured Somililand's borders in search of savage tribesmen who slew 17 French colonial employés and 80 Somalis.

The reports contained the first details of the death of Albert Julien Bernard, 26 year old administrator, and sixteen native militiamen, who plunged into battle against overwhelming odds near Dikkil last Friday.

Attacks at Dawn.

After marching all day in an effort to cut off the raiders, the Frenchman and his force encamped near Marheito. At dawn he attacked.

For two hours the little band of militiamen fought desperately against an enemy numbering 800, armed with 1874 model rifles and short, sharp cutlasses. At last their ammunition gave out. The tribesmen, who fight to the beat of tom-toms, closed in. Bernard fell, stabbed 10 times. The rest of the band was also destroyed.

What casualties the tribesmen suffered was not learned. A troop of the camel corps, reënforced by Senegalese riflemen and assisted by airplanes, left Djibouti to pursue them.

Affair Called Local.

French officials emphasized that the affair was purely local in nature, describing it as an unfortunate "occurrence incidental to colonial rule."

French authorities appeared extremely anxious to absolve Ethiopia from any blame in the matter. Conditions along the border are such, it was said, that Ethiopia is no more responsible than any other nation for the activities of roaming outlaw bands.

It was said, however, that Ethiopia might be asked to increase her border guards in an effort to restrain the operations of the Aiss Amaras, described as violent roving bands which frequently attack French, Italian and Ethiopian outposts and recognize no sovereignty.

Came from Ethiopia.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Jan. 22—(AP)—Albert Julien Bernard, French colonial official, and his small command of native police were massacred while defending 200 French Somalis against 2,000 nomad raiders, said reports to the governor general late today.

These reports from French agents sent to investigate last Friday's tragedy said the marauding savage tribesmen came from the Ethiopian province of Aoussa, crossed into French territory and began pillaging and burning villages in their path, killing all who resisted.

NEW RUSSO-JAP QUARREL SEEN IN WESTERN CHINA

Red Influence Grows in Sinkiang Province.

TOKIO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A new danger spot appeared on the vast, trouble splotched map of Asia today as Russia and Japan found their expansionist aims clashing in Sinkiang, huge northwestern territory nominally under Chinese rule.

With threatened conflict in Manchuria apparently staved off by virtual agreement for Russia's sale of the Chinese Eastern railway, an official Japanese spokesman said the soviet's alleged penetration of Sinkiang "menaces the peace and stability of eastern Asia," maintenance of which is Japan's mission.

Authoritative Russian quarters termed the charges of soviet political penetration into Sinkiang fanstastic, but admitted that Russia's economic influence there has increased since the completion of the Turkestan-Siberian railway, which affords an outlet for Sinkiang's commerce.

Area of 550,000 Square Miles.

The Sinkiang issue erupted almost simultaneously with the announcement of the railway agreement. The foreign office spokesman, amplifying Hirota's diet statement, asserted the territory of 550,000 square miles is rapidly falling under the domination of the soviet.

"Our information, which emanates from high Chinese officials, shows that the present leaders of Sinkiang are under the control of Moscow," the foreign office spokesman asserted.

"Further, we are informed that the retirement of Chinese communists into Szechwan [from Ahnwei and Kweichow provinces] is purely a strategic retreat on orders carried to communist leaders in Kiangsi [former fountainhead of Chinese communism].

"Chinese communists are hoping to find in Szechwan richer pastures and plentiful rice and salt, which they lack in Kiangsi, and also close connections with soviets dominating Sinkiang and Outer Mongolia.

Study Finland's Army.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 22.—Capt. Neishimura of the Japanese general staf has arrived in Finland for a two-year stay in order thoroughly to study the country's conditions.

According to the newspapers, his special object is to acquaint himself with the army's training for winter warfare and the organization of the civic guards. A Japanese military surgeon named Masuda has also arrived in Finland to study the army's medical institutions.

In the fighting in Manchuria in 1932 and 1933, especially in the invasion of the high mountains of Jehol province, the Japanese army has had to operate in bitterly cold winter weather comparable to that faced by troops in Finland.

PRO-NAZI POLICE CHIEF ARRESTED FOR SAAR KILLING

League's Plebiscite Unit Acts After "Execution."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 22.—Conflict between pro-Nazi police authorities in the Saar territory and the league of nations plebiscite commission, which is nominally responsible for preserving order until the territory is officially turned over to Germany, broke out today.

The clash followed the "execution" by local police of a German, Paul Meyer, leader of the Rhineland separatists. It was the first killing since the plebiscite.

Meyer, who was a former subprefect of St. Goarshausen in the Rhineland, and who fled to the Saar when the Rhineland was evacuated because of his political views, was shot down in his home at Hostenbach last night by Police Commissioner Tilk. Circumstances indicated the shooting was for political revenge.

Plebiscite Court Steps In.

The regular police court, offering typical coöperation with Nazi police officials against separatists and anti-Nazis, refused to issue a warant for Tilk's arrest after the affair, so the supreme plebiscite court stepped in and ordered Tilk's arrest, thereby officially admitting that the shooting was one of political reprisal.

Tilk, who was violently anti-French and who had tried several times before to find an excuse for arresting Meyer, went to the latter's home, which is located in a building belonging to the French mines administration.

Tilk was accompanied by police and gendarmes and was carrying a warant issued by reich authorities, and indorsed by the police court at Saarbruecken. It charged Meyer with fraud, which he supposedly had committed in Germany years previously. With the police was a mob of Nazis armed with clubs, which gave Meyer reason to believe he would be mauled if he surrendered.

Barricades Self.

Accordingly, he barricaded himself in his cellar with an unloaded revolver. His wife and 14 year old son begged the police for mercy, but they were brutally shoved aside. Tilk fired through the cellar door. The bullets hit Meyer in the heart and stomach, killing him instantly.

Maj. Arthur Hennessy, of the international police, later questioned witnesses who said nine policemen entered the Meyer home and proceeded to break down the cellar door. Witnesses claimed the police began firing almost immediately without warning and that Meyer was fired upon even when dying.

There was much agitation in Saarbruecken following the shooting and the exodus to France is quickening because of fear of similar incidents.

EX-U. S. ENVOY DENIES ACTING AS "CUPID" FOR KING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—One of the season's best stories was spoiled today when Charles C. Hart, former minister to Albania, denied he had acted as a "diplomatic cupid" in an attempt to find King Zog an American bride with a $1,000,000 a year income.

Zog, the world's only bachelor sovereign, sought Hart's assistance—Vienna dispatches said—in finding an American girl with beauty, ability and a hefty annual income. Hart was reported to have surveyed the field here and then to have given Zog a list of Yankee dollar princesses.

A former newspaper man, Hart said in a statement that the Albanian ruler never had made such a request of him, that he had made no survey of the marriage market, and that he had not taken a list of marriageable millionairesses to the king.

FRENCH CABINET VOTES INCREASE OF BOND LIMIT

Opposition Sees Move as Inflation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 22.—A proposal to raise the limit of French treasury bonds from 10 to 15 billion francs was submitted by Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin today and approved by the council of ministers.

The proposal probably will come up for debate in parliament Friday when a lively discussion of the whole French financial monetary and economic policy is expected. Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin has indicated he intends to make this an occasion for a general outline of the government's program and Germain-Martin will explain the functioning of a plan for expanding the French credit system.

Battle on Inflation.

At the same time opponents are preparing to assail the government's position from two directions. There are first those who consider the government proposals a form of disguised inflation and will attempt to block any divergence from the conservative path followed hitherto. On the other hand, inflationists, who in recent weeks have been becoming more active are expected to come out in the open demanding devaluation as preliminary to international stabilization.

Paul Reynaud, who previously had come close to advocating devaluation, announced he will be one of the speakers.

Germain-Martin in his statement to the council of ministers today emphatically denied the government measure aimed in the slightest at any unwaranted inflation. He reiterated pledges he has often given to maintain monetary stability and insisted limited measures he proposes to take could not endanger French finances.

Seek Credit Expansion.

The bill as framed permits raising the issue of treasury bonds to 15 billion francs [$990,000,000] and also allows the government during the year to proceed with consolidation operations. This is preliminary to intended credit expansion which it is hoped to accomplish by inducing the Bank of France to discount treasury bonds—a scheme announced with the appointment of Jean Tannery as governor of the bank.

Germain-Martin insisted the plan would lower interest rates and draw from hiding some of the estimated 40 billion francs [$2,640,000,000] hoarded. He proposed to convert some of the government's big loans into lower rate issues "at a more favorable moment."

Dispute Deficit Figure.

The proposed bond issue follows recent official estimates that the current budget deficit will be 825,000,000 francs [approximately $54,450,000]. Joseph Caillaux, former finance minister, estimated, however, that the deficit would reach 3,000,000,000 francs and asserted the government would have to borrow 12,000,000,000 francs to cover present and past budgets. In addition, he said, 5,000,000,000 francs would be needed for the railways, which he said are losing $1,000,000 daily.

The financial cost of the Stavisky scandals, which brought in their train suicide, rioting and the ruin of several public careers, was fixed today by a parliamentary investigating committee at 194,000,000 francs [approximately $12,804,000].

HITLER HOST FOR FIRST TIME AT GALA DINNER GIVEN FOR DIPLOMATS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tonight gave his first gala dinner to the diplomatic corps of Berlin in Germany's former white house, used only for receptions since the death of President Paul von Hindenburg. The dinner is an annual event.

Earlier in the day Hitler honored Gen. Karl Litzmann, who was celebrating his 85th birthday. Gen. Litzmann, one of Germany's world war leaders on the eastern front, was fêted as the first general of the old imperial army to join the Nazi party."

Accompanied by Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazis, and Minister of Propaganda Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler visited the general in his Berlin residence and presented him with an expensive car, promising that the Nazis would also maintain a chauffeur for him. Gen. Litzmann replied that as a soldier he had only done his duty and that the crowning event of his life was the work he was permitted to do for the National Socialist movement.

Postal Workers Must Root for Nazis or Lose Jobs

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—The German postal and telephone authorities issued today a statement of their personnel regulations which asserts that every employé must be an active and enthusiastic Nazi or lose his job. One of the most familiar subjects of Nazi speakers before the party got into office was the spoils system of the Social Democratic and other parties.

286 CANDIDATES IN COUNCIL RACE AS FILING CLOSES

Last Minute Rush; 43 Incumbents Enter.

A total of 286 candidates, including 43 incumbents, had filed petitions seeking the four year aldermanic term in the Feb. 26 election, when the deadline on filings was reached at 5 p. m. yesterday.

A last minute rush of candidates kept clerks in the offices of the board of election commissioners busy throughout the day and up until the last minute. There were 172 petitions filed yesterday, as compared with 114 received during the previous period since filings started Dec. 28.

Seven wards are certain to be represented by new aldermen following the election. The election of John Toman, former 23d ward alderman, as sherif and John S. Clark, as county treasurer, who formerly represented the 30th, added to two existing vacancies in the 17th and 25th.

Three Aldermen Retiring.

In addition, three aldermen now sitting, David L. Sutton [8th], Thomas A. Doyle [11th], and Dr. Henry J. Wieland [38th], did not file. Sutton and Doyle declared they are retiring from politics because of ill health, and Dr. Wieland said he is "tired of politics" and prefers to return to his dental practice.

There are no wards without a contest, although in the 5th, represented by Ald. James J. Cusack Jr., the 14th, represented by Ald. James J. McDermott, and the 50th, represented by Ald. James R. Quinn, there is only one candidate to oppose the present alderman.

Shortly after filing closed yesterday it was announced that George F. Hagenauer, chief clerk in the county treasurer's office, would withdraw as candidate from the 8th ward, and that the Democratic organization would support Michael Mulcahy.

Eleven Women Candidates.

There are eleven women listed as candidates. The full list of candidates by wards follows, asterisks indicating sitting aldermen.

The final date on which objections to the petitions now filed can be presented to the board of election commissioners is Jan. 28, and the deadline on withdrawals is Feb. 6. Yesterday was the last day for withdrawals from the mayoralty and city clerk campaigns, but Peter J. Brady, city clerk, announced no candidates had left the race.

ALD. HEALY SWINGS TWICE INTO JAW OF WORKER FOR RIVAL

Pre-primary fisticuffs occurred yesterday afternoon before the door of the election commissioners' office in the city hall. Ald. John F. Healy [6th] and Leo Kiley, a precinct captain for Patrick Sheridan Smith, committeeman of the 6th ward and former city clerk, were the participants.

According to some of the 200 witnesses who filled the lobby outside the commission's office, Mr. Smith, accompanied by Kiley, went inside to file his petition in the aldermanic race half an hour before the office closed.

Kiley stepped outside into the lobby a few minutes later. Calling him harsh names, according to witnesses, Ald. Healy, a candidate for reëlection, stepped up and let fly with two punches to Kiley's jaw. Mr. Smith hurried out and with several other men separated the pair before Kiley could return a blow. Mr. Smith and Kiley both said they were at a loss to explain the attack.

Style Expert Has Cure for Winter Chills

Spring Clothes Take Thoughts from Weather.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We would try to tell you about incoming spring clothes during a cold snap, but it's inevitable. In spite of wind and weather these new creations are arriving and they are irresistible! Maybe it's because we've struggled with thick winter woolens so long that these crisp, swagger spring things look so promising.

However, they do keep the best of the controled shoppers in a state of jitters waiting for a warmish day when they can be worn.

Capes still hold the spotlight, but separate coats [not jackets] are going to give these winter favorites a good run for popularity. Hitherto these coats, flaring and swagger as to style, have been half, the better half, of the smartest of sports clothes. From now on they are going to be different.

You'll wear these fresh looking, youthfully designed sort of coats with dresses, with suits, and even out at night over sheer and picturesque dance dresses. For daytime they come in tweeds, fuzzy woolens, and thick heavy silks and velveteens; for evening, in taffetas, silks, and velvet.

Such coat models become the pet of any good wardrobe, for they can be worn with gay, colorful printed dresses and with all and any of the slim tailored cotton and linen dresses as contrast.

The designers even fashion some of the bright huge checks and plaids of peasant linen into blazing color contrasts for spring and summer street ensembles. Jewel shades of velveteen are still another "future."

Fashion photograph . . . A preview of what will be worn next spring or summer. Big bright plaids in peasant crash are combined with monotone linen. The coat is one of the new length swaggers and is lined with the linen to match the blouse. The high crowned hat with side brim is also a hint of the future.

Preview of Spring Street Suit

The rough peasant linen that makes the slim skirt and new swagger length jacket coat is contrasted with monotone linen in the lining of the coat and the simple blouse. Square buttons march down the center of the blouse.

Good Morning!

This is the story of an auctioneer.

"Spot Cash" Cutler is the name.

He operates on Second avenue—dangerously—but within the law. His come-ons are amiable souls with the faculty of looking seraphically innocent when the occasion demands. His chief aid is a slick young fellow with a bird eye. Meaning, that "Smiley" Thompson can see in a lot of directions at once and spot peril before it has turned the corner.

Pretty soon there arrives an addition to the clique—namely, a starving damsel yclept Barbara.

After she has been fed up and clothed anew, Barbara proves a valuable ally. Yes—of course—she falls for "Spot Cash."

Comes a day when Cutler sells for a song to a society girl, Millicent Clark, a buckle which she has recognized as a genuine antique, and which she sells to a museum for a large sum.

Following Millicent up, "Spot" discovers her to be a racketeer in her own line and by her is persuaded to enter the phoney antique game.

A vurr' smooth baby, this Park Avenue Millicent, and till the bitter end "Spot Cash" never has an inkling that he's just her little catspaw and that the mouse that he's to rake in for her is a fortune of the blue-blooded gentleman to whom she's engaged.

Well, Mr. Cutler lives and learns—and so do you. A lot of things that'll make you fix the dour eye of suspicion on anybody who attempts to sell you some lovely old articles, "guaranteed" to be a relic of this, that or some other bygone day.

"THE PRINCE OF CASH."
Produced by Mundus.
Directed by Zoltan Korda.
Story by Anthony Gibbs.
Presented at the World Playhouse.

THE CAST.

Paul.....Robert Donat
Lillian.....Wendy Barrie
Her father.....Edmund Gwenn

This picture will do a lot more for the career of Wendy Barrie than for that of Robert [Count of Monte Cristo] Donat.

The former it establishes as an actress of poise, humor and beauty. The latter it invests with nothing at all—and you wonder how come you could have liked him so well and thought him so handsome in the screenization of the Dumas classic. Cheering thought: "The Prince of Cash" was made before "The Count of Monte Cristo."

In the movie over at the World he plays the entirely unbelievable rôle of an electrician who, coming mysteriously into the possession of $100,000, manages in an evening through great perspicacity to outwit three shrewd business men, acquire a neat little sum toward his future and win heart and hand of the daughter of one of the aforesaid business men. The film is awfully, awfully English, and, while admitting the ability of the players—a flop so far as my interest was concerned.

See you tomorrow!

Chairman for Gabrilowitsch Recital

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr., one of society's most popular young hostesses, has assumed the general chairmanship of the benefit committee sponsoring a piano recital by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, distinguished conductor of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, the afternoon of Feb. 3 in Orchestra hall. Part of the proceeds from the performance are to go to the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene.

Millburn Hunt Backs Concert by a Member

Mrs. Merrill Hubbard Will Sing Sunday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

If any one wants to find a member of the Millburn hunt between 3:30 and 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon they will have to page the audience in Orchestra hall for the first concert this season of the Chicago Civic orchestra.

With one of their number, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, making her first public appearance as a concert singer, the hunt members have subscribed for most of the boxes in the auditorium and are making enthusiastic plans for parties to attend the concert.

It isn't very often that the career of an expert equestrienne leads to that of prima donna and no one could be more surprised about it nor happier than Mrs Hubbard herself. Friends who met her in town yesterday swathed in mink even to her chic turban knew by her animation that she had something more in the offing than a mere luncheon or dinner engagement.

Each day this week she is devoting several hours to rehersing her two songs with the Civic orchestra at Orchestra hall. One of them is a Debussy number, the other a song by Korngold. Mrs. Hubbard has studied music ever since she was a young girl, but she had never thought about singing outside of her own drawing room until a number of her friends suggested the idea to her. Her appearance on Sunday is the result of competition judged by Eric DeLamarter, conductor of the Civic orchestra and assistant conductor of the Chicago Symphony.

Proving Ground for Orchestra.

The Civic orchestra is not well known in the city because it has never been publicized by its sponsors; at first the Civic Music association and latterly the Orchestral association. Organized by Frederick Stock immediately after the world war it has done a good work, however, in the thorough training of mature youngsters, not students, in the system, the repertory, the traditions of that greatest of musical ensembles, the symphony orchestra.

The concert on Sunday is the first of four to be given by the orchestra on the last Sunday of the first four months of this year. After Mrs. Hubbard has finished her performance, and received her bouquets, she will retire to her own box in which a guest will be her sister, Mrs. F. P. Sears, who is coming on from Boston for the occasion.

Some of the other huntsmen boxholders are Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Armour, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, Roger Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jelke, Mr. and Mrs. Farwell Winston, and Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury. Still other boxholders include Mrs. Fred-

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It would be just about impossible to beat one of our pets—a cold cream for cleansing—when it comes to getting your money's worth. It's not a new product. Been a standby for years. But these older things, like old friends, are apt not to be appreciated unless their virtues are emphatically brought to mind every once in a while.

The purity of this cream is undisputed and has passed most of those tests that critics of cosmetics seem to lie awake nights contriving. And they're pretty stiff tests, because the critics would like nothing better than to get something on some manufacturers, particularly the big ones. This cream is pretty generally conceded, even by the most cynical, to be close to perfection in the matter of price and quality.

The manufacturers have a liquefying cream, but we much prefer their cold cream as being kinder to skins that need lubrication. It isn't waxy, understand, like the cold creams of a by-gone day, but it is rich and creamy. It's a pure white, with a pleasant, clean fragrance that is in contrast to the sickening perfume resorted to in most inexpensive creams.

It's admirably efficient as a cleanser and you can use it, too, for softening and lubricating. A bit left on after the cleansing to soak in and soften up the parched skin will show you that it can play a double rôle very well indeed.

This is a cream we recommend without reservations to girls of limited income who are heavy cream users. There's nothing fancy about the jar it comes in, but there has been plenty of concentration on the quality of its contents. It won't disrupt the budget and it will help keep the skin in good shape.

You can buy it most everywhere.

Works 18 Months To Make New Coat from Farm Fleece

Mrs. William F. Conlon, 1922 Adams street, stood proudly before a triple mirror in a little tailoring shop at 3557 Broadway yesterday and carefully rearranged the folds of a smartly tailored brown woolen coat.

"From sheep's back to my back, but it took a year and a half to do it," she commented, stroking the finely woven cloth, "and I've still got enough left for a topcoat for my husband."

"The best material I've ever handled," spoke up Joseph Siegan, tailor. "It will last a lifetime."

Mrs. Conlon carded, spun, and wove the wool from some of her own sheep on her Indiana farm.

It all started May 13, 1933, when she started grading the fleeces from three caracul sheep, and it ended a year and a half to the day later, when she took the finished cloth—11 yards and 23 inches long, 33 inches wide—to be fashioned into a coat she designed herself.

Earliest Work by Stravinsky Given Ovation

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Igor Stravinsky ended his Chicago engagement as guest conductor of his own compositions as played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon with the same degree of success with which it began last week, the same large audience, almost the same amount of enthusiastic applause, the same exultant fanfare by the orchestra when the concert was ended.

Only in one item did the audience fall short of its expected and manifest duty. This was after the first number, Stravinsky's personal setting of the "Song of the Volga Bargemen," a strident, insistent, and brief harmonization for wind instruments and drums of one of the most popular tunes that has ever come out of Russia. It was so short and so lacking in climax that the audience hardly realized when it was over, consequently the applause was tentative, not to say experimental.

But there was compensation when Stravinsky conducted his next number, his first symphony in E flat. Despite the fact that this represented Stravinsky's music at almost its earliest, and that Frederick Stock had introduced it in December, it was a Stravinsky composition of considerable potency and high attraction. It went across with all the suavity and emphasis of Stravinsky at his best, and it was greatly liked.

These two compositions were a change from former programs by Mr. Stravinsky. The second half of the program consisted of the same numbers that he presented last week, the suites from the ballets, "Petrouchka" and "The Fire Bird," the best known and best liked of all his music as far as Chicago is concerned. They were played with extraordinary charm by the orchestra, and received like melodic and harmonic manna by the audience.

The Amy Neill String quartet, a chamber music organization of high ability, made one of its infrequent appearances at Kimball hall last night. It is not only a playing group in which to take delight, it goes far outside the customary field in its répertoire.

The first number was Bela Bartok's Second quartet, a work of such modernistic construction that one feels like offering a prize to any teacher of harmony able to analyze any single chord in its course. At the same time, it has form, content, and mood, and it belongs in any list of contemporary music.

In the rest of the program the organization called upon Lillian Pringle to assist as another cellist. First came arrangements of two preludes and fugues from Bach's Well Tempered Clavichord, transcribed by Mabel Wood Hill, and so well written and so well played that one hearer decided then and there to give them a definite preference over their original keyboard version. The final number was Schubert's Quintet, opus 163.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, had lived as a boy on the Russian estate of his stepfather and grew up with the large brood of children of a peasant family. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian in England. After the revolution in Russia, as Stefan Ivanovitch, he became a "secret observer" for England, adopting various peasant roles to hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and wants to quit his hazardous work. He is escaping out of Tronsk when he meets and rescues Elizabeth Radin, the widow of an executed engineer. Though English, her husband was half Russian. She is flying from the advances of Commissar Petroff, who is also after a secret formula of her husband's. Stephen takes her with him and tells her his history. Though he has fallen in love with her he refrains from letting her know. They are overtaken by Petroff and Irina, a beautiful communist, who wanted Stephen herself and resents Elizabeth. Stephen plans to outwit them by denouncing Elizabeth, claiming he never suspected her identity until she began to talk in her sleep. Petroff believes his story, as does Irina. Elizabeth thinks Stephen has turned against her. But he is waiting his chance, which comes, to knock Petroff out. Then Stephen disguises himself and Elizabeth and they slip away, traveling by train to another village where Stephen keeps a horse and sledge in which they continue toward the Polish border. Stephen is known in this vicinity as Nikolai. They stop overnight at a house in a village where the schoolmaster tells them of a broadcast he has heard about two people wanted by the police as enemies of the state. He is suspicious of Stephen and Elizabeth.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

A WARNING.

Stephen's eyes smiled back at hers, but behind the smile he was serious.

"You'd find it much easier. You ought to think of yourself as Anna—rather a poor thing and weak in the head. You want to let it soak into you, so that you're not in danger of giving yourself away like you did just now."

"I was afraid," said Elizabeth with wide blank eyes on his. The laughter had gone out of them and they were not starry any more.

Stephen patted her shoulder.

"There—that's just what I mean. If you were my widowed sister Anna, there wasn't anything to make you afraid. You were afraid because in your own thoughts you were letting yourself be Elizabeth Radin. That's fatal if you want to carry off a disguise—it makes the wrong atmosphere."

A quick little devil commandeered Elizabeth's tongue.

"Am I to remember that you are my brother—all the time?"

Stephen refused to be drawn. He said:

"If you did, you wouldn't worry about little things like having warts on your face or a Chinese husband. They'd be part of your disguise, and they'd help you to feel safe and not get into a panic."

Anger and laughter contended in Elizabeth. Laughter won.

"You call those little things!" she said, and with that the door was pushed open and Ilya came in.

There was no more opportunity for talk with Stephen. They sat about

Stephen said, "Quiet, Peter, and tell me."
"Yes—yes—it is Anton," he said.

the stove, and he told stories and sang songs. Elizabeth went over the little scene in her mind—not the words, but the swift current of emotion which had run between them all the time. It was as if they had been facing one another across swift flashing water, glittering, darkening, swirling over unknown depths and flinging up a light inconsequent spray of words. It wasn't the words that mattered, it was this strange current that ran between them. She felt it all the time. Did Stephen feel it too? . . . Stephen? O, no—why should he? He was too busy with being Nikolai—and her brother. It would be against his principles to remember that he was Stephen and she Elizabeth.

She went to sleep without any more comfort than that.

Elizabeth did not know how long she had been asleep when something waked her. There was no light in the house. Some one was moving in the dark. The sound that had waked Elizabeth came again, a tapping on one of the two small windows which flanked the door. Then the door itself was opened a cautious inch and a breath of icy air came through the chink, and at the same moment she was aware of Stephen brushing past her and going toward the door.

It was Stasia who had opened it. Elizabeth caught her whispered word as Stephen joined her. Then the chink was widened. The cold blew in, and when the door was shut again there were three of them whispering there in the dark. Her heart beat heavily. She sat up, listening, but the whispering had no words for her. It was like a rustling of leaves—a senseless, wordless rustling which mixed confusedly with the children's breathing, with Ilya's snores, and with the hammering of her heart.

Over by the door Stephen said, "What is it?"

And Stasia, with her hand on the bolt, answered, "It is Peter." And with that she drew back and let him in.

They stood so near together that they were touching one another, all three of them, like the three sticks of a tripod, heads close, lips moving over words that were more breath than sound. First Stasia: "O, Peter!" Then Stephen: "What is it?" And after that Peter, breathing deep because he had been running, and shivering with cold and excitement:

"Anton Glinka!"

Stephen had a hand on the boy's shoulder.

"Steady! Take your time."

"There isn't any time! You must get away—at once!"

Stasia shrank and trembled. They were so close that her tremor shook them all.

Stephen said, "Quiet, Peter, and tell me."

"Yes—yes—it is Anton!" he said.

"What does he say?"

"That you are wanted by the police. He says—she has a scar on her hand. He says—he saw it."

Stasia drew in her breath. Stephen said:

"Don't be frightened, Stasia. It doesn't matter what he says. We'll be gone by cock-crow."

Peter caught his breath.

"You must be gone before that. He has been round to every house. Not ours—he knows better than that—but everywhere else. Boris came and told me. He said, 'Tell Nikolai to be gone before the moon is up. Anton will raise the village. He means mischief. Tell Nikolai to cut and run.'"

"Before the moon is up?" said Stasia faintly.

Peter shivered under Stephen's hand.

Stasia shuddered from head to foot.

"Wolves—" she said, and the three of them stood there silent.

It was Stephen who broke the silence.

"What does Glinka mean to do? Did Boris say?"

"He has got at least a dozen who will join him, perhaps more. They're coming now—at once—as soon as they have stopped talking about it. They will search you both and take you to Orli to answer for yourselves there. You know best whether that is safe for you, Nikolai."

Stephen's laugh just stirred the silence.

"Not as safe as it might be." And then, "We must go."

Stasia said again the word that she had said before—a word with a shudder in it:

"Wolves—"

Sitting up in the dark on the other side of the room, Elizabeth felt Stasia's fear come flowing toward her like a cold draught. She had not heard what Stasia had said, or what any of them had said, but she felt the fear. Then, very faintly, she heard Stephen laugh, and the fear went past her. She could not hear what he was saying, but she was reassured.

A moment later he came over to the stove and said:

"Are you awake?"

"Yes," said Elizabeth.

He knelt down close to her and spoke again.

"We've got to move on. Peter has come to warn us. It's the schoolmaster, of course. He's roused the village. We must get away before they come and take us. Will you get up? I don't want to wake Ilya. He and Stasia can say we slipped away while they were asleep."

It was the strangest and most hurried flight. There were no mere words, only a groping to find her shoes, her coat—and the door opening twice, once to let Peter out and again for her and Stephen. Stasia pressed her arm as they touched in the dark, and then they were outside in the snow and the door was shut.

It was not so dark here as it had been in the house. The snow lighted them, and the sky was bare and starry, with no more than a belt of cloud at the horizon. Elizabeth stood in the yard behind the house and watched the sky whilst Stephen brought out the horse and harnessed him to the sledge. The stars were very bright and the air was still. The belt of cloud to the east was luminous. If there was going to be a moon, it would help them on their way. She thought it was a long time since she had seen the moon or the sun. She thought it was a friendly thing to see the stars.

BY MARY MEADE.

There's nary a home budgeteer who hasn't had pocketbook trouble in her day, so it's something to crow about that we've just found a whole set of flat little pocketbooks which we can not only view complacently, but gobble up with gusto!

The answer to the puzzler lies in bread slices, a tantalizing chicken stuffing, and shiny black olives. When put together as we're about to describe they make neat little toasted hot chicken sandwiches which look most convincingly like small pocketbooks. Here is the way of it:

Chicken Pocketbooks.

1½ cups finely chopped cooked chicken
¼ cup minced celery
¼ cup minced watercress or parsley
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
¼ pound butter
1 loaf white bread, unsliced
6 black olives

Blend together the chicken, celery, watercress or parsley, mayonnaise, and seasonings. Cut the bread lengthwise of the loaf in slices ¼ inch thick. Trim each of these slices to 3½ x 7 inches. At one end of each cut the corners off neatly to form a point. Spread with butter, then with the chicken mixture. Fold each of them in three folds like a pocketbook, with the pointed end on top. Fasten with wood pins. Wrap the sandwiches to keep them moist until you are ready for them. Just before serving place them under a broiler flame and toast to a golden brown on both sides. Remove the wood pins, place the sandwiches on a serving plate, and lay half a ripe olive on each at the tip of the bread point to represent the latch of the purse. Serve them hot.

Broiled Ham Rolls.

6 slices ham
No. 2 can pork and beans with tomato sauce
2 tablespoons mustard
Parsley

The ham slices should be cut about ⅛ inch thick, care being taken to keep them whole. Spread these with mustard, then with beans. Roll each of them like a small jelly roll and fasten with wood pins. Place them in a shallow pan or on a broiler rack and slip them under a moderately hot broiler fire. Broil until golden brown on all sides. Take care not to burn the fat. Slip them off onto a hot platter and garnish each roll by poking a sprig of parsley into the end. Serve at once.

Dr. Thorek Wins Chinese Honor in Photograph Show

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release this juice. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

Baby Talk Should Be Corrected Before Child Goes to School

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We've been talking about baby talk in this column for the last two days. On Monday we said, don't talk baby talk to the babies and small children. On Tuesday we said, don't correct the baby when he talks his own brand of "baby talk," nor try to correct the imperfections of your little boy's or girl's early efforts at speech.

But we can't leave the second statement at that, because to some people it might sound like advice actually to encourage the so called baby talk, or to allow it to prolong itself needlessly.

There comes a time, as we said yesterday, when it is a kindness to a child to correct his pronunciation. When tactless grown people "smile audibly" at what seems to them an amusing twist in a word, or when other children pick up a mispronunciation and repeat it or jeer at it is the time when a child needs help.

When a child begins to go to school, his speech should be pretty well cleared of babyisms. You must be careful not to nag, not to pick him up constantly on every word. Simply use good sense and tact.

There's one more thing. If you want your child to speak well, look to your own speech.

Mrs. Merrill Hubbard Will Sing Sunday.

Speaking of symphony orchestras, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift are entertaining at dinner tonight in their Lake Shore drive apartment for Sir Hamilton Harty, noted British conductor. Sir Hamilton will conduct the Chicago Symphony tomorrow night and Friday afternoon.

Wheeler Alumnae to Give Luncheon.

Mrs. Arthur Rogers of Evanston, the former Margaret Fuller, is in charge of the Wheeler alumnae luncheon to be held at the Casino next Tuesday. Miss Mary Helena Dey, headmistress of the Mary C. Wheeler school in Providence, R. I., will be here for the occasion and will be at the Fortnightly through the first of next month.

Among the alumnae of the Wheeler school who will attend the luncheon are Mrs. Frederic M. Hurd, the former Gene Bucklin, and Mrs. R. Martin Stevenson [Virginia Doering]. Mrs. George Peck [Edna Doering] may come down from Milwaukee for the luncheon accompanied by Miss Janet Mackey of Milwaukee, who often visits another alumna, Miss Betty Brawley. Others who have graduated from Miss Wheeler's include Miss Harriet Fentress, now at Vassar; Miss Adele Proxmire, who is studying in Italy, and Miss Nancy Forgan.

Invitations were in yesterday's mail for the reception at the Art institute that will open the thirty-ninth annual exhibition by the artists of Chicago and vicinity. The reception, to be held from 3 to 5 the afternoon of Jan. 31, will be given by the Art institute, the Municipal Art league, and Chicago artists.

This means that Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and the rest of the Art institute trustees and their wives will be receiving in the institute that afternoon.

Vennema Nuptials Will Be Tonight.

In a candlelight ceremony at 8:30 this evening in the home of her parents, the John Vennemas, on Willow road in Winnetka, Miss Marcelle Dorothy Vennema will become the bride of Anderson Ashley Owen, son of Mrs. William B. Owen, also of Winnetka. The Rev. Samuel Harkness, pastor of the Winnetka Congregational church, will read the service in the presence of only the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

After a reception for the wedding guests, Mr. Owen and his bride will leave on a wedding trip to Florida. Upon their return they are to make their home at 334 Ridge avenue in Winnetka.

On Lincoln's birthday the John T. McCutcheons are leaving to spend the rest of the winter on their lovely Treasure Island in the Bahamas. They will be away until the middle of April and for almost a month they will have as their guests Mrs. McCutcheon's mother, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, and her sister, Miss Theodora Shaw.

On Feb. 25 Mrs. Shaw and her daughter are embarking on a West Indies cruise which will take three weeks and reach its climax when they disembark on Treasure Island.

Mr. McCutcheon is to make the awards on Saturday evening at the preview and reception that will open the eleventh annual Hoosier salon in the picture galleries at Marshall Field's. Some of those loyal Hoosiers who are planning early dinners that they may attend the reception are Mr. and Mrs. Ross J. Beatty, Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. Eugene Garnett, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Teter, and Col. and Mrs. George T. Buckingham.

Chicagoans Attend Florida Race Opening.

Word comes from Florida of the striking picture Mrs. Warren Wright made in a forget-me-not woolen outfit at the recent opening of the fashionable Hialeah race track in Miami. Guests in Mrs. Wright's box were her sister, Mrs. Stella Shanker; her son, Thomas Shanker; T. W. Parker, a brother of Mrs. Wright, and Sidney Gardner.

At the opening Mrs. Charles A. McCulloch had as her box guests Dr. and Mrs. George Bourne Farnsworth and Mrs. Bennett Griffin, all of whom are wintering in Florida. Mrs. McCulloch was gowned in blue, wearing angora with a matching felt hat.

Four Lectures to Be Given Today.

Lecture goers will enjoy a feast today with four talks scheduled for the morning and afternoon. At the Lake Shore drive apartment of Mrs. Silas H. Strawn at 4 o'clock this afternoon Miss Carol Gentry Bush is to talk on "Chinese Furniture in Peking." The program is sponsored by the American Friends of China.

At the Arts club at 11:30 this morning Philippe Soupault will talk on James Joyce. Dr. Hugo F. Simon will give the last of a series of three lectures on "Recent Trends in Political Thought," at the same hour in the drawing room of Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger's home at 1400 State parkway.

Lovers of old Chicago will want to hear Miss Caroline McIlvaine, formerly of the Chicago Historical society, at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter J. Jarratt, 229 Lake Shore drive. The program is to be a benefit of the Tower Town branch of the Chicago Junior school.

Miss Myrtle Lampert and Mrs. Edward B. Smith will be the hostesses at tea following the meeting of the junior members of the Alliance Française this afternoon. Mrs. John Storrs will speak on "L'Art Vivant," and Pavel Tchelitchew, whose paintings are on exhibit at the Arts club, will be an especial guest.

The Melodists will meet this morning with Mrs. Frederic W. Upham.

Simplicity United to Chic

GIRL'S DRESS.

Here is a dress with a maximum of style, and it's not a bit hard to make, in spite of the fact it is so good looking. It has a simple bodice with drop shoulders which simplify the setting-in of the sleeves. The two piece skirt is seamed and joined to the bodice. It will make up well in the light weight woolens, as well as in any of the lovely silk crêpes.

The pattern, No. 2745, comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, and 16 years.

Loyola Troupe Gives New Play by Chicagoans

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Once a year the Loyola Community theater, a leader among the amateur groups in equipment and personnel, stages a new play of Chicago authorship, and on these occasions resolute dramatic critics make a pilgrimage into Rogers Park to see if promising material for the professional stage has turned up. Last night and also night before last the proficient Loyolans devoted themselves to the interpretation of a comedy called "May I Present?" written by Everett Quinn and their own director, Charles Costello. The result was something like a hit for the north side, but hardly for Randolph street or Broadway.

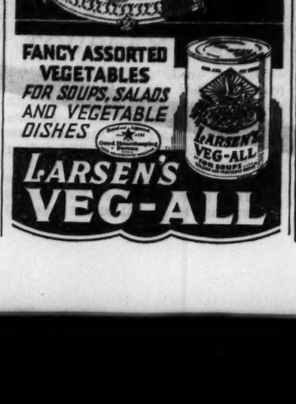
"May I Present?" is a jolly comedy for amateurs, dealing with a wide range of plain American characters belonging to the upper and lower crusts of the social organism. It has a grain of sociological philosophy in its story—a faint resemblance to the lighter themes of John Galsworthy, but its structure is a device for laughter in a familiar formula. When the low-downers are invited to a family dinner party to meet the high-uppers and a game of social faux pas is started, any play will head in the direction of standard farce.

The difficulty with which "May I Present?" struggles is to persuade an audience that its leading young man, who brings a quartet of eccentric proletarians home to meet the Gold Coast family into which he intends to marry is entirely sane. The evidence would tend to suggest that he is either a social reformer or a new kind of "nut," and in the story he does not fall into either category. He is merely a nice young man who likes to believe that he is a democrat. I feel that the play would be more stageworthy in the big league sense if it were crazier, but as it stands the Loyola audiences found plenty of amusement in it.

The staging and acting were effective according to little theater standards. Eugene V. O'Neill, Lorraine Bremner, Dean Terrill, William F. Madden, and Ruth Buhl Flick may write themselves "good notices."

A special performance of an "all-star" mixed bill of entertainment will be given in the Erlanger theater Sunday afternoon, Feb. 17, for the benefit of William Roche, well known on the Rialto as "Col." Roche, former manager of the Selwyn theater. Mr. Roche is a veteran theater manager of many years' service, now an invalid. He has been unemployed for the last two years.

The principals of the "Roberta" company at the Erlanger have volunteered their services. Talent will also be recruited among the stars of other entertainments in the Chicago field. The executive staffs of the theater and the "Roberta" company are managing the project.



South America Offers Glamor and Grandeur

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beacom may be interested in making their own contribution to Pan-American "entente cordiale," but it's more likely that their immediate objective is a chilled lobster lunch on a sun-bathed deck against a backdrop of old world glamor and natural grandeur.

Aboard the luxurious new Santa Lucia Mr. and Mrs. Beacom are heading today for Kingston, Jamaica, with two months of South American summer and sights ahead of them. On the same ship are Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bennett, who are north side neighbors.

In the public mind a trip to South America is still an adventure almost as daring as it was in the days of the conquistadores. And, true enough, until a few years ago the only travelers to visit the sister continent were hardy vagabonds, archæologists, and historians who wanted to dig among the Inca ruins in Cuzco, cross the Andes at their highest point, or take a hand in a civil war or revolution.

Thanks to the boosting of Noel Coward and Rosita Forbes, however, also to the introduction of fast, sumptuous liners—Grace, Munson, and Furness Prince—coördinated air services, and low rates, times have changed.

For those who can and will take the time, like Mr. and Mrs. Beacom, the ideal trip is a cruise down the west coast to Valparaiso in Chile, then across to Buenos Aires on the east coast either by plane, rail, or lake steamer, up through Rio de Janeiro with its verdure clad mountains, azure skies, and tropical nights, and home. A matter of 40 to 60 days.

The west to east route is especially recommended, because it starts off with Peru, oldest and most foreign of all South American countries. Embarking on a vacation, travelers are ready for color and flavor "pronto," and Callao, Lima, "city of the kings," and Arequipa deliver it lavishly.

Michener in his "Heirs of the Incas" describes Lima as "a glimpse of old colonial mansions wearing the air of cloaked viceroys, cloistered walls exuding the monastic chill of the middle ages, and long vistas of Moorish balconies still retaining the impression of romantic charms." But it's nothing to hear a taxi driver or bellboy ringing an American "O. K." or "yowsah" into his time drenched vocabulary.

After Lima the Chilean women in Valparaiso and Santiago will seem chic and Parisienne to the Beacoms and the Bennetts. They are cordial, too, for one letter of introduction means a whole round of parties, not in the lavish manner, however, of predepression days.

When it comes time for the Beacoms to cross to the east coast they will be fortunate if they have a week. Going way down into the south of Chile and over into Patagonia, the route follows through a chain of little lakes as lovely as anything in Scandinavia or Switzerland. The actual crossing of the Andes is accomplished on horseback with the baggage strapped onto the mules. It may sound uncomfortable, but according to those who have made the trip it's really easy and unusual.

In the west to east itinerary, Buenos Aires will be reached when a return to a smart, sophisticated metropolis is welcome. There the Jocky club, a wonderful and fabulously rich organization, is not to be missed, neither the Colon Opera house.

In conclusion will come the longest sea trip of the whole journey—the two weeks' sail from Rio to New York—with plenty of time for rest and reverie.

At the same time that the Santa Lucia moved out of New York harbor last Saturday South America bound, its sister ship, the Santa Paula, left for California with Mrs. Hambleton Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Uhlmann of Glencoe, the Allan Wylie Cooks of Evanston, and Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Darling and their daughter Jane aboard.

This means that the passengers on the two ships will be exchanging greetings tomorrow and Friday down in the Panama Canal zone, well termed "the crossroads of the world." Approximately two days is allowed for seeing this great $375,000,000 engineering triumph and the strategic points along its course.

Cristobal is the Caribbean entrance to the canal, Balboa the Pacific gateway, but the full impress of its greatness comes when the ship sails through the length of its locks, lakes, and cuts. In less than half an hour's time by plane the traveler can stand on the ground where Columbus first set foot on the North American continent. From Balboa Panama City is visited; also old Panama with its ruins of the ancient cathedral and Church of San Domingo. The Morgan bridge brings to mind the freebooter who razed the city in 1671.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

IT IS SO MUCH SAFER TO COUNT THE LOSERS IN A BIG HAND.

The New York Herald-Tribune's bridge section, "The Bridge Table," an excellent daily feature conducted by Robert Neville, publishes many interesting hands. Sometimes the real point of the hand seems to me to be other than that raised in the correspondent's remarks, or even those of Mr. Neville himself. Here is a recent one:

	NORTH ♠ A ♥ A-J-10-9 ♦ A-K-J-8-4 ♣ A-K-J
WEST ♠ Q-10-9-5 ♥ 8-7-3-2 ♦ 7-6-2 ♣ 8-3		EAST ♠ K-6-2 ♥ K-Q-4 ♦ 9-5-3 ♣ Q-10-7-4
	SOUTH ♠ J-8-7-4-3 ♥ 6-5 ♦ Q-10 ♣ 9-6-5-2

The bidding is given as:
N. [dealer]—Two diamonds.
S.—Two no trumps.
N.—Three hearts.
S.—Three spades.
N.—Three no trumps.
S.—Pass.

The two of hearts is led. Dummy plays low; East wins [I suppose with the king] and returns a small spade. The declarer is lured into taking a risk in order to play for overtricks, and finesses the heart. He has to do this, if at all, before taking in nine tricks, as diamonds are his only entries to dummy. Thus he is set, losing two hearts and three spades. The point stressed is that though this would be unpardonable in rubber play, there is much to be said for it under match-point scoring. This is true in itself; I am in no position to criticize chance-taking plays for extra tricks. However, on this hand, my opinion is that the North-South partnership started to wreck the hand by the opening bid. The situation might still have been rectified had South responded with two natural spades instead of two artificial no trumps; but once the no-trump declaration was placed in the South hand, all strategy had vanished. The big hand is exposed when it is not strong enough to stand exposure, and the defense is given an open book of instructions.

Sims Bidding.

Those who accept my views on forcing opening bids would bid two no trumps with the North hand—an "abnormal" two no-trump bid, which "takes the strain off" the opening forcing bids. The hand has four losers, possibly five. If partner bids any suit but spades you will slam in his suit. South's reply is the natural one—three spades. He has a five-card major suit and a Q J and 10. Three no trumps by North, pass. Now East, not having yet seen the weakness of South's spades, and knowing nothing specific about North's hand, will, if he is a good player, lead a diamond. This is the one lead which will not harm his hand, or, as far as he can know, facilitate the declarer's task. A textbook player might lead the four of clubs. Anyhow, North has every chance of making four no trumps now without a risk of being set. Seeing the South hand and not the North hand, East will have to guess instead of merely to look at dummy in order to punch spades at him when next on lead. North has tenaces everywhere except in spades. To bid so as virtually to force the no trump declaration on South is really pitiful. South must not be maneuvered into being the declarer unless it is in a slam contract in one of the suits other than spades. In that event, the timing factor will have been superseded by South's distribution and his ability to ruff out an off suit. Note also that North's thirteen cards are not in themselves a game entity. Unless South can respond to two no trumps, showing a queen and a jack, or else a five or six card suit, the hand should not be bid to game.

Lipstick Tone Can Hinder or Benefit Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Now, they do say that having one lipstick is like the girl confiding she has a book.

Personally, my feeling is that if you get one good lipstick, with a color that gives sparkle to your teeth and warms your face tones, you needn't worry about getting a whole library of lipsticks. But to get that right color, I do think you have to do some experimenting with different shades.

It is amazing what a difference there is in the effect of lipstick colorings. I had an instance presented recently of a conservative woman whose lipsticks had to be so darkish they did something unkind to her face and mouth. She changed, under the advice of an expert, to a fuller blooded red and the woman bloomed, really.

Her rouge tones were included in the change, of course, to accomplish this new and younger face. Rouge and lipstick colorings are like clothes colors in that a year can be added or subtracted with the wrong and right ones.

A number of the more important lipstick manufacturers now make it possible for a woman purchasing a lipstick to try out different shades before she makes her purchase. When you figure there are lipsticks of true red, without bluish or orange tones, and lipsticks of strong orange tones, and very bright orange red tint, and ruby shades, and crimson reds, and Christmas ribbon red, and red with yellow in it, and reds deep with blue, and raspberry shades, and so on, you can see that experimenting is quite worth while.

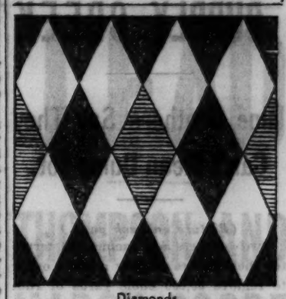
Quilt Block Is Famous Among Diamond Patterns



Diamonds.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The diamond patterns were favorites in New England for "best" quilts, and the piecing and quilting on these diamond patches usually were most exquisitely and elaborately done. "Diamonds" is the dean of the really old diamond pattern quilts. It is interesting to remark that the antique diamond quilts usually are in better condition than those made of square patches, which is another proof that they were "best" quilts.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Two brothers are facing jail terms for their failure to obey a court order to remove 50,000 cubic yards of rubbish from a three acre plot adjoining Packingtown.

The brothers are William A. and Frederick Hine, 4816 Dorchester avenue, who owned a soap factory that quit business in 1932. Yesterday Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein sentenced them to jail for contempt until they remove the rubbish from the land adjoining theirs, owned by Miss Olive A. Leitch of the St. Clair hotel, and her aunt, Miss Dollie F. Leitch of California.

Plead Lack of Funds.

The judge, however, allowed the Hine brothers their freedom until Feb. 4, when he will hear a motion that the contempt sentence be limited to six months. The brothers have pleaded inability to carry out the court order because of poverty. They insist it would cost $250,000 to remove the rubbish, which in some places is piled 24 feet high.

The Hine brothers' plight grew out of a temporary injunction obtained May 8, 1934, by the Misses Leitch, restraining the Messrs. Hine from further dumping on the Leitch property.

Last June 15 the injunction was made permanent, and the brothers were given until Dec. 14 to begin removal of the waste. About two carloads have since been removed, according to Attorney Charles F. Hough for the Leitch family. The contempt order entered yesterday was for the Hine brothers' continued failure to comply with the court order.

Land in Family 70 Years.

The land over which the controversy rages lies on the south shore of Bubbly creek near Ashland avenue, just north of the New York Central railroad tracks. The Leitch family has owned it for more than 70 years. It is part of 40 acres purchased in the early 1860s by Benjamin Wilder, grandfather of Dollie Leitch. Wilder purchased the land with scrip and buffalo robes he received in payment for the building of Jefferson Barracks in Missouri near St. Louis. He also owned much other land in the area bounded by the lake and 16th, State and 31st streets.

At Wilder's death in 1875 the land became the property of Mrs. Robert Leitch, mother of Dollie. Robert Leitch, who formerly operated a distillery near Packingtown, inherited it. When he died in 1912 the land fell into possession of the two women.

Property Long in Controversy.

Meanwhile Leitch had granted permission to several transportation companies serving the packing industry to cross the land. He also disposed of various parcels of it until but 3.1 acres remained.

In 1890 the land was leased for 36 years by the Stockyards company. It was subleased to the Chicago Junction Railway company and others, which constructed railroad tracks over it. After the lease expired in 1916, the Chicago Junction company tried unsuccessfully on three occasions to obtain it by condemnation. The company obtained an injunction against the owners, which was dissolved April 30, 1934. Then the railroad tracks were removed.

Big Suit Now Pending.

The Misses Leitch have pending in the Superior court a suit asking $2,600,000 from the railroads for rental for their land while the tracks were on it.

In their suit against the Hine brothers, the Leitch women charge that the brothers collected $30,000 for the privilege of dumping rubbish on their land and on that of the Leitches. Attorney Jeremiah O'Connell for the Hine brothers denies this allegation.

Defendants with the Hine brothers in the removal suit before Judge Epstein are the Chicago Junction railway company, the New York Central railroad, the Union Stockyards and Transit company, and the Friedman Manufacturing company. The three railroad companies, as well as the Chicago River and Indiana railroad, Swift & Co., and Armour & Co., are defendants in the $2,600,000 suit.

Hearing Today for Groom Arrested After Wedding

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Bruno Austin, arrested Sunday as he left the Holy Trinity cathedral after his marriage to Marie Brenko, 18 years old, was set for this morning by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Attorney Frank McDonnell, accompanied by the bride, asked yesterday that Austin be released to the sheriff by the police. Austin is charged with bond forfeiture and automobile theft.

FIRE DAMAGES CLOTHING STORE.

Fire, started by an overheated boiler in the basement of the Clinton hotel, 547 Madison street, caused damage of $200 to the men's furnishing store of Adolph Fabian on the first floor of the building yesterday.

PATLAK RELEASE 'SERIOUS ERROR,' BOWEN ADMITS

Welfare Chief Takes All Blame at Hearing.

Admitting that a "serious mistake" had been made, A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, yesterday appared before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court and assumed full responsibility for the release of Attorney David Y. Patlak of Chicago from the Illinois Security Hospital for the Insane at Menard.

Patlak was committed to the institution a year ago at an insanity hearing that followed his indictment on charges of operating a confidence game. He was charged with swindling small home owners of $160,000 by representing that he had influence with the Home Owners Loan corporation.

The commitment directed that he be returned to Cook county for trial if declared sane. Despite this order, Patlak was paroled from the hospital a month ago. Director Bowen was called as a witness in the investigation ordered by Chief Justice Sullivan.

Quizzed by Court.

"What I want to know is why this man was turned loose on the street," Judge Sullivan asked.

"I am the director and I will have to accept full responsibility," Mr. Bowen said. "I am entirely to blame. I can only defend myself by saying that I have not received all the papers in connection with this man's commitment. I have never seen the mittimus."

"Is there anything in the law giving you the right to turn this man loose?" Judge Sullivan asked.

"I don't think so," Director Bowen told him. "I assume full responsibility. There will never be any more releases of this sort. A mistake has been made."

Doctor on Stand.

Bowen explained that the parole action had been taken on the report of Dr. J. M. McManus, manager of the Menard hospital, that Patlak had improved and was entitled to parole. Dr. McManus, called as a witness, said that the parole was not considered a full discharge and that Patlak would have been turned over for trial at the end of the parole period.

County Judge E. H. Wegener of Randolph county took the witness stand and told of calling the state's attorney's office to determine the status of the cases against Patlak.

WAUKEGAN COAL FAMINE IMPENDS; DRIVERS STRIKE

Waukegan and North Chicago faced a miniature coal famine yesterday by reason of the strike of coal drivers, which became effective during the near zero temperatures in the morning. Coal deliveries were at a virtual standstill, although pickets were not interfering with deliveries to institutions and homes where there was illness. The strikers include the fuel truck and ice wagon drivers of local 301 of the International Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers' union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. The dispute is over the union's demand that drivers be paid for a half day for each fractional half day they work.

AT DEPAUW FOR 60 YEARS, PROF. LONGDEN ASKS TO BE RETIRED

Greencastle, Ind., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Dr. Henry B. Longden, vice president of DePauw university, was retired at his own request by the DePauw board of trustees at their annual meeting here today. He also became widely known through the Edward Rector scholarship foundation of which he has been director since it was established at DePauw in 1918.

EVANSTON POLICE CHIEF'S CAR IS 1ST TO FAIL IN TESTS

Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston was the first to fail in the suburb's new compulsory automobile testing service which was formally dedicated yesterday.

Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston, the first to drive his automobile over the course, obtained an official "O. K." windshield sticker. Ald. George Paddock, father of the compulsory testing ordinance, was likewise successful. Chief Freeman, the third to submit to the tests, was told he would have to have his car headlights repaired before he could be given a sticker.

Present at the opening of the ccurse, at 918 University avenue, were George Fleming, secretary of Mayor Kelly's keep Chicago safe committee, and Sidney J. Williams of the National Safety council.

Lieut. Frank Kreml, director of the Evanston police safety bureau, explained that under the new ordinance, the first of its kind, each of the suburb's 17,000 automobiles must be submitted at the testing course for a check as to the condition of brakes, steering mechanism, and certain other working parts. Fines of $1 to $200 are provided for offenders. The yearly fee is 75 cents.

CONSUMER GROUP PROTESTS BOOST IN PRICE OF MILK

Dissatisfaction over the recent increase of 1 cent a quart in the retail price of milk in Chicago will be registered in Washington today by the Cook County Consumers' council. The new milk price is 11 cents a quart. Charles Simmons, head of the council, left yesterday for Washington, where he will offer a formal protest in the form of a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the consumers' organization.

The basis of the protest, which will be made to officials of the National Emergency council, is the division of the 1 cent increase, of which .43 of a cent goes to the farmers, while .57 of a cent is kept by the distributors.

Kane County Is Given Security Fraud Suspect

Ralph Becker, 45 years old, was turned over to Kane county authorities yesterday on a warant sworn out by Miss Laura Penney of Elgin, who charged that Becker defrauded her of $33,000 by persuading her to exchange that amount of Liberty bonds for securities which proved worthless. According to Assistant State's Attorney James J. Cherry, Becker is wanted in many other sections of the country on similar charges.

INDIANA BILL ASKS INSURANCE FOR ATHLETES

Would Protect Prep, College Players.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—A new type of insurance which may have far reaching effects in amateur athletic competition was proposed today with the introduction of a bill in the Indiana house of representatives, calling for the insuring of all college and high school football and basketball players.

The bill as introduced would require trustees of colleges and universities, school boards, and township trustees to take out either individual or group insurance, designed to protect players against injuries suffered while playing football and basketball. The measure was understood to have grown out of the physical hazards common to both sports, many of which result in permanent disablement.

The bill would affect Notre Dame, Purdue, Indiana university, Wabash, De Pauw, and scores of secondary colleges in the state in addition to more than a thousand high school teams. Principal objection is expected to come from the high schools, many of which conduct their athletics without sufficient profit to be placed under additional financial obligation.

New for Amateurs.

Injury insurance is common enough among many American professional athletes. Golfers, notably Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, invariably take out an accident policy prior to the more important tournaments in which they compete.

The Chicago White Sox for a number of years have insured players to the amount of their purchase price under combination life and accident policies. Chief instances have been Bill Cissell, who was bought for $123,000 and insured for that amount, and Willie Kamm, who cost the Sox $100,000.

But the bill introduced in the house today is probably the first motion made in the direction of protecting college and prep school competitors.

Restrict Prep Games.

In conjunction with the insurance bill, another measure aimed to protect the health of Indiana athletes was being rewritten today. Known as the anti-marathon bill, it would prohibit the playing of three high school basketball tournament games within a single day. The law would necessitate the holding of three day sectional, regional and state events instead of the present two day competition which the Indiana High School Athletic association conducts each March.

Dr. Horace Willan of Martinsville, a state representative who has served as a tournament physician on a number of occasions, said three games of basketball in one day is ruinous to any boy's health. The state health department is rewriting the bill as a public health measure. The anti-marathon bill's original phrasing was aimed at athletic and endurance contests of more than 12 hours' duration, subsequently bringing in the subject of high school basketball.

Favor to Boys.

"You'll do the high school boys of the state a great service in banning three games a day," Dr. Willan said. "You'll find no opposition from coaches, high school officials, or sports writers. There would be no loss in tournament receipts, for fans would go three days as well as two. I know of tournaments where stimulants have been given to boys to keep them on their feet."

HANLEY TELLS OF CHANCE TO COACH REDSKINS

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Dick Hanley, former Northwestern university football coach, has confided to friends that he has been offered a coaching post with the Boston Redskins professional eleven.

Although he expressed a preference to remain in the collegiate ranks, he said he was given until June 1, to decide whether he wanted the Boston job.

Questioned regarding his possible desire to bid for the University of Idaho head coach's job, now open, Hanley displayed little interest. Idaho is a member of the Pacific coast conference, but never has finished in the first division.

SQUARE WITH PUBLIC.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—The Los Angeles Turf club, operator of Santa Anita race track, is establishing a record for being square with its public. Two specific instances are within our ken. The first concerns Twenty Grand, one of the outstanding candidates for the $100,000 handicap to be contested Feb. 23. The second is a personal experience.

As a rival claimant to Mate, also on the scene here, for the 3 year old championship of 1931, and generally accorded that honor, this now aged racer, brought back to the races to carry the Greentree stable colors for the rich prize, commands outstanding public interest. He has not started here. His first appearance is a sure-fire turnstile stimulus.

Five times Twenty Grand was carded to start in a lesser event as part of his preparation for the Santa Anita handicap. His trainer stipulated that the track footing must be fast for the horse's appearance. In each instance rain or heavy going prevented that first trial until even mention of Twenty Grand became almost equivalent to prediction of rain. In each instance, however, the track management made early announcement in morning or evening newspapers that Twenty Grand's start was postponed. Not a single person was lured to the racing oval under a false expectation. That is not the custom at many places in this country.

Our personal experience was on opening day. We went to the ticket window to buy reserved seats for Mrs. Wake and Daughter Wake. We had, of course, our own press box courtesy. We were told all reserved seats had been sold. We then tried to buy clubhouse seats and were informed that since no seats were available there sale of tickets had been stopped, but that grand stand admissions, standing room only, could be bought for $1.10. Clubhouse was $3.30.

Now, under the conditions prevailing, clubhouse was no better than grand stand. So the club refused to accept a higher price for supposedly better accommodations it could not furnish. That also is not the custom at many places in this country.

If at the Last.

Or soon or late,
An' weary to our goal,
Finding it less
Than satisfies the soul;
Still shall the dawn
Forever brighter glow
Beyond the rim
Only a dream can know.

Not ours to name
The discipline or gear
Ambition needs
To keep its vision clear.
Yet will our God
Reward us as we strive,
If at the last
We've kept our faith alive.

Then late or soon . . .
What matter stormy years
As we outrun
Pursuing ghostly fears,
Holding the light
Where weariness and doubt
Have lost the trail
And let their lamp go out.

Making Amends.

A recent yarn published in The Wake has proved a boomerang. We told of the Bear football player who became so lonesome for his loved one at home that he went out in sheer desperation and borrowed a cutie to cheer him up, if possible. This story was intended for reader interest solely to show Hollywood hospitality. The result was not what we anticipated.

It now seems that every Bear whose wife is not with him has received a marked copy from wife or sweetheart demanding to know, "Was it you?" We're so sorry. Of course, we cannot say the yarn was not authentic, because it was. To make amends, however, we hereby agree to answer any wife or sweetie who sends us a self-addressed stamped envelope assuring her that her "boy" was not the unnamed Bear.

CUBS TO START SEASON AT HOME AGAINST CARDS

Sox Will Open at Detroit on April 16.

The Cubs will open the National league baseball season at home April 16, with the St. Louis Cardinals as their opponents. This was announced in New York yesterday by Ford Frick, president of the National league. Pittsburgh will open in Cincinnati, New York Giants in Boston, and Brooklyn in Philadelphia.

WM. HARRIDGE.

The opening date falls on a Tuesday.

All Saturday and Sunday games at Wrigley field next season will begin at 2 o'clock, an hour earlier than the starting time that has prevailed in Chicago for many years.

Sox Open in Detroit.

President Will Harridge of the American league yesterday announced the schedule committee had placed the White Sox in Detroit for the season's opening series. The season will open on April 16.

Detroit in April is far from the warmest spot in the land and for that reason the Sox rarely welcome season openers there. Last year the Tigers got their pennant winning enterprise launched in Chicago and the Sox opened in Detroit a week later, an occasion which saw the athletes on both teams well nigh frozen.

The change in the starting time of the Cubs' Saturday and Sunday games was made following a canvass which began last season, when the fans were asked to send in suggestions as to the most desirable bell time for week-end contests. The poll has continued this winter among various civic organizations.

Yesterday President P. K. Wrigley called a meeting of the team's officials and the time was decided upon.

Change Is Explained.

"The change was made to shorten the gap between noon quitting time, which prevails on Saturday at most business houses and game time, and also to give the fans a chance to get earlier starts on their Saturday and Sunday evening activities," said Charley Drake, director of public relations of the Cubs. "Few of the votes from the public favored the old 3 o'clock bell."

It is said that Mr. Wrigley is the leading advocate of other changes relative to playing of games, among them the idea of having the season open on Saturday instead of Tuesday or Wednesday, as it has been for many years. The idea will be tried out this season in the Pacific Coast league.

TILDEN, VINES ARE BEATEN BY LOTT, STOEFEN

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 22.—(AP)—George Lott and Lester Stoefen won their doubles match with William T. Tilden and Ellsworth Vines in tonight's tennis show at the Naval armory. The scores were 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. In nine exhibitions, Lott and Stoefen have won four matches, their opponents five.

In the final singles match of the evening, Vines continued his unbroken supremacy, winning from Stoefen, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0.

SHOEMAKER AND WOLF WIN CUE TOURNEY GAMES

Shoemaker defeated Walter Flynn of New Haven, 125 to 51, in 13 innings. Wolf nosed out Lewis Matthew, Chicago, 125 to 120, in 34 innings.

Talking It Over

MORDECAI [THREE FINGER] BROWN, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, derived his nickname from an accident in his youth. . . . When he was four or five years old he caught his right hand in a feed chopping machine on a farm near Rockville, Ind., and the index finger was so badly crushed it had to be amputated. . . . The machine is still on the farm, which now is occupied by Lawrence Smith, sherif of Parke county. . . . Catherine Wolf, former women's western tennis champion and at present No. 10 national ranking player, scored 16 field goals the other night in a girls' league basketball game in Elkhart, Ind., her home town. . . . When Babe Ruth was a small boy he was accidentally shot through the left knee by a .32 caliber bullet. . . . The knee now gives him plenty of trouble in the summer and that is one reason he is ready to retire as a regular. . . . Two brothers, Rus and George Ball, are expected to put Northwestern on the tennis map this spring. . . . Between them they hold half a dozen state and sectional titles. . . . The boys, who live in El Paso, Tex., are sophomores. . . .

Sid Rosenthal, 5 feet 5 inch Iowa forward, probably is the outstanding small man in Big Ten basketball this season. . . . Rosenthal is from Marshall High school, Chicago. . . . A slow ball is one of Goose Goslin's weaknesses. . . . So is pie a la mode. . . . Lester Tammen, former Kankakee, Ill., high school athlete, made 42 points in the last half of a basketball game at Chicago Heights last week. . . . At the height of his scoring spree he made six baskets in less than a minute. . . . The Student union at Loyola university recently bought the basketball team some new equipment and it won't be any time now before some one will inquire if they are union suits. . . . Pop Warner is wintering at his old home in Palo Alto, Cal. . . . Ralph Young, athletic director at Michigan State, says it is becoming increasingly difficult to arrange football schedules. . . . "In order to get a game with a Big Ten school you either have to be weak enough merely to provide a little practice or strong enough to attract a large gate, and we are not exactly in either class." Mr. Young explains. . . .

The total age of the three White Sox catchers is 106 years. . . . Ruel is 38, Shea 34, and Sewell 34. . . . Ruel has caught more games than any man on the active list of either major league. . . . The University of Chicago is beginning to show some interest in the commercial side of college football. . . . President E. C. Elliott of Purdue recently called on Midway officials with the suggestion that next year's game between the two universities, scheduled for Stagg field, be transferred to Lafayette, where the Maroons never have played, to give Purdue three home games. . . . The Chicago executives explained they couldn't afford to do it. . . . Purdue has found such obstacles in the way of developing a home schedule that only two of its eight opponents, Carnegie Tech and Iowa, will appear in Lafayette next autumn. . . .

The Brown Brothers, Harriman banking firm of New York, members of which have headed national tennis and polo associations, scored again this year when Prescott Bush was elected president of the United States Golf association. . . . Bush has been connected with the firm for a number of years. . . . If Joe Louis whips Lee Ramage, Feb. 21 Los Angeles promoters plan to send him against Art Lasky in the same ring. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Bo McMillin, former Center football star, was signed to coach at Geneva college. . . . Jimmy Crowley, Notre Dame football star, arrived in Chicago and was taken to a hospital to recuperate from a nervous disorder. . . . Johnny Weissmuller of the I. A. Old Rebel Yell Sounds in Dixie; It's Golden Glove Time

BY FRENCH LANE.

By listening attentively, Golden Gloves fans may be able to hear the old rebel yell drifting in from the south.

From beyond the Mason and Dixon line came announcement yesterday of the plans the southern boys are making for their invasion of THE TRIBUNE's Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, which opens on the night of Feb. 25.

The team coming from the land of old Hickory Jackson will represent the Nashville Tennesseean, but it will include the best amateur scrappers from a vast territory.

For instance, the Birmingham News-Age Herald will conduct a tournament on Feb. 8 and 9 and the winners will go to Nashville to compete against championship teams from Memphis, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Jackson, and, of course, against the survivors in the Nashville tournament.

Dixie Is Stirred Up.

The entries for this great team of champions which the Tennesseean will assemble come from as far south as Mobile and will include the best battlers in eastern Arkansas and northern Mississippi.

"These southern boxers are a likely lot," a Golden Gloves tournament scout reported yesterday. "Never has interest in amateur boxing run so high in the south. The whippings the Nashville team have taken in the Tournament of Champions the last two years seem to have got under the hide of all the southern boys. They are determined it is not going to happen again.

"Many of the best boxers in the amateur ranks in the south come from colleges and universities. I want to warn the boys in the north to look out for this newly inspired team that will come up from the south," he concluded.

Viking Scout Reports.

At the same time a scout reported from the northwest Golden Gloves territory that terrific punchers and clever boxers will make up the team the Minneapolis Tribune will send into Chicago.

"The boys from Minneapolis, St. Paul and from other parts of the northwest do not expect to win all the championships," the scout reported. "Yet it is a fairly safe speculative medium that they will win a few of the titles."

Our Golden Glove scouts will be reporting from other sectional tournament centers between now and the time the world's greatest boxing festival opens.

What About Chicago?

But remember there will be some reports coming in from Iowa, Illinois, from Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Missouri, and other Golden Glove centers soon.

And what about the Chicago boys? An army of 2,500 of the lads from the west side, south side and the Gold Coast will be striving for championships.

Perhaps we had better wait until all the precincts are heard from before we come to any conclusion.

WARD, MONTREAL STAR, SERIOUSLY HURT AT BOSTON

Crashes Into Eddie Shore as Bruins Win, 4-3.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Jimmy Ward, Montreal right winger, suffered a severe concussion in a collision with Eddie Shore while the Boston Bruins were defeating the Maroons, 4-3, tonight in one of the wildest hocky games the Boston Garden has seen in several seasons.

LIONEL CONACHER.

Ward, rushing with the puck, was checked by Shore almost on the spot where Irvin [Ace] Bailey of Toronto had his skull fractured last season. The Montreal player, not realizing the extent of his injury, which came after 15 minutes of thrilling first period play, picked himself up and continued.

Returns to Ice.

He returned to the ice after the first intermission and took part in some of the early second period action. He was resting on the bench when he became faint and the game was halted while he was assisted to his dressing room.

He was examined by Dr. Martin Crotty, the Bruins' physician, who first treated Bailey. When he started bleeding from the ears, about a half hour after his crash against Shore, he was rushed to a hospital.

CUBS RECEIVE SIGNED CONTRACT FROM STAINBACK

George Stainback yesterday brought the total of signed Cub outfielders to one when his contract was received at headquarters in the Wrigley building.

Stainback is being counted upon as a regular next year though it now appears that the work is to be about equally distributed among four gents. The three others are Chuck Klein, Kiki Cuyler and Frankie Demaree, 1933 Cub and last year's Coast league batting champ. Contracts have been in the hands of Chuck, Ki and Frankie for about ten days, which hasn't given them enough time to sign, it appears.

Although binders have been a bit slow this year about bounding back, the Cub front office has given out no hint that any holdouts are among the nineteen fellows who so far haven't taken pen in hand.

Unless some of the boys squawk, no one technically can be classed as a holdout until the last day of next month, when the first roll call of the year will be held at Avalon.

Survey Chief Asks Help for Waterfowl

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—Decrying the hysteria which prevails among American waterfowl hunters and assuring sportsmen that future policies affecting the hunting of ducks and geese will be based on facts, J. N. Darling, chief of the United States biological survey, today told delegates to the American Game conference that next year's shooting regulations will have to provide a safe margin for the duck populations.

Darling's address, eagerly awaited by more than 500 state conservation authorities from the 48 states and Canada, was the high light in today's proceedings.

Start Duck Census.

"The biological survey is basing its actions on facts," Darling said. "For example, yesterday we started a winter count of the ducks that will take investigators from Long Island, New York, to Yucatan. We will watch the 1935 spring flight and check the nesting conditions in the north.

"After we get the facts on the ducks and geese it will be possible to draw up a program for the future. But whatever it may be, the first consideration will be to give a safe margin to the ducks."

Darling revealed that 90 per cent of all the reports on the waterfowl situation showed the ducks to be in a "bad way."

Preceding his statement on the duck situation, the survey chief urged the game conference to get together on a national policy of life conservation. "Every species of wild life in this country has suffered from the same lack of preliminary attention that the ducks are suffering from now," he stated.

Illinois Delegation Active.

The largest delegation of conservationists and sportsmen Illinois has ever had at one of these game conferences made known its opinion of the duck situation this morning, following Darling's address. The first speaker for Illinois was William E. Clow Jr. of Lake Forest, an officer of the Illinois Sportsman's association.

Clow told how a lack of natural food in the Illinois river bottoms made it necessary to feed migrating ducks and that shooting practices along the Illinois did not deserve the condemnation of critics.

State Senator Clarence F. Buck, a director of the sportsman's association, and Senator Martin B. Tohmann, chairman of the fish and game committee of the Illinois senate, also voiced objections to criticisms of Illinois duck shooting conditions.

Conference Ends Today.

Others in the Illinois delegation are Charles F. Thompson, state director of conservation; George G. Brandenberg of Chicago, president of the Illinois Sportsman's association; Brooke Anderson of Highland Park, Ill., a member of the migratory advisory board, and S. Barry Locke, conservation director of the Izaak Walton League of America.

The conference will end tomorrow afternoon, by which time the battle between members wanting a closed season on water fowl and those opposing this action as unnecessary, will be decided through the resolutions committee. The annual banquet of the conference was held this evening with Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, as the principal speaker.

Carnera Scores Technical Knockout Over Klausner

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, former heavyweight champion of the world, tonight scored a technical knockout over Ervin Klausner of Esthonia in the sixth round of their scheduled 10 round bout before a crowd of 22,000. Carnera weighed 264 pounds and Klausner 202.

THOMPSON AND MARCH SCORE CHICAGO GOALS

Chabot Stops Enemy Attack.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The world champion Chicago Blackhawks retained possession of first place in the American section of the National Hocky league tonight by defeating the New York Americans, 2 to 0, before a crowd of 8,000 at Madison Square Garden.

The victory enabled the Hawks to hold their one point lead over the Boston Bruins, who defeated the Montreal Maroons, 4 to 3, tonight. On Thursday night the Hawks will battle the revived New York Rangers here and will then return to Chicago to meet the St. Louis Eagles on Sunday.

Early in the first period Paul Thompson gave the Hawks their first goal when he batted a high pass from Lolo Couture into the American cage. From there on the champions relied on defensive tactics, featured by Lorne Chabot's great goal tending. With less than five minutes of the game remaining, Mush March scored Chicago's second goal on a double pass from Howie Morenz and Johnny Gottselig.

Chabot's Sixth Shutout.

The first real action of the game came when Marty Burke soloed down the left side and almost scored. The puck hit the post on the far side and bounced out against Worter's heels as the goalie was caught napping, but it dropped dead and was cleared. The lines changed and the Hawks soon scored when Thompson took Couture's pass high in the air and batted it home. A moment later Couture was benched for hooking Chapman, and the Americans rushed in with five men. They had the Chicago defense rattled a couple of times but couldn't score.

Foes Worry Chabot.

New York's third line took up the attack with the sides even and gave Chabot a few more close calls. Once Schriner got loose in front of the net, but both defense men bowled him over before he had time to shoot.

The first lines returned and battled each other to a standstill, both backchecking well. One raid by Trudell was the only one which threatened. Chabot did some neat goal tending when Klein came from behind the cage and took two quick shots from short range. He blocked them both and kept the rebounds away from E. Burke, who was camped in front of the net.

With only a few seconds left Smith went off for tripping March, but there wasn't time for any action before the siren sounded.

Cook Near Score.

Smith was still in the penalty box when the second frame opened, but the Americans weren't particularly perturbed, as Himes and Dutton did some fancy puck ragging to keep the attackers away.

Eddie Burke's shot missed by a narrow margin. The Americans' third line again tried hard and failed as Morenz and Gottselig devoted their efforts entirely to keeping them out of the scoring zone. Carr got off a long shot which Chabot fumbled and Schriner was right on top of the rebound, but wasn't given time to get off a shot at the empty cage. A pretty passing play sent Schriner in again, but March spoiled his shot and Chabot came through with a marvelous save when Carr fired.

Chabot Stops Americans.

Morenz missed March's pass-out and the teams sparred for openings until Carr found one a few seconds before the period ended. All alone, Chabot outguessed the youngster and took the shot on his pads, sliding out. Morenz made it sure by slashing Chapman's stick away from the rebound.

Chabot made another fine stop when Oliver shot from a sharp angle while Himes acted as a decoy, both of them close up.

Chabot did it again when Murray sent one in from the boards and Klein swung. The goalie got his stick on the puck just as Klein did and it flew over the cage.

March scored after a solo raid and then tried again, getting around Murray with a double pass from Gottselig and Morenz.

Boucher Leads New York with Three Goals.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Scoring five goals in the last period, the New York Rangers tonight defeated the Montreal Canadiens, 7 to 0, to pull themselves within one point of the third place Detroit Red Wings in the American division of the National Hocky league.

CALIFORNIA AND AGUA CALIENTE DATES CONFLICT

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Racing plans of Agua Caliente, Mexico, were dealt a severe and perhaps fatal blow by the California Horse Racing board today when it awarded dates to Santa Anita Park, Bay Meadows and Tanforan in direct conflict to the advertised program from Feb. 24 to March 31 of the Lower California resort.

Over the protests of San Diego, Cal., and the Agua Caliente Jocky club, the current Santa Anita meeting was prolonged two weeks to March 9. Bay Meadows was ordered to open its spring meeting within a week from that time for 30 days duration, with Tanforan following. The schedule would complete the 150 days of racing in the state the commission had promised eastern thoroughbred owners last August.

Three close contests, one an overtime affair, featured the lightweight basketball schedule of eleven games yesterday in the City High School league.

The overtime battle involved Kelly and Phillips in the central section, the former winning, 32 to 31. The defeat knocked Phillips out of a tie with Hyde Park for the lead and gave Hyde Park undisputed possession, as it won from Lindblom, 36 to 32, and moved the winning Farragut and Kelly combinations into a three way tie for second place with Phillips.

In the Kelly-Phillips game the score was 19 to 11 in favor of Kelly, but Phillips took the lead at the end of the third quarter, 27 to 25. In the last two minutes Benny Geardo, Kelly forward, registered two long shots to tie the score at 31 all. In the overtime session, Brown of Phillips fouled Hank Sliwa as the gun ended the game. He made the free shot.

Mostly About Dogs

By Bob Becker

The Sealyham Terrier

A short legged white terrier with occasional markings, the Sealyham has one of the best terrier dispositions a dog fancier could want in a pet.. It is a breed highly thought of in England and so popular today with our English cousins that there are many kennels in England devoting their money and effort to breeding these nearly all white terriers.

Considering the size of the Sealyham [he's of the "town dog" or apartment size], and his friendly, even disposition, it is safe to say that this breed is going to go far in this country once the American dog lover knows it better. One outstanding dog authority in England speaks of the Sealy as a "charming dog" with "more than the allowance of brains" found in some breeds. To continue the characterization the Sealy is quiet, gentle, affectionate, enjoys children, and has a head chock full of sense.

They are small enough and quiet enough for a small apartment or home, yet sporting enough for a country home. Although possessed of a certain stolidity that you don't often look for in a terrier, there is nothing slow or sluggish about this little English aristocrat that can trace his family tree for 150 years. He is full of life and will play ball or a game with children with true terrier enjoyment.

I have spent considerable time with Scalyhams of all ages during the last six months. Included among the dogs were some that had not been "introduced" to me before. Yet all I handled or played with showed no signs or anything but a friendly, attractive disposition. Several weeks ago I saw a two year old show dog brought into a room where there was a 3 year old child. The little girl immediately began to pet this Sealyham and rough it up a bit as a small child often will do. It was the first time I had seen Simon, the Sealy, around a small child and I was a bit worried about the dog's reaction.

But the short legged little terrier was extremely friendly, didn't mind the roughhousing from the child and, all in all, gave an excellent demonstration of the Sealy disposition and fondness for children. It confirmed my belief that the Sealy is an excellent "first dog" for a child. If the child and parents prefer a rather small dog around the house.

The Sealy was bred in England as a badger and vermin dog. Therefore he is a true sporting terrier, as game and courageous as a real sporting terrier has to be. He has short legs so that he can "go to earth" to get a badger. In the old days in England a breeder of Sealys is reported to have killed every young dog that refused to fight a polecat, thus eliminating from the blood lines any dog that wasn't a real scrapper.

So it isn't any wonder that today the Sealy has beneath all his charm, his friendliness, his affectionate disposition, and his love of play, a deep, unfailing strain of courage.

He may weigh only around 20 pounds and may look like just a little lapdog, but in his twenty odd pounds you'll find a keen hunting instinct which, plus his strong jaws and keen brain, makes him a good vermin dog. Although he doesn't have the size or the strength to make him a watchdog of the first class, the Sealy, like practically all terriers, is on the alert for intruders around the house and possesses the courage to sail into one.

Giants Arrive in Los Angeles to Play Bears

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—New York Giants, legal champions of the National Pro Football league, moved into this city from San Francisco today, preparatory to staking their prestige, if not their legal title, against the Chicago Bears here next Sunday.

The Giants have arranged practice hours which will not conflict with the morning scrimmage hours of George Halas' Chicago eleven in Gilmore stadium, scene of the coming game, and have arranged a palaver with Halas over the delicate point of what four officials can be chosen to handle the game. Halas' suggestion is that pro league officials ought to be imported from the east.

Game Is Sellout.

With the game already almost a sellout for the stadium's capacity of between 21,000 and 22,000 there should be ample funds to cover the importation of mutually satisfactory referee and umpire, according to the Bears' coach.

Officials of the Los Angeles council of the American Legion, who net one-third of the profits of the game, don't see the need of out-of-town officials as pressingly as the Bears do, but may acquiesce if the Giants back up the Bears' demand.

Bill Karr, who stayed out of last Sunday's game here in which the Bears indulged in a combination of strenuous football and gridiron horseplay to down a California all-star eleven, 26 to 7, today is reported in physical fettle again. He sustained a wrenched right ankle in the Los Angeles game against the Chicago Cardinals on Jan. 12. Bill Hewitt, other regular end, is due back from Chicago by plane tomorrow. He went east on hurried notice last Friday, because of his wife's illness.

Fans Like Warburton.

Los Angeles newspaper writers and football fans paid a great deal of attention to the showing made by Cotton Warburton, still a student at the University of Southern California, in last Sunday's game in which the white-headed 148 pounder scored the only touchdown against the Bears.

'Please Make Me No. 1,' Lasky Begs; 'No!' Shouts N. Y.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—New York state boxing commissioners today thumped their chests and bellowed a loud "No!" when a supplicant, recognized beneath his fetching fedora as one Art Lasky, pleaded that he be named forthwith as No. 1 contender for Max Baer's heavyweight championship.

The master minds comprising the New York state athletic commission declared they had become men of iron; that from now on they will designate crown contenders for their ability in the ring and not for the footwork of their managers in getting first to the commission cashier's window with a forfeit check.

"Go forth," commanded the keepers of the gate, after Morris Lasky, brother and manager of Art, had concluded an appeal that should have touched a heart of stone. "Go forth and get your fighter a reputation. He first must battle a few other guys, notably Steve Hamas, Max Schmeling, and Primo Carnera. And if he beats them all he won't have any trouble in being designated leading contender."

In turning down Lasky and handing his manager back a check for $2,500 he had forwarded two weeks ago, the commissioners displayed their accustomed consistency. Not more than a month ago they named Lou Ambers, hitherto obscure Herkimer, N. Y., lightweight, as leading contender for Barney Ross' title, apparently because Ambers' manager beat the field to the commission offices with a certified check.

TERRY SAYS HE FEARS DODGERS MOST OF ALL

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The baseball world was astounded today when Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, announced that "of all teams in the league next season, I fear those Brooklyn Dodgers most." This startling statement, in sharp contrast to a sneering remark made exactly one winter ago, was made in a long distance interview.

Terry, who was located in Little Rock, Ark., was asked for his opinion of the National league race outlook. The man who confidently sneered "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" last winter, replied:

"I think the teams we'll have to beat for the pennant this year are Cardinals and Cubs, and," he paused as if reluctant to go on. "And the Dodgers," he finally added. "Yep, I think right now I fear the Dodgers the most. They're mad at me and dangerous."

HAARLOW GAINS ON BARKO FOR LEAD IN SCORING

Jumps from Eleventh to Tie for Second.

Individual scoring records in the Western conference basketball race, following the games of Saturday and Monday nights, reveal Johnny Barko, Iowa forward, still in possession of first place with a total of 55 points, built up through 24 field goals and seven free throws.

The most surprising development of the week was the sensational spurt made by Bill Haarlow, former Bowen High school star who is now the chief offensive weapon of Chicago's tail end Maroons. Despite the fact that he is playing with a team which has failed to score a Big Ten victory in four games, Haarlow is now in a tie for second place with Alex Preboski of Wisconsin, each having scored 49 points.

Following Barko, Haarlow and Preboski in the scoring column are Froschauer of Illinois, Norman of Minnesota and Demark of Wisconsin.

CHURCH WASTE ATTACKED IN 2 DENOMINATIONS

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Waste of laymen's hard earned missionary contributions through competitive sectarian programs was attacked by officials of two major Protestant denominations yesterday, the Lutherans and the Congregational Christians.

Two of the three greater Lutheran groups of America held home missions meetings yesterday in the Great Northern hotel, and the Congregational Christian National Executive conference is in session this week in Evanston.

After hearing condemnation of waste in duplicated church efforts, both these denominational gatherings offered to extend home missions coöperation in an endeavor to use laymen's missionary dollars more effectively.

Urges Consolidation in Country.

In a formal report yesterday at the First Congregational church, Evanston, Dr. Ernest M. Halliday, head of the Congregational Christian extension board, advocated the development of consolidated churches for rural communities. He envisioned church buses, similar to school buses, gathering Sunday school children and church attendants from miles around for services. Dr. Halliday is president also of the home missions council composed of representatives of 23 Protestant denominations.

"Instead of different denominations sending missionaries around to little groups in separate churches, there should be well equipped and efficiently manned central church plants on the countryside worthy to rank with the centralized rural schools," said Dr. Halliday. "The first step toward consolidated churches has already been taken by an agreement between home mission boards of five denominations."

Back Alert Congregations.

Dr. Halliday said the mission boards of these denominations "have no easy money to pass out for lackadaisical service to moribund churches, but they have funds with which to support enterprises which are vital and forward looking."

The Lutheran home missions council, representing the American Lutheran conference and the United Lutheran church, by resolution yesterday invited synods of the Lutheran synodical conference to participate in future deliberations.

If the synodical conference, in which the synod of Missouri is the leading group, consents it will be the first time that all-American Lutheranism has joined in a common effort.

CUSTODY OF GIRL AWARDED TO HER GRANDPARENTS

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Suit for custody of a small girl that paralleled almost exactly the Gloria Vanderbilt case was decided today in favor of the grandparents of the child.

Official Referee Joseph Morschauser awarded Constance Brock, 10, to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Starr of Mamaroneck, N. Y., rejecting the application for custody made by the child's mother, Mrs. Helen Starr Brock Josephson of Park avenue and her husband, Robert Josephson, investment broker.

The referee also rejected an application for custody of the little girl made by her father, Louis Brock, motion picture executive, who is now living in Hollywood with his third wife. Mr. Brock urged that if he were denied custody the child be awarded to its grandparents rather than to its mother.

The Starrs asserted their daughter had abandoned Constance to the care of the Starrs when the girl was only a few weeks old.

Mrs. Josephson will be permitted to visit her daughter in the Starr home every Sunday from 1 to 5 p. m.

JOHN T. EVANS, ATTORNEY, FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

John T. Evans, 56 years old, for thirty-three years a Chicago attorney, was found dead from heart disease yesterday in his rooms at the Maryland hotel, where he had been living for several months. Mr. Evans was a member of the firm of Evans & Robinson, 1 North La Salle street. He was also a member of the American, Illinois, and Chicago Bar associations. In 1902 he graduated from the Chicago College of Law. During the war he was a captain in the intelligence service. His club memberships include the Chicago Athletic association and the Barrington Hills Country club. Burial will be at Rosehill cemetery after funeral arrangements have been completed.

Anna Walters' Rites Tomorrow in La Grange

Funeral services for Miss Anna Walters, 60 years old, a Chicagoan for many years who died at her home in Allegan, Mich., Monday after a brief illness, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the chapel at 110 North Fifth avenue, La Grange. Burial will be in Brownswood cemetery in Hinsdale. Miss Walters was born in Chicago and in early life conducted a private kindergarten in Western Springs, where she lived until she moved to Allegan twelve years ago. Surviving are two nieces, Miss Eleanor Walters of La Grange and Mrs. Ruth Schroeder Metzger of Toledo.

Mrs. Radekopf's Rites to Be This Afternoon

Funeral services for Mrs. Mathilda Radekopf, 77 years old, for the last fifty years actively engaged in Lutheran welfare work, will be held this afternoon at St. Andrew's Lutheran church, 37th a. 1 Honore street. Burial will be in Concordia cemetery. Mrs. Radekopf died Saturday at her home, 3639 South Wood street. She and her husband, William, who survives her, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary two years ago. They settled in Chicago when they came to this country from Germany on their honeymoon.

'REVENGE' THEORY OF LAW ASSAILED BY JUDGE FISHER

Explains Philosophy of New Crime Plan.

Changes in the philosophy of criminal justice from the old British and Roman theory that punishment should fit the crime to a more idealistic present day belief that "treatment" should be administered by the courts under the inherent right of society to secure its safety against depredations of anti-social agencies, were discussed yesterday by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher.

The judge, one of the writers of the new proposed state criminal code based on the newer philosophy which has just been completed by the joint Illinois and Cook county judicial advisory councils appeared as one of three speakers before the City Club of Chicago at luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. With Assistant State's Attorney Charles Doherty, and Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, he spoke on the general topic of improvement in administration of criminal justice in Chicago.

Discards "Revenge" Theory.

The basic differences in the two schools of thought, asserted Judge Fisher, lie in the fact that judges and prosecutors have come to the conclusion that justification for infliction of penalties "lies not in revenge, or for punishment, or even for correction."

"Therefore," said the judge, "in inflicting penalties I do not like the word preferring 'application of treatment'—the first question should be: 'What are the probabilities of future depredations by the criminal against society?'

"Suppose we get a known criminal, one who has committed many serious crimes, but who cannot be convicted on evidence available. Then suppose this individual is convicted of a minor offense such as larceny. Should this criminal be treated the same as a boy of 17 or 18 years whose first offense was a crime of larceny? Not in the belief of judges today."

New Code Summarized.

A full development of this theory of criminal justice was completed by the advisory councils in drawing the new code which will soon be presented to the legislature, the judge said. Briefly he outlined major changes.

Instead of dividing crimes into felonies and misdemeanors, the new code would divide crime into six classifications. In the first class the more serious crimes such as murder, treason, rape, robbery with a gun, etc., are grouped. Conviction automatically brings imprisonment from one year to life, the right of probation removed, and parole only upon completion of sentence. Death sentences are provided for certain of these.

Second class crimes would include attempts to commit crimes of the first class, seduction, embezzlement, abortion without murder, forgery, etc. Punishment would be imprisonment not to exceed three years in any institution save a penitentiary. Crimes of the second class are punishable as first class offenses upon second offenses.

The remaining classifications provide parole or punishment similar to second class crimes for the minor offenses now on the statutes, the judge explained.

SENDS 14 BOYS TO PRISON

Fifteen youths, ranging in age from 17 to 22 years, were sentenced to the penitentiary on charges of robbery and burglary yesterday by Judge Walter P. Steffen of the Criminal court. In denying probation in each case, the judge said investigation had showed all of the defendants "bad boys" apparently bent on lives of crime.

Among the defendants were 10 member of the "Irving Park neighborhood gang." Arrested in a garage at 3444 Osage avenue where they had gathered to divide their spoils, the youthful members of the gang confessed to 60 robberies of bus drivers, store owners, motorists, and pedestrians.

Ten in One Gang Sentenced.

Emmett Brauer, 17 years old, was sentenced to one to 14 years in the penitentiary and the rest were given terms of one year to life after all pleaded guilty to charges of robbery. The other gang members sentenced are: Gerhart Stokosch, 17 years old; Ralph Fischer, 20; Ernest Kanzaler, 17; George Congiolosi, 18; Vincent Fichter, 18; Edward Quane, 19; Ralph Weston, 19; Robert Goebel, 18, and his brother, William, 20.

Also sentenced in the drive against "youthful crime" were John Rudack, 19 years old, and Tony Dine, 18. They were given a jury trial on charges of burglary. Found guilty, they were sentenced after Judge Steffen overruled motions for a new trial.

Sends Up Wooden Gun Robber.

Charles Deacy, 19 years old, was found guilty in trial without a jury and sentenced to one to 20 years on a charge of robbery. Donald Cushing, 22 years old, pleaded guilty on a charge of robbery and was sentenced to a term of one year to life.

Sentence of Joseph Bajzer brought to 15 the number of cases closed by Judge Steffen during the day. Bajzer, 31 years old, was sentenced to one year to life on a charge of robbery with a wooden gun.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Eddie Cantor has the material writers running around in circles these days, according to Broadway reports. Fresh as a daisy from his long vacation in Europe, Cantor is busy whipping together his new CBS radio show which goes on the air in ten days. He has issued an ultimatum that he is going to be fussy about gags, according to the report from the east. And this has his shadows worried.

When Cantor had an hour to fill on NBC he didn't much mind when his writers regularly made liberal use of the old joke books. But with only a half hour at his disposal on the new show and Rubinoff, Parkykakas and Ted Husing sharing his spotlight, Cantor is said to be determined that there shall be no frittering. And so is the sponsor.

After all, Cantor will be getting the most he has ever been paid—$7,000 a show for himself and $3,000 to provide material. And for $3,000 every gag must click, every jest roll the studio pass holders in the ailes.

"Who's that man?" asked Marion, one of the Doring sisters, between numbers at a W-G-N broadcast the other evening. A studio attendant looked in the indicated direction and saw Carl Meyers, chief engineer.

"Why, I used to know him in Cincinnati," she continued. So Carl was asked whether he had ever lived in Cincinnati. Yes, indeed he had.

It turned out that they had been schoolmates there.

"Lights Out," that Wednesday midnight horror series written by Willis Cooper, NBC continuity ace, will be restored on Jan. 30. . . . And "Amateur Night in Harlem," with its hisses, boos and applause, will return to WIND-ABC at 10:15 o'clock tonight. . . . Jack Benny and his troupe will be guests of George Olsen and Ethel Shutta at their College Inn celebrity night party tonight.

Jane Pickens of NBC's singing Pickens sisters, has been advanced to the rôle of prima donna in Eddie Dowling's revue, "Thumbs Up." They are on the air now at 9:15 Sunday evenings. . . . A poll of Yale men has revealed Glen Gray, Abe Lyman and Fred Waring as their favorite radio bandsmen. Jessica Dragonette is the ranking singer. Fred Allen and Amos 'n' Andy led the funny men.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank will discuss "Medical Progress" over WENR at 5:15 o'clock tomorrow.

Mascagni's new opera, "Nerone," which had its première last week, will be broadcast from IRA, Rome, on "The American Hour" from 5 to 6 p. m. next Monday from the stage of the Scala theater in Milan. Tito Schipa, Benjamino Gigli, and other American favorites will participate in the performance. First half of the broadcast will be heard on 9.78 megacycles, second half on 6.08.

PACKERS PROFIT FROM DROUTH, AID CONSUMERS

Huge Storage Stocks Hold Prices in Check

By maintaining confidence in the future, packers have apparently converted a distressing situation forced on them by the drouth into one that promises to benefit the entire live stock and meat industry, an analysis of events since last fall reveals.

Millions of pounds of meat were stored away at low prices when farmers were liquidating their herds because of the feed shortage. Packers now are carrying almost a billion pounds, the greatest tonnage they ever had on their hands at this time of year, but they are in a season now that is already marked by abnormally light live stock receipts and soaring meat prices.

They stand to make a good profit on their holdings without charging the exorbitant prices that would have resulted now had they sold meat as rapidly as they slaughtered live stock last fall.

Wholesale Prices Up 25 to 66 Pct.

Wholesale prices of beef, pork, and lamb have risen from 25 to 66 per cent over lows of the last two months, as a result of the live stock shortage caused by the drouth and AAA programs to reduce farm production. The department of agriculture reported yesterday various grades of dressed beef carcasses are selling within a range of $9.00 to $17.50 per hundredweight yesterday, compared with $5.50 to $14.00 two months ago.

Dressed lamb carcasses sold yesterday at $15.00 to $19.00, against $9.00 to $13.00 about the middle of November. Pork loins were selling wholesale at $14.50 to $18.00 per hundred pounds, compared with $10.00 to $12.00 at the low time within two months ago. Although packers are reaping a profit on their inventories, experts in the industry credit them with actually holding off abnormally high prices for the consumer through their foresight.

Claim Packers Curbed Rise.

Meat has advanced sharply in the last few weeks, but it is by no means as high as it would have been had the consumer to depend entirely on the almost starvation live stock receipts now coming to market, packers contend. There is little prospect of an increase in live stock supplies for some time to come. The department of agriculture has predicted that 1935 will witness the lightest receipts in 35 years.

More than a third of the huge tonnage packers are carrying is frozen. Meat is highly perishable unless frozen and maintained at low temperature at great expense to the owner. Frozen meats can be carried almost indefinitly, but meat in cure cannot be held much more than the time it takes to process it. The following table shows the amount of meat in storage on the first day of each month, and the monthly average prices paid by packers at Chicago for cattle, hogs, and sheep:

All meats in storage in U. S. on 1st of each month, in lbs.	Average mo. prices for live stock per 100 lbs. at Chicago. Steers.	†Hogs.	Lambs.
Nov 722,880,000	$7.35	$7.85	$6.15
Dec 817,384,000	7.40	8.25	7.35
*Jan 961,696,000	8.75	9.85	9.65

†Hog price includes $2.25 processing tax.

CANADIAN CATTLE SOLD HERE; FIRST IN FIVE YEARS

Three carloads of Canadian cattle, the first such shipment received here since 1929, sold yesterday in the Chicago live stock market for an average price of $7.75 a hundred pounds.

Existing tarifs have made importations of Canadian animals unprofitable during the last few years, but the recent sharp advance in cattle prices here again made such shipments attractive. The consignment which arrived yesterday was regarded as a "trial shipment." Further importations are expected if present prices hold.

The cattle had an average weight of 950 pounds a head. There were approximately seventy-five head in three cars. Prior to tarif adjustments in 1929 Chicago was an important market for Canadian cattle.

The existing tarif on Canadian cattle is $3 per hundred pounds on animals of 750 pounds or more. Packers estimated that the net return to the sellers on yesterday's shipments was only $3.25 to $3.50 a hundred.

WAUKEGAN BANK RECEIVER WINS STOCK LIABILITY

Judgments totaling $101,600 were entered in Waukegan yesterday against 39 stockholders of the defunct Waukegan State bank by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady. The judgment was entered under a decree prepared by Bernard Becker in connection with a stockholders' liability suit brought by the receiver of the bank. It brings the total of judgments obtained to 79, 40 having been taken by default in May, 1933. Under the other judgments $88,600 was collected.

The bank, which closed in June, 1931, has made only one payment of 5 per cent, just before Christmas. This payment is said to have been met largely from payments under stockholders' liability.

Commerce Association Installs Officers Today

Bankers Like 'Baby Bonds' —for Public

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Secretary Morgenthau's proposal to have the government sell "baby bonds" in denominations of $25 to $10,000 yesterday was lauded by Chicago bankers as a step toward "orthodox" financing. Said one banker: "This is a move in the right direction. The government debt should be held by the general public, not by the banks. For more than two years new bond and note issues have been sold to the banks, instead of to the people. Government bonds haven't been retailed. They have merely been sold to the banks as wholesalers, but they have stuck with the banks. This has resulted in banks' investment portfolios becoming topheavy with government bonds."

From the treasury's standpoint, sale of the "baby bonds" would help make the figures look better temporarily. The proposed "baby bonds" would be discount bonds. A long term bond, according to the plan, would be sold for $70 to $80, th holder to be paid the full $100 at maturity. This would postpone current interest charges on that part of the public debt. Cost to the government of service on the federal debt, therefore, would be proportionately lower, the job of covering interest charges being left to subsequent administrations. Such gentle subterfuge is not without precedent. The "ordinary" budget for 1936, according to the administration's calculations, is to be balanced only by disregarding normal sinking fund charges of more than 600 million dollars.

Shortage of feed, due to the Agricultural Adjustment administration's crop reduction schemes, plus the drouth, has forced cattle at the Chicago stockyards to the highest prices since 1931, with the householder's beef costs rising accordingly. The farmer is supposed to get a break in higher prices for his cattle, but this is largely offset by the fact that he doesn't have many cattle to sell. Reflecting this situation, carloads of Canadian cattle appeared for sale here yesterday for the first time in six years.

The British are not much disturbed by the furore in this country over the mooted "gold clause" cases now under consideration by the United States Supreme court. When Great Britain departed from the gold standard and debased her currency 40 per cent her bondholders had no recourse. They had to take debased money and like it. British bonds have never contained the "gold clause." They are payable in sterling—paper money—of whatever value happens to be current. And Great Britain has no constitution.

Somehow it is difficult to keep pace with the financial philosophy of the New Deal. Jesse Jones a year ago said credit was tight because the bankers refused to make good loans. A few months later he reversed himself and said that the bankers were willing to lend but good borrowers wouldn't borrow. He turned around again in October when he told the convention of the American Bankers' association that they should take longer chances and forget about liquidity. Yesterday, testifying before a house appropriations subcommittee, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said the banks should think first about the safety of their depositors' money.

Secretary Morgenthau's remarks were noteworthy. "I happen to belong," he said, according to Washington dispatches, "to the school that thinks the banks, being privately owned, owe a duty to their depositors. I do not think that anybody here in Washington can tell them what to do, because, after all, all of their responsibility is to their depositors. I do not think that all the pounding of desks in the world will compel a bank to make a loan unless the management wants to do it."

And to add to this topsy-turvy situation Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, himself, appearing before the banking committee of the house, is criticized for his failure to make more industrial loans. Protesting that he didn't think the RFC had been too strict in its requirements, Mr. Jones adds: "We can give the money away if you want us to." Mr. Jones, the man who says the banks should be less particular about liquidity, himself appears to be behind the times. He thinks a lender should worry about the borrower's ability to repay a loan.

WILLIAM A. DYCHE NAMED HEAD OF EVANSTON BANK

William A. Dyche, former business manager of Northwestern university, has been named president of the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, the bank announced last night.

He succeeds Wirt Wright, who had held the position since 1927. Wright, in a brief statement, announced his retirement, declaring it was due to "a lack of harmony on the part of a small minority of the board of directors."

The bank's statement merely said that Wright had retired, giving no reason. In addition to being named president, Dyche was also made chairman of the board. Three new directors elected were Hamilton Gibson, Ward T. Huston, and George C. Williams to succeed Wright, Arthur Anderson, and Sewell L. Avery, resigned.

Procter & Gamble Earnings Rise for Last Half of '34

Net profit of Procter & Gamble company and subsidiaries for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to $5,423,561 after taxes and charges, it was announced yesterday. After preferred dividends this was equal to 50 cents a share on the 6,325,087 shares of common stock outstanding, and compares with net profit of $2,723,677, or 39 cents a share, in the corresponding quarter of 1933. For the six months ended Dec. 31 net profit was $7,544,022, compared with $7,107,517 in the corresponding period of the preceding year.

GLASS ASSAILS ECCLES RULE ON RESERVE HEADS

Charges It Penalizes Bank Experience.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Carter Glass of Virginia, stern senate foe of many New Deal banking ways, tonight found new fault with Gov. Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board, whose qualifications he is critically examining.

The caustic little Virginian, chairman of a subcommittee to which the Eccles nomination was referred today for investigation, assailed the recently imposed limitation upon the length of service of reserve bank directors as an "unjustifiable penalty upon experience."

Meanwhile another major administration financial proposal slipped quietly and unanimously through the house ways and means committee after a brief explanation by Secretary Morgenthau—a measure authorizing additional issues of government bonds to the extent of $9,000,000,000, including bonds of small denomination.

Boosts Borrowing Authority.

Borrowing authority of the government is increased from $31,500,000,000 to $45,000,000,000 by the bill, and allows baby bonds of $25 up to $10,000 to be sold on a discount basis to small investors at an annual return of 2 to 3 per cent.

For example, a $100 bond due in ten years would be sold at $70 to $80. Holders would be given the opportunity to sell them back to the government every six months, receiving interest for the period, but could not dispose of them on the open market.

Glass declined to comment on the bond proposal, but was outspoken in his criticism of the latest Eccles move, which had been explained as intended to rotate the directorates of the reserve banks and permit representation from time to time of all business interests in the region served.

However, it was generally interpreted as part of a plan to make the reserve system more amenable to control from Washington by permitting the replacement of recalcitrant directors with men more in sympathy with the program and objectives of the New Deal.

Glass Opposes Plan.

To such an extension of authority Glass, a co-author of the federal reserve act and long considered the senate's outstanding authority on banking legislation, is unalterably opposed. In fact, he favors separation of the treasury and the reserve system.

"It would be better," he said today of the new Eccles proposal, "to put a limit on the service of the members of the reserve board here and keep it from getting static."

The incident follows by less than a month the altercation between Glass and Eccles over the latter's imposition of a 2½ per cent maximum interest rate for member banks on time and savings deposits. Glass did not question the reserve board's right to take such action, but objected to the fact that the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation also issued a similar order and that both were announced at once by Eccles.

The Virginian said today he would be in no hurry in calling together the subcommittee, an offshoot of the committee on banking and currency, to consider the Eccles nomination. Meanwhile it is understood to be his intention to gather information on Eccles which he will lay before that group.

SPEEDS RELEASE OF $250,000,000 TIED UP REALTY

Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, head of the chancery division of the Circuit court, announced yesterday that he had directed the masters in chancery to bring to a close immediately litigation involving 975 foreclosure cases that have been pending before the masters for a period longer than six months. These cases involve realty valued in excess of $250,000,000, he said.

The court's order is in accordance with the new procedure announced recently by the judges of the equity branches of the Circuit and Superior courts to speed the lifting of receiverships on Cook county property. The aim is to make possible the bona fide sale of a foreclosed property shortly after the foreclosure petition has been filed.

The judges also announced the appointment of Gus Weidemeier, an assistant clerk of the court, to take charge of all receivership reports submitted to the courts. Weidemeier's task will be to scan the reports for irregularities and to see that receivers of property do not overspend for improvements on the property. He will report his findings to the judges.

DU PONT REPORTS $3.66 A SHARE EARNED IN 1934

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. reports for the year ending Dec. 31, 1934, that a preliminary calculation subject to verification by independent public accountants shows $3.66 a share earned on its common stock, the best since 1931.

This figure, which includes dividend from General Motors investment equivalent to $1.36 on each share of du Pont common stock, compares with total earnings of $3 a share in 1933, which latter figure included dividend from its General Motors investment equivalent to $1.14 on each share of du Pont common stock.

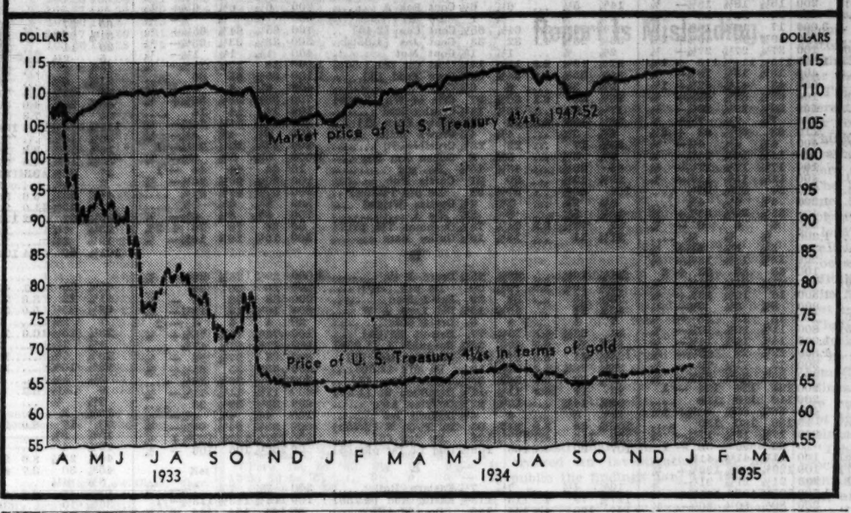
Market Price of a Leading Government Bond and the Price in Terms of Gold



SEC Reveals More Large Stock Holdings

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Benjamin J. Rosenthal, chairman of the Chicago Mail Order company, holds stock in that company valued at approximately 2 million dollars, according to a report filed with the federal securities and exchange commission today.

Rosenthal's holdings probably make him one of the largest stockholders in the company, although his report did not set forth this fact. He disclosed he owns 116,616 shares of the company's stock, and the company's registration statement, also filed with the SEC, shows that the total amount of stock outstanding is 346,181 shares. Mr. Rosenthal's holdings, with a market value of $1,997,049, give him a third interest.

Reports $121,500 Interest.

F. B. Hitchcock, also of Chicago, reported to the commission he owns 9,000 shares in the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, of which he is a director. Market value of these shares is $121,500 on the basis of yesterday's closing. Chicago Flexible Shaft in its registration statement reports 180,000 shares outstanding, of which Hitchcock's holdings represent five per cent of the total.

S. D. Clough, president of Abbott laboratories, held 3,000 capital shares in that company's stock on Dec. 31, valued at $186,000, while J. F. Stiles Jr., secretary of the concern, had 1,313 shares on the same date, valued at $81,400.

Other Holdings Shown.

Other persons who today reported stockholdings to the SEC include:

Whitney H. Eastman, Milwaukee, a director in Archer-Daniels-Midland company, who holds 4,525 shares of the company's common stock with a market value of $171,950.

William E. Schrafft, Boston, a director in the Frank G. Shattuck company, disclosed ownership of 52,908 shares of the company's stock worth almost half a million dollars.

Angus W. Morrison, Minneapolis, a director in Munsingwear, Inc., reported 5,300 shares of the company's stock valued at $84,800.

OFFERS ILLINOIS BILL FOR MUTUAL SAVINGS BANKS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Representative Clinton Searle [Rep. Rock Island], today introduced a bill to permit establishment of mutual savings banks in Illinois, which is based largely on the New York act of the same character.

Under the Searle measure, incorporators of such banks would have to establish a guaranty fund of at least $5,000 and such fund contributions "as are necessary to maintain the solvency of the bank." The type of investments such a bank could make is also stipulated. The cost of the bank premises could not exceed 25 per cent of the guaranty fund.

Individual savings deposits would be limited to $7,500 per depositor and the institutions would be under control and management of a board of trustees of not less than nine or more than thirty trustees. Dividends would be paid to depositors on demand in such a manner as the board of trustees would indicate. There would be no stock and depositors would receive profits of the bank after payment of operating expenses and setting up of whatever reserves the trustees decide upon.

STEEL INDUSTRY WILL SPEND 125 MILLIONS ON PLANTS THIS YEAR

New York, Jan. 22.—The steel industry has budgeted more than $125,000,000 for new equipment and plant modernization in 1935, an informal poll of the steel manufacturers shows.

The poll, which was recently completed by the American Iron and Steel institute, also gives an estimate that the finished steel capacity of the industry will be about 3,000,000 tons more by Dec. 31, 1935, than it was on Dec. 31, 1933.

The report of the institute states also that the new equipment will consist largely of facilities for producing the lighter types of finished steel products. Initiation of new construction to increase the present blast furnace, open hearth or Bessemer steel capacity is forbidden by the code.

Attention is called in the report to the fact that demand for sheet and strip steel has been steadily increasing in recent years due to increased consumption by the automobile, container, and other consumer goods industries.

The Norfolk and Western railroad has distributed orders for 12,000 tons of tie plates among the Wheeling Steel corporation, Weirton Steel company, and Republic Steel corporation.

SEC HEAD WILL TALK TO CHICAGO BUSINESS CLUBS

Joseph Kennedy, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, will speak here Feb. 8 at an all-club luncheon given by the Union League club. It will be his first appearance here since his appointment as chief of the federal "blue sky" division and because of this much interest is attached to the address.

It is expected Mr. Kennedy will outline the functions and intentions of the SEC in more detail than previously revealed to any midwestern audience. The only other commissioner to speak here is George C. Mathews of Wisconsin, a Republican member. It is hoped that Mr. Kennedy may tell something of the commission's plans for its proposed Chicago office.

Plans of the securities and exchange commission for its Chicago branch office may not be definitly formulated until after congress has passed the commission's appropriation, it was learned yesterday. Whether the local office assumes any proportions for several months may depend upon whether congress passes a deficiency appropriation asked by the SEC for the current fiscal year. If congress decides to slash the sums asked by the commission it is considered likely that the local branch may turn out to be of little importance.

TRAVEL IS HEAVY ON NEW PENNSY FLORIDA TRAIN

The exceptionally heavy travel on every trip of the new Florida Arrow of the Pennsylvania railroad since it was put into service three weeks ago gives an indication that the present winter season will be the largest in Florida's history, H. E. Newcomet, vice president of the Pennsylvania in Chicago, stated yesterday. Mr. Newcomet said an unusual feature of this year's Florida travel is the extensive shipment of private automobiles by railroad to the resort district.

Mr. Newcomet said that the Southland and Flamingo, two other Pennsylvania Chicago-Florida trains, are receiving far greater patronage than last year. He added that reports from the road's representatives in Florida indicate that heavy tourist travel already has brought this year's total to 35 per cent above the peak of the 1934 winter resort season, with this year's peak not yet reached.

Dollar Rises Despite Gold Buying Abroad

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—In spite of the purchase abroad by American banks of an additional $28,000,000 of gold, the dollar rose against bloc currencies today. Assured that there would be no supreme court decision on the gold clause cases before Feb. 4 commercial banks engaged all available facilities on ships due to reach here by that date and bought gold freely in Europe.

The $28,000,000 purchase brought the total of gold bought abroad since Nov. 5 to $309,000,000 and the total for the past week to $82,000,000. The gold engagements, involving as they did the purchase of francs, guilders and other European gold currencies, should have brought a sustaining influence into the foreign exchanges. The pressure on the gold bloc, however, was too great for the gold transactions to overcome.

27 Millions in Gold Arrives.

Meanwhile the Berengaria arrived today carrying more than $27,000,000 in gold in her vaults, one of the largest shipments ever made, according to officers of the line. The federal reserve bank reported the receipt from abroad of $1,678,100 gold from Canada and $228,200 gold from India. The Guaranty Trust company announced that it had received $252,000 from India on the Laconia.

Francs fell a point net to 6.57¾ cents, guilders dropped 4 points to 67.38 cents, belgas were unchanged at 23.23 cents and Swiss francs were off 4 points to 32.29 cents. The weakness of the gold bloc today reflected more developments in Europe than any anticipation of a change in the status of the dollar. Sterling closed at $4.88⅜, up ⅛ cent, and Canadian dollars rose in sympathy to 3⅛ points premium.

Three Factors Affect Trend.

News of the day affecting the currencies included the Swiss referendum which may determine whether the Swiss franc is to stay on gold; the action of the French cabinet in approving an increase in the authorized short-term debt of the government from 10,000,000,000 to 15,000,000,000 francs, and reports of disturbances in Belgium.

It was also reported from Paris that signs of a distrust of gold were appearing in the offering at concessions of hoarded gold coin, including American eagles and English sovereigns.

The Belgian rumors dealt with the possibility of the setting up of a government by a special commission under the king without benefit of parliament, because of the difficulties in finding a stable majority in the present chamber and growing financial difficulties.

NORFOLK ROAD DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND OF $2

Directors of the Norfolk & Western Railway company yesterday declared an extra dividend of $2 and the regular quarterly payment of $2 a share on the common stock, both payable March 29. A similar extra disbursement was made a year ago.

The Electric Household Utilities company yesterday declared a dividend of 25 cents on the capital stock, payable Feb. 15. Similar payments were made in preceding quarters, although the stock is not on an annual basis.

Senate Passes 'Hot Oil' Bill Over Protests

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The senate today passed the Connally "hot oil" bill designed to replace section 9 (c) of the NRA, which the Supreme court held unconstitutional.

The bill was passed with a roaring majority of "ayes" after Senators Borah of Idaho, Glass of Virginia, and King of Utah had assailed it as being just as defective, constitutionally, as the oil section of the NRA.

Calls It Unconstitutional.

"I shall vote against this bill," said Senator King, a Democrat, "because it is unconstitutional. I have read both the bill and the Supreme court's opinion. It is in harmony with the general scheme to strangle the states and build up a gigantic burocratic organization to take over control of all the industrial activities in the United States."

Senator Glass, another Democrat, attacked the bill on the ground that under it congress was not only seeking to regulate but to prohibit interstate commerce. Senator Borah also objected on this ground and pointed out that the bill makes the same delegations of legislative power as those contained in section 9 (c) and held invalid by the Supreme court.

Borah Reads Penalty.

"'The President, or his duly designated agent or agency, shall prescribe and promulgate such rules and regulations as may be found necessary or appropriate to effectuate the purposes of this act,'" Senator Borah read.

"'Any person violating any provision of this act, or of any valid order, rule or regulation prescribed thereunder, shall be deemed guilty of a crime and upon conviction shall be punished by fine of not to exceed $5,000 or by imprisonment of not to exceed six months, or both, and each act and each day of any such act shall constitutb a separate offense.'

"You have there the same proposition held invalid by the Supreme court," Senator Borah declared. "It gives the President the power to make laws, as it were, the violation of which is a crime punishable by imprisonment, and there are no standards or prescribed conditions under which the President or his agents are to act."

Makes "Hot Oil" Contraband.

The bill, introduced by Senator Connally of Texas, was drawn up by the young law school graduates in Secretary Ickes' department of the interior. It is designed to prohibit from interstate commerce oil produced in excess of state allocations, and the only difference between it and section 9 [c] is that congress itself makes such oil "contraband" and prohibits it. Under section 9 [c] the President had power to determine whether and when such oil should be excluded from interstate commerce.

"It was a terrible mistake," said Senator Glass, "when we first began to interpret the power of congress to regulate as the power to prohibit interstate commerce. I have always voted against such propositions and I shall continue to do so."

Borah Cites Precedent.

Senator Borah then took up this line of argument and reviewed the decision of the Supreme court in the case of Clark Distilling company vs. Western Maryland railway, wherein it was declared:

"If the doctrin were applied to those manifold and important subjects of interstate commerce as to which the congress from the beginning has regulated, not prohibited, the existence of government under the constitution would be no longer possible."

In his attack on the spread of burocracy and the "greed of government agencies" Senator King said that at the rate things are going there will be no states after a while, but a single territory "under complete domination of a central burocracy."

Expect 120,000 New Car Registrations This Month

Total registrations of new passenger cars in the United States this month will reach 120,000 units, based on reports from 80 key cities during the first ten days of the month, it was announced yesterday by R. L. Polk & Co. This would be 95 per cent higher than the 61,242 cars registered in January, 1934, and the highest for the month since 1931, when 126,776 cars were registered.

CHICAGO PLANS MANY BUILDING CODE CHANGES

Expect Completion Within Week.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's new building code, on which the revision committee headed by F. J. Thielbar has been working for the last year, and which will have some revolutionary changes over former construction methods in this city, is expected to be ready for public hearings within a week. This announcement was made last night at a meeting of the Illinois Society of Architects at the Architects' club of Chicago by Al F. Gorman, assistant corporation counsel.

As objections made at public hearings in years past on former proposed building codes have been considered by the present committee, it was predicted the new code will be shortly enacted into a law. Mayor Kelly, it was stated by Mr. Shapiro, is in favor of prompt action on settling a matter which had been dragging along for more than eight years, prior to the present commission named by Mayor Kelly in January, 1934.

Code to Cut Costs.

Not only will the new code permit the use of new methods of construction and kinds of materials, some of which have been successfully blocked from use in Chicago by various interests, but it will reduce the cost of construction through radical economies brought about by lighter walls and columns and newer and lighter materials. Benjamin B. Shapiro, engineer for the Chicago park commission and a member of the code commission, predicted that a saving of from 15 to 20 per cent will be effected in concrete construction under the new code.

Welding in its entirety is to be recognized. Chicago has been behind practically all American cities in refusing officially to recognize this new method of steel erection. Silicon steel is to be recognized. Composite beams are to be officially permitted. Wall bearing tile will be permitted for the first time in Chicago, although allowed in most American cities for many years.

Modify Housing Requirements.

A special type of housing construction will be included in the new code so that four story and basement multiple dwelling structures may be of common construction if all wire lath and plaster is used throughout and all stairways protected. All walls may be only twelve inches thick instead of having them sixteen inches for the first floor and then tapering to lesser thicknesses in upper floors. This will permit standardized floors.

An innovation announced by Mr. Thielbar for the new code will be the provision of a bureau of standards and tests to try out all new materials and methods proposed after the code has been adopted. This, it is expected, will make the new code not only more flexible but will enable it to develop along modern lines and not be static as former codes have been.

The proposed bureau will be composed of not less than three and not more than five architects and engineers, one of whom will be the city building commissioner, who will be chairman.

Fireproof Rules Changed.

Another demolition of old building faiths was made by Mr. Shapiro when he stated that there was no such thing as a fireproof building. The new code, he said, will base its fire resisting qualifications entirely on the thickness of the walls. It is estimated an eight inch brick wall will resist fire for four hours and a three and three-fourths inch wall will be fire resistant for one hour.

Mr. Shapiro stated the code will place careful restrictions around welding construction. There will be tests on the job during erection and at least 5 per cent of the welding shall be tested before it is encased in concrete.

According to Mr. Thielbar, the new code is 90 per cent finished. It is the first building code in history to include air conditioning, he stated.

FLYING RUMORS LACK POWER TO UPLIFT STOCKS

Preferred Issues Strong, Others Irregular.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—Except for a handfull of preferreds, in which gains running to as much as 6 and 7 points were recorded, stocks were content to loaf around the home base today. Closing prices showed considerable irregularity, with few of the changes on either side of any great significance. American Can met with a fairly good demand in the industrial group and hopped up a point or so, but United States Steel, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, United States Smelting, Westinghouse, and other recognized leaders took the other trend and wound up a point or so lower.

Trading was at a uniformly dull pace, the sales total amounting to not so very much more than a half million shares. Brokerage house rumors of various sorts inspired flurries of activity here and there in the list.

Mullins Preferred Advances.

A story that the stockholders of Mullins Manufacturing would like to have some back dividends stirred interest in the shares of that company and the preferred went bounding up 8 points, later giving up a part of its gain.

A printed report that General Motors directors may vote an extra dividend at the February meeting drew attention to that big league issue until it was made to appear that the rumor had its origin more in some wishful thinking of interested shareholders than in any earnings of extra dividend caliber. The issue finished the day nearly a half point lower.

A good deal of activity took place in telegraph company stocks on the opening of a road for a merger. Western Union was steady, having the least to gain from a combination. Postal preferred climbed more than a point before turning down and International Telegraph and Telephone rose fractionally only to settle back to its previous close.

General Electric Firmer.

General Electric was again in favor on "reminders" of its contracts with official Washington but was unable to get more than a fraction above its base.

Public utilities again held steady, carrier stocks were generally neglected, mail order and farm shares were heavy in sympathy with wheat. Oil and food shares were quiet and the aviations and liquors did little more than mark time.

Among the preferreds to get a good lift were those of Barker Brothers, Cushmans, General Cigar, New York Steam, Mengel company, Mallison, The Fair, G. R. Kenney, and Worthington Pump.

HEARSUGAR AT TO OUST MEMBER IN SQUEEZE DEAL

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Expulsion of one prominent member of the New York coffee and sugar exchange for alleged improper activities relative to the now historic "squeeze" in December sugar, and suspension of another, was held virtually certain in informed circles today.

The board of managers of the exchange sweated over the problem in a session that continued its hectic course until 3 o'clock this morning, and reached its decision late today. The expected disciplinary action would be the first in years. The board was also reported to have increased the 25 point penalty for failure of shorts to make delivery.

While official confirmation will be lacking until the board announces its decision tomorrow morning, it was understood that body had definitly decided to suspend trading privileges of one big sugar bear who made strenuous efforts in Washington to scrap the Cuban sugar allotment established by agreement with the AAA.

COTTON PRICES DECLINE AS JANUARY HOLDERS SELL

Weakness in Liverpool and the development of liquidation by holders of January contracts in New York started cotton on the downgrade yesterday. While there was a slight rally from the inside figure, the close was at net losses of 6 to 8 points in Chicago, and 4 to 10 points in other markets. Europe and the far east were buyers early. The Indian cotton crop is now estimated at 5,200,000 bales, or 800,000 bales less than last year, which is expected to ultimately result in a better demand for American. Spot cotton closed 5 to 10 points lower, with New Orleans, New York, and Houston 12.65 cents and Galveston 12.70 cents per pound. Prices follow:

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Active buying of United States government bonds with attendant gains of 1-32d to 16-32ds point for most of the issues featured dealings in the bond market today. Eight of the various treasury issues established new highs, including the 3¼s of 1934, up 7-32ds, and the 3⅜s of 1940, up 4-32ds. Liberties were quiet and only slightly changed, while Home Owners' Loan 3s advanced 5-32ds.

Dealings in the government issues totaled $3,503,500, or approximately twice the volume of the previous day. Total trading was $13,429,000, compared with $11,575,000 the day before.

Corporation Issues Firmer.

Domestic corporation bonds moved irregularly higher. The higher grade issues received far better support than did the lower rate issues of the group, several of the former touching new 1934-'35 highs, including Armour & Co. 5½s, Bell Telephone 5s, Cincinnati Union Terminal 4½s, and Norfolk and Western 4s.

Reflecting the proposed legislation to permit a telegraph merger, the communications issues were generally strong. Postal Telegraph 5s moved up 1½ points in heavy dealings, as Western Union and International Telephone and Telegraph issues showed fractional variations. American Telephone and Telegraph obligations closed firm.

Some of Rails Decline.

Some of the active railroad issues sold lower, including obligations of the Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago Union Station, Chicago and North Western, Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, Wabash, and Western Pacific.

In the lower priced group advances up to a point were shown by obligations of Portland Gas and Electric, Utah Power and Light, Warner-Quinlan, and Detroit Edison. Bush Terminal 5s were 3⅝ points higher.

In the foreign group German loans continued to move irregularly higher. French, Belgian, and Italian government issues were easier in quiet trading. Latin-American bonds closed steady to firm.

Columbus Ry. Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: I am enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope. I own several shares of 6 per cent preferred stock of Columbus Railway, Light and Power. Please advise as to the stability of this investment.—Y. W. G.

Answer: Columbus Railway, Power and Light company is part of the United Light and Power system. It furnishes about 90 per cent of the electric light and power business in Columbus, O., and vicinity. The remaining 10 per cent is done by the municipality. The company also operates the street railway system in that district.

After the voters of Columbus, O., approved extension of municipal facilities the company submitted a revised rate schedule calling for rate reduction of 18 per cent, retroactive to Nov. 15, 1933. On Nov. 6, 1934, the schedule was accepted by the voters of the city. Accumulated refunds aggregated about $750,000. The municipality proposed to expend $1,144,000 on municipal plant improvement and expansion.

Gross revenues for the 12 months to Sept. 30, 1934, totaled $8,866,000, and net income was $1,217,000, or $14.59 per share of first preferred 6 per cent stock.

1933....	$8,957,000	$1,893,000	$22.70
1932....	9,109,000	2,294,000	27.61
1931....	8,854,000	2,582,000	31.55
1930....	9,607,000	3,061,000	37.39

Current position at the close of 1933 was satisfactory. Funded debt, none of which will mature prior to 1939, totaled $24,159,000. There were outstanding 83,388 shares of 6 per cent cumulative $100 par first preferred on which dividends have been paid regularly.

Past record of earnings entitles the first preferred stock to a fairly good rating. The sharp drop in earnings during 1934, as indicated by the 12 months to Sept. 30, indicate, however, that the company is not immune to those adverse factors which are today generally affecting utilities.

No Accrued Interest Here.

Investors' Guide: I have a St. Louis and San Francisco 5 per cent prior lien bond due in 1950. As there is about $125 accrued interest due on this bond I would like to know whether I would be paid this accrued interest at the time of sale if I should sell the bond.—S. B. W.

Answer: No, you would not obtain accrued interest on the bond. They are traded in "flat," without provision for accrued interest, although the bonds should carry all defaulted coupons in order to constitute good delivery.

WHEAT LOWER; CANADA EXPORT SUBSIDY FEARED

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Frightened selling occasioned by reports that Canada is preparing to subsidize wheat exports yesterday knocked down wheat prices a cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade, following which an upward reaction set in and erased about half the loss. The decline and the rally were indicative of uneasiness not only over the Canadian situation, which is regarded as a threat to the world price structure, but also over the domestic monetary situation.

Trading yesterday was comparatively light. The public has been scared away from the market by prospective deflation in domestic prices as a possible outgrowth of a decision in the gold clause cases.

Canada Rumor Not Confirmed.

The rumors Canada is getting ready to subsidize exports as a means of paring down her huge surplus of wheat found no confirmation in official quarters. In fact, official denials were received but they failed to allay the uneasiness. Such a move on the part of Canada would again put her in a competitive position with Argentina and Australia for world markets and might lead to substantial importations into this country.

The liquidation which developed in the futures market here upon the receipt of the Canadian rumors abated when denials were received. After dropping 1¼ cents a bushel to 96⅝ cents, May wheat recovered partially and closed ⅝ cent lower for the day. Other grains followed the same trend. Closing prices on the May futures were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$0.97¼	$0.97⅝	$0.95½
Corn	.86⅛	.86⅝	.84⅝
Oats	.52⅛	.52½	.50⅝
Rye	.67	.67¾	.66⅝

Usual Market Factors Ignored.

The steady shrinkage in domestic supplies of wheat, the weather conditions prevailing in the grain belt and the condition of the winter crops appear to be secondary market factors at the moment. The domestic monetary question and the problem of disposition of the Canadian surplus are taking precedence over all other matters in the interest of speculators.

The ominous shadow of the big surplus that Canada has piled up is awakening fears of its potential threat to world prices. The hope of a few months ago that Europe would finally come around to pay Canada's price is rapidly ebbing and Canada seems to be in a fair way to succeed Argentina as the trouble maker in the world grain situation.

BRAND RUMOR MALICIOUS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 22.—A rumor reported in today's cable from Broomhall, Liverpool wheat authority, that Canada was planning to subsidize wheat exports to the extent of 15 cents a bushel was denied by John I. McFarland, manager of the Canadian government selling agency and of the wheat pool. He branded it false and malicious propaganda.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable closed easy today at net declines of 15 to 16 points. Business was not as active as recently, with a turnover of 67 contracts. The setback in lard where losses of 19 to 22 points were established and the easy position of the grain markets seemed to unsettle sentiment. Crude oil was firmer, however, at 9.75c bid in the southeast, valley and Texas. Bleachable spot nominal; January closed 10.95c per lb; March and May, 11.05c; July, 11.06c.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Crude rubber futures closed quiet, 5@10 points lower. January, •12.90c per lb; March, 13.04-07c; May, 13.18-20c; July, 13.33-35c. Smoked ribbed spot closed •12.90c. •Nominal.
